O.H.A. CAMPAIGN OPENED LAST NIGHT

Ingersoll and Berlin Junior Teams Were the Winners.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Week shooting by London and total lack of competition was responsible for an eight-to-two victory gained by the Ingersoll septette in the initial O.H.A. junior game of the local season played before a fair crowd at the Princess Rink last night.

The Ingersoll lads were in very much better condition and looked very speedy. London has a fine outfit on paper, and it is possible that they will trim up to expectations.

HERBERT OF OTTAWA FOR MURPHY'S TEAM

OTTAWA, Dec. 30.—Goalkeeper Sammy Herbert, who starred for New Edinburgh against the Toronto Rowing Club two weeks ago, was landed yesterday by Freddie Lake for the Ontarios. He had turned down an offer from Ottawa, but Jimmie Murphy gave him a big offer and Herbert left. They have not been after Goalie Benedict.

LIVELY INTEREST IN TOWNSHIP AFFAIRS

going to run for reeve, and in reply Mr. Jennings had said: "Well, as you see here, if you want another year you can have it." The reeve, however, neglected to tell one little portion about it, and Mr. Jennings shaking hands over the bargain. He went on to state that at the meeting recently in Parkdale that he had revealed Mr. Jennings from his promise. His experience extended over a period of five years, and because of that he was fitted for the office. The reeve then gave an explanation of the cause of the deficit.

Proposed Mr. Jennings.

Mr. Thomas Clark who had nominated the Hudson Jennings for reeve was the next speaker. The large crowd present reminded him of old days, and it showed him that the people were interested in the welfare of the township. In proposing Mr. Jennings, he did so believing he was fully qualified. It was he who had first insisted Mr. Jennings become a councillor. Since he became a member of the council he had not heard a word said against him. While he did not wish to say anything against Mr. Kendrick, he remembered that when Sir John A. Macdonald died that many people said: "What will become of the country now." (Applause). When Sir Wilfrid was removed there was the same cry, but the country had gone on just the same. When dealing with the fact that the estimates had been exceeded he stated he could understand this because of the price of material.

Mr. Alexander.

Mr. J. R. Alexander who had seconded Mr. Jennings nomination, said that Mr. Clark had fully covered the situation. He was sorry that a difference had arisen between Mr. Jennings and Mr. Kendrick. He had found them both good men.

Mr. Jennings.

Mr. Jennings said that he had served the Township for three years and during that time he had never been absent from a meeting. He had done all he could towards the welfare of the township and he believed the township's money had been well spent. When he invested a dollar he wanted a dollar's worth, and he had carried this idea out when dealing with the township's money.

Continuing he stated that Mr. Kendrick had told his side of it. At the first meeting of the County Council, Mr. Kendrick had asked him and Mr. McCann to vote for Cook for Warden. The next day it transpired that he was out himself for Warden. After he had promised Mr. Kendrick not to run for reeve he had been besieged by voters and told that he should not have promised such a thing. When he asked Mr. Kendrick to release him he received the reply that he (Kendrick) would use it against him. At the Parkdale meeting Mr. Kendrick had released him from the promise upon the electors wanting to know what was what. Mr. Kendrick had stated that he wished to reeve because there were important questions coming up. The speaker thought there never was a man, but another could be found just as good. If elected he would try and reduce the overdraft and keep the taxes down.

Went After Him

When Mr. Jennings had concluded his remarks he went after Mr. Kendrick just as hard as he could get at him. The crowd clapped and laughed, and the chairman was on the point of calling "order" several times, but kept his seat because he would have been wasting his breath. The exchange of words was very fast. Mr. Kendrick claimed that he was nominated for the Wardenship before Mr. McCann and referred Mr. Jennings to the records of the proceedings. He went on to state that he secured 6 votes and Mr. Cook 4.

Proposed Mr. Batson.

The first year Mr. Herbert T. Batson was in the council he had not put himself forward, being somewhat of a retiring nature, stated Mr. Young who had nominated him. He had found Mr. Batson an honest man and he hoped that the electors would feel that they could vote for him.

Mr. Sturgis.

Mr. A. E. Sturgis in seconding Mr. Batson's nomination said he believed that Mr. Batson had earned the position and the electors could not do better than elect him.

Speaking of roads he stated there was a lot of work to be done. There should be permanent work done in order that the taxpayer might reap a benefit extending over a period of years. Mr. Batson had proven himself very worthy while a member of the council, therefore the electors could not do better than return him.

Mr. Batson

Mr. Batson thanked those who had moved and seconded his nomination and those who had supported him last year. He was again a candidate for second deputy reeve and solicited the electors support. When he looked at the statement he almost got cold feet. There had been a lot of money spent and he concluded that if the electors just gave the councillors of the last year, enough they would hang themselves. He would like to see the grant for building roads increased one-half and permanent work done. He would also like to see the railroads assessed higher. In conclusion he promised his best to the township.

Nominated Mr. McCann

Mr. Fred W. Billio who nominated Mr. Arthur J. McCann stated that Mr. McCann had made the liveliest deputy-reeve the township had had for some time and he had set a pace for those who followed.

