

Something New in the Line of Maps for Sunday Schools

By a process recently perfected we are able to give any map a slate surface without in the least spoiling the legibility of the map. The map thus treated can be written upon with crayons and the marks erased with a dry or wet cloth without injury to the map. This increases effectiveness of the map tenfold. Any feature of the map can be emphasized by means of chalk so as to be clearly visible by every pupil. Data not in the map can be put in for the time being.

We are prepared to supply any map now on the market SLATED, but have space to mention only the following:—
