A young man named Fraser has told a story which supports that told by Bland, the man who sat on the office doorstep and didn't see anything or about the express office. Fraser says he watched Bland from a distance of a few blocks when the latter was on the doorstep. He then went direct to where the chums were and sat down beside him. The latter was awake and in every way capable of observing anything going on. Fraser saw Bland express office and was there until Burgess ran out the next morning. He also says that nearly a dozen of the usual frequenters of the express office were there on the day about as usual. He gave their names and all have been examined and nothing whatever of interest obtained.

Long Feet Concern The French government has long felt concern of the needy circumstances of nearly every person in the colony, which had caused an extensive exodus during the past ten years. Measures for relief were begun, a committee organized in Paris, composed of men of the highest standing in business and shipping circles. This, with these men behind the operations of the travelers, the Plerois cannot understand the move which threatens extinction to their only business.

That France should seek to uphold conditions here is regarded as unnatural by everybody here. The French navy was built around the intrepid mariners of the Miquelon. Then, too, the harbor of St. Pierre is the only available rendezvous for the "metropolitan" fishing fleet which, each year, comes to this vicinity from the French ports of Brest and St. Nazaire. This fleet averages 300 ships and 10,000 men, but has been seriously depleted by disasters. An element of unrest has frequently entered into the life of the colony. It might almost be said to have existed since the placing into operation of the bait act by Great Britain in 1888, by which the St. Pierre fishermen were prevented from securing bait in the adjacent ports of Newfoundland. The most recent disturbance was that which occurred in December over the action of the government in closing the schools in which religion was taught. At this time the silent grievances of years came to the surface and headed by an American agent, the colonists made a great demonstration. The sight of the American flag proved the inception of a short-lived movement to have the colony annexed to the United States.

The feeling that government under the United States flag would result in a cessation of the barren struggle for their meagre existence had long been regarded by her kin as dead for the past thirty-six years. Mrs. Harry Barton was united at last to her brother, John Norton, janitor of the Bank of Commerce building, St. John, N. B., who has been under the apprehension all this long time that his sister was dead. She was in the water for a week. She was in the water for a week. She was in the water for a week.

GLARE THE FILTERS! Your Health Depends On It. In its course through the body the blood is continually gathering up waste matter—worn out tissue and other impurities. Then it flows through the kidneys, which should filter out all this poisonous material and empty it into the bladder. But sometimes the kidneys get sluggish and clogged up with waste matter, and fail to do their work properly. Then the trouble begins. Instead of leaving the kidneys pure and life-giving, the blood comes out still loaded with poisons. Rheumatism, with its untold sufferings, is the result. The natural, sensible course then is to clear the filters—the kidneys—with "Father Morrissey's No. 7." One tablet three times a day, followed by a glass of cold water, will bring relief in a very short time. Urine will limber up, the blood will be purified, and the Rheumatism cured—see at your druggist's, or from Father Morrissey Medicine Co., Chatham, N. B.

PROPOSED MOVE A DEATH BLOW TO 2,000 MEN TO PARADE HERE

Steam Trawls From France Will Ruin St. Pierre Fishing. Colony Unhappy Over Their Coming—May Leave En Masse—Revive Talk of Annexation.

ST. PIERRE, Mig., May 30.—A contest in the measures furthered in France for the repopulation and restoration of industrial activity of this little island colony, the lone remnant of France's once great dominion in North America, will probably result in a hastening of the depopulation of the fishing grounds and probably the abandonment of the colony by the remaining five thousand persons. A movement, which at present does not amount to more than uneasiness, but which is likely to gather strength with little fuel, has been aroused by the announcement that the fishing boats and steam-trawling vessels have sailed from France to operate this season on the banks off St. Pierre. The wholesale slaughter of fish, accompanying the use of steam-trawling vessels will not only jeopardize the hand-line fishery of the Plerois, but will, it is feared, deplete the fishing grounds. The fisheries are the life-sustenance of the inhabitants, and the loss would be virtually a death blow.

Every hand in the city, with one exception, has been engaged for the day, and besides these Moncton, Fredericton and St. Stephen are being asked to send their delegations. The reports of the general sub-committees were received and acted upon. It was given out Saturday night that some two thousand Orangemen will be in attendance, and the parade which will be the chief feature of the affair, is destined probably to be a memorable one.

While definite plans of the celebration are not in hand as yet the programme is assuming shape, and it is thought that but a few days will elapse before it is completed. The several sub-committees are busy engaged with the work delegated to each and a general meeting is held every Saturday night at which the results are given out and acted upon. It has not been finally fixed as yet as to who the speakers are to be.

Plans for the monster Orange demonstration to be held in the city on July twelfth were advanced a further stage Saturday night, when at a meeting of the general committee held in the Orange Hall the reports of the several sub-committees were received and acted upon.

New Ladies' College of Brick and Stone Within a Year Magnificent Assembly Hall in Memory of Mr. and Mrs. Fawcett Yesterday's Closing Exercises--Degrees and Prizes

SACKVILLE, N. B., May 31.—The sun rose fine and clear this morning, much to the satisfaction of the hundreds of visitors at Mt. Allison closing exercises. The first event of the day was the physical culture drill of the Ladies' College campus. One hundred and twenty young ladies, prettily clad in white with Eton collars and Windsor ties, went through various movements and evolutions in a manner that elicited much favorable comment.

The concert given in Lingley Hall this morning by students of the Ladies' College and the conservatory of Music was one of exceptional interest. Every number was given in a manner which not only delighted the large audience which gathered, but which reflected great credit upon the pianist part and upon their teachers. Among the most pleasing of the numbers was the piano solo by Miss Jessie Allan of Sackville. Her playing was that of a most brilliant player, and this morning she was heard at her best. Miss Foster of Windsor, N. S., showed good piano and artistic feeling in her number by David-Liszt. Miss Melancon in her violin number, displayed excellent brilliancy. Her technique in particular was deserving of the highest praise.

AFTER SUFFERING TEN YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound MARY, N. J.—I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given me new life. I suffered for ten years with serious female troubles, including irregular menstruation, indigestion, nervousness, and a could not sleep. Doctors gave me up, as they said my troubles were chronic. I was in despair, and did not care whether I lived or died, when I read in the paper that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been cured. I began to take it, and am well again and relieved of all my suffering. Mrs. Elizabeth J. Fox, of Marlinton, W. Va., writes: "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no harmful or dangerous drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and is the only medicine that has cured thousands of young women who have been cured from every form of female complaints, inflammation, irregular menstruation, indigestion, and nervousness. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It is free, and always helpful."