He Was Pleased

Mr. J. R. Alexander who seconded the nomination stated that Mr. McCann had made a first-class deputy-reeve. Mr. McCann had always been asked to respond when his services as a deputy-reeve were required. It pleased Mr. Alexander very much that Mr. McCann had opposed the securing of a special officer to investigate the recent Bow Park fire. The securing of the officer would have been an expense which would have had to be borne by the electors. If a farmer lost his horse he had to pay for his own investigation, therefore he believed a rich corporation such as controlled Bow Park, should pay for their own investigation. He then stated that it gave him much pleasure to second the nomination.

Mr. McCann Speaks

Mr. McCann first of all thanked the electors for the support they had given him at the last election. As far as the finances went he had been at the council meetings and helped to spend the money. When Mr. Batson was in the council a breakwater had been built and that was now down the river. There had also been spent other money that should not have been. If elected he would give the ratepayers a fair and square deal and therefore asked their support.

Elected by Acclamation

Because Mr. Rupert Greenwood had been acclaimed on the remarks of Mr. Orlo Fawcett and Mr. Thomas Hargraves who seconded the nomination were very brief. Mr. Greenwood in replying said that he did not think that there was a single man present who did not think that more money would have to be spent in the township. "Yep! at the White School House," from somebody in the crowd at the back of the room.

Continuing Mr. Greenwood stated that he did not think that the tax rate would be lowered because there was much work to be done. Patch work had been done until the money could be secured with which to do permanent work. The government was thinking of taxing the automobile; why not the township tax the autos and have the handling of the money because in this way he believed the township would reap a greater benefit. He was in favor of having an inspector appointed to look after the work for which the township was paying.

For Councillors.

Mr. Morgan E. Harris was nominated for councillor by Mr. Alex. McEwen. In speaking of Mr. Harris, Mr. McEwen stated that he did not think any mistake would be made in electing Mr. Harris. He was well-known to the electors and had had experience.

Mr. Thos. Clark, who seconded the nomination, made similar remarks.

Mr. Harris thanked those who had moved and seconded his nomination, and stated that he had not wished to run, but had been prevailed upon to become a candidate. Some of the men he had been told had been brought out to represent one district; he would serve all sections of the township. A district could not expect more than it paid in. He was quite surprised that while investigating Hydro Electric, the farming section of the township had not been given consideration. He believed it would be a great thing for the farmer.

Mr. James Young, who nominated Mr. John Symington, stated that he had always found Mr. Symington to be an honest man. He was nominated partly to represent Parkdale, but Mr. Young felt that Mr. Symington would look to the interests of the entire township.

In seconding the nomination, Mr. Fred Billio stated that he thought Mr. Harris had taken a job on his hands when he undertook to look after the entire township. It had been found that one man could not do this. The Parkdale residents were satisfied with what the last township council had done. It had been deemed advisable to have some one on the council who would represent Parkdale. In conclusion, Mr. Billio said "Mr. Symington is well spoken of, and is supposed to be honest." This was considered quite humorous.

Mr. Symington was very pleased to see so many in attendance. Previous to last year, Parkdale had never got anything from the Township Council worth speaking of. A grant was secured last year from the council, and with the grant four times the work which the township had been doing was done with the money was accomplished. "And if elected, I will look after Parkdale sure," said Mr. Symington. Continuing, he said that he had the time at his disposal and therefore gave to the duties of the office. In conclusion, he said he could not ask all the electors to vote for him, but he would like 90 per cent of the electors to support him. This was, of course, said merely as a joke.

Mr. James Miller, who nominated Mr. Robert Geddie, for councillor, said that he did not think he was the councillor living in one district. There were times when a councillor was wanted in his district they were some distance away. He believed that

Mr. Geddie would make a good man for the office.

Mr. Richard Sanderson, the second, agreed with Mr. Miller in what he had said, and further added that while he did not think an overdraft should exist, the council had done well.

Mr. Geddie stated that when he had read the financial report he almost got cold feet, in fact he got yellow, and he felt that he would have preferred to enter the jail rather than see the council. He did not think that a township holding an assessment which the Township of Brantford did, should be going behind. "This report is a beauty, and the most beautiful part is the mistake," said the speaker. He thought the report should be more in detail. While he agreed that the township should have good roads, he believed the next council should try and reduce the deficit. He was not in favor of exempting grants that carry with them the expenditure twice as large as the grant. He would not consent to debentures being issued which was a form of mortgaging the township. The township should be able to pay its way.

Mr. Sanderson, who proposed Mr. James A. Scace said that while he was certainly in favor of what Mr. Scace had done for the township, he advised Mr. Scace to go slower.

Mr. C. T. Wood, Mr. Scace's second, spoke well of the ability of Mr. Scace, and of him as a man. Speaking of roads, Mr. Wood stated that he did not think the township should go further into debt before those who were destroying the roads were taxed.

Mr. Scace said that when he was about to enter the council, he was afraid of the extent of the work how he would be received, and of himself. With modesty he stated that he believed that he had done fairly well, and would next year serve the township probably a little better. He would not undertake to serve the whole township, enough was enough. The present year had been decidedly disastrous, the roads had culverts being in a decidedly bad condition. The conditions made it necessary to spend money freely. Mr. Scace figured it out that it was better that the work be done than to have to pay many times the cost in damages. He was looking at the situation from a business standpoint, being a business man and business people take precautions. The optimist had said to go ahead and do the work, others had advised to go careful, but he believed there surely was a happy medium. If anything was to be done towards good roads immediately, the township electors must take the matter in hand. He believed that it would be a good move to meet and discuss the road question. He stated for the benefit of Mr. Harris that Hydro power was available; all the farmer had to do was to signify that he wanted the power. He believed the electric power in the rural communities would be a solution of the labor problem. In conclusion, Mr. Scace asked for the support of the electors.

Provi nSu ccess A Kick About Coal Quality

Mr. T. H. Jenkins, Former Brantfordite, Gets High Praise.

Referring to the work of Mr. T. H. Jenkins, formerly of Brantford, but now in charge of technical classes at Moose Jaw, the Moose Jaw Times recently says: "It is little less than wonderful that this work, which commenced only some three months ago, should have achieved the present success. The fact that the percentage of attendance has risen to 75 per cent, and that the work is a fascination to its own, in the woodwork room, Mr. Jenkins endeavored to find the inclination of each student, and instructed him along that line, whatever that may be. Thus some of his men were at model work, some practical carpentry, such as making roofs, building staircases, hardwood doors, while others were at cabinet work. Those who preferred sheet metal work, copper work, forging, plumbing or engineering were taken to the Collegiate, where the equipment for those lines was installed. On one occasion Mr. Jenkins announced the commencement of a class in sheet metal work for some of his South Hill class, and on the first evening he had twelve stalwarts ready to go to work. Mr. Jenkins was an enthusiast. He knew his work, and he knows men. Last night's performance at the King Edward showed that he is anxious about his classes socially as well as in the trades. The school board are to be congratulated on securing Mr. Jenkins to take charge of these evening classes. His training has been thorough, and his experience broad. He is a product of the best technical colleges of England and United States. Combined with this his sincerity and unequalled desire to help make him a magnetic force in his work.

Mr. Scace said that when he was about to enter the council, he was afraid of the extent of the work how he would be received, and of himself. With modesty he stated that he believed that he had done fairly well, and would next year serve the township probably a little better. is by no means a rare thing these times, but it is a pity with us, because we take care to buy only the best grades of coal, as we know our customers would not buy from us any inferior qualities— not twice anyway. At it is our policy to keep our customers, we could not afford to give them any but the best coal, full weight, without dirt or rubbish and at a reasonable price.

"DISARM THE WORLD," SAYS PASTOR RITCHIE

An Address Delivered at Victoria Hall Sunday Afternoon.

Pastor Ritchie's subject was "International Peace. When? Why? How?" He said in part: "My subject would seem to indicate that we are in a time of great crisis. Meetings have been called in many lands to discuss the question of disarmament. War was wasteful, and many considered this the 'brain age'—the age of reason," surely it is timely to discuss a question in which all nations were interested, with regard to the making of a just treaty in the time spoken of by David, a yet what a strange paradox presents itself. These nations claiming to be the most civilized; the most Christianized; equipped themselves with the greatest amount of munitions of war, 72 per cent of the revenue used for war purposes, while 28 per cent used for all other purposes, education, public works, etc. To what extent have we been benefited by the 'ward march of civilization?' Was a Christian act for England to for by armed might the opium trade on China, a so-called uncivilized Christian nation, or for the United States to make unjust treaties with Japan, which was not civilized or Christianized, or to adopt the art of trickery and sharp practices? Surely such acts are far from the principle of the Golden Rule.

ALEXANDRA PRESBYTERIAN "Christian faithfulness the outcome of sacrifice" was the theme of Rev. D. T. McClintock for the morning service. Salvation has come to us through Christ's death, because Christ had died for us. Christ's death contains an ideal for us all. Christ expects from us a harvest of lives. His, if we live the Christian life, will find one more beside us. "Live the Christian life too. A solo," "In the secret of His Presence," was a thoughtfully sung by Miss Collins, of Ancaster and delightfully accompanied by Mrs. George Cromar. Prospection and introspection, as the pastor's theme for the closing service of the year, 1914. "Oh, in the Lord," was splendidly sung by Miss Della White during the service. The closing hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers" was enthusiastically sung by the choir and large congregation.

FIRST BAPTIST

Sunday was certainly a good day with us. The audiences were large and the interest deeply spiritual. The services, Dr. Brown, in the morning, assisted the pastor in the morning and preached the annual education sermon from the words, "I have 'My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge.' The attendance in the S. showed an increase of 50 over corresponding Sunday of last year. In the evening the church was crowded to the doors with many extra chairs in as well. The pastor preached on "The Jolly of delay." Three worshipped during the service. Next Sunday the 80th anniversary of the church will be observed.
