NOTICE.
When a newspaper offers its advertising space at a nominal figure, it is a practical admission of "no circulation." THE KLONDIKE NUGGET asks a good figure for its space and in justification thereof guarantees to its advertisers a paid circulation five times that of any other paper published between Juneau and the North Pole.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1900.

A SPONTANEOUS TRIBUTE.

In yesterday's issue of this paper was published exclusively the final results of the presidential election, returns having been received from all states excepting Kentucky. McKinley's majority in the electoral college, not counting the vote of Kentucky, is 169, and his popular plurality amounts to $45,011, the largest ever given to any presidential candidate. The vote given to Grant most nearly approached the number which McKinley has received, the former having a plurality of 727,630.

The figures given above entirely remove any ground for belief that the election of McKinley has been brought about through coercion or the employment of extensive bribery or other illegitimate campaign measures. Admirers of Bryan have fondly cherished the hope that when the returns were all in it would be discovered that the silver apostle, notwithstanding his loss of the electoral college, had swept the popular vote of the country with colors flying.

The feeling of confidence which Bryan's followers have manifested in the success of their candidate has been little less than sublime. Almost every influence that is commonly supposed to have a bearing upon the result of a political contest was against him, but still the great unwashed Democracy clung to their man with a faith which was indeed good to look upon. That faith was also supplemented by work of the very hardest and strongest order, but it was all in vain.

Uncle Sam has never yet turned down a war president, nor does he forget that Democracy is traditionally allied with hard times. The remarkably large vote which McKinley received demonstrates in a most significant manner how forcibly the latter fact has been impressed upon voters of the States. Cleveland's last administration wound up in a wail of woe such as never before had been heard in the land, but just as soon as McKinley was fairly seated, the sunshine of prosperity began again to return.

It is impossible to associate Bryanism with Clevelandism, but, nevertheless, both call themselves Democrats, and that alone was sufficient to ring the political death knell of Bryan.

Had the election in the States been in any respect a close one, there would have been very much of a cry of fraud and coercion, but the magnificent victory which the president has scored proves beyond question that the election was merely a spontaneous tribute to genuine worth.

QUARTZ CREEK.

Elsewhere in this issue of the Nugget we publish a review of conditions on Quartz creek written after a personal inspection of the creek by a representative of this paper. The report will be found well worth the reading as it furnishes information which will be largely in the nature of a surprise to many people who have never taken Quartz creek seriously into consideration.

As a matter of fact the creek, but more particularly the benches, are turning out splendidly, and the work for the winter bids fair to result most satisfactorily. Owners of ground on Quartz creek have gone about their business very quietly and without any particular demonstration or blowing of trumpets have concentrated their efforts upon actual work, with results which clearly speak for themselves. Quartz creek hereafter will be reckoned among the first rate creeks of the district, a position which it has attained by virtue of sheer merit.

It affords the Nugget much gratification to present so satisfactory a report of the operations now in progress. There can be little doubt that the spring cleanup will serve to justify in every way the future which our correspondent predicts for the creek.

A Story of John Morrissey.

Henry L. Dawes, of Pittsfield, Mass., successor of Charles Sumner in the senate, told the following story:

"When I was a judge in Pittsfield, Morrissey and Yankee Sullivan fought a prize fight at a neighboring place called Boston Corners. Sullivan was arrested and fined $1000. He handed over the money and went his way. A day or two later, while I was sitting on the bench, a fine looking man entered the courtroom and sent a letter up to me. It was from a friend of mine introducing John Morrissey. He, too, was fined $1000 and said to me that he would send me his check on his return to New York.

"Well, I didn't know what might happen if he was let go on that understanding, but I said to Morrissey that any arrangement for settlement which he made with the sheriff would be satisfactory. The sheriff, feeling as I did, insisted on having the fine paid in cash, and since Morrissey didn't happen to have that much cash with him the sheriff locked him up until the amount was sent on from New York.

"I fancied that Morrissey felt he owed me a grudge because of this incident. Years afterwards in Washington a number of congressmen were brought up to be introduced to me. Among them was Morrissey. When he came forward, he smiled and said, 'Mr. Dawes, I believe we have met before.'"

She "Sassed Her."

Some visitors to East Gloucester paid a special call upon the woman said to be the original of Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Ward's famous story, "A Madonna of the Tubs." Mrs. Phelps Ward's summer home, be it known, is in East Gloucester. The visitors found a typical New Englander with a self-evident capacity for taking care of herself.

"So you are the Madonna of the Tubs?" said the visitors.
"I am," said the New Englander.
"And Mrs. Phelps Ward wrote a beautiful story about you?"
"She did."

"Have you ever met Mrs. Ward?"
"I have. After she wrote that story she came round here one day and hunted me up. She said as how she wanted to see me for herself."

"How interesting!" murmured the visitors. "And what did you do?"
"Do?" repeated the Madonna of the Tubs. "What did I do? I sassed her well for writin' such a story as that about me. Such a pack of lies I never read. Why, there wasn't one-half of it true. And she had the face to come and see me afterward! Oh, I sassed her well, I did!"—New York Sun.

Pay Your Bets, Boys

There is no need of hanging back. Bryan did not have a ghost of a show, and McKinley's election is conceded. Accept defeat gracefully and give the boys an order on Harry Hershberg for a swell suit, if that was your bet. We have clothing adapted for social events, dress suits for instance, as well as fancy shirts and fine haberdashery. Dancing pumps also, in fact every requisite necessary for a gentleman's wearing apparel. Our clothing is tailor made [Stein-Bloch Co.]—You will find their trade mark on the garments. As we said before, accept defeat gracefully—Better luck next time.

STROLLER'S COLUMN.

The Stroller has all along contended that many men who came to the Klondike from the outside should have gone to asylums for feeble-minded. It is now evident that there are those other than the Stroller who are of that same opinion. The members of the Yukon council have awakened to the fact that there are more unsophisticated, "gold-durned fool" men in the Klondike than anywhere else on earth—men who are wholly unable to defend themselves and their pokes of gold from the wiles of the festive box ruller.

Yet it has come to such a pass that something must be done to protect the lords of creation against these fairies.

Why not organize a Men's Relief Association? Or better still, establish a "house of refuge" to which men who are not able to protect themselves could flee and over whose threshold the luring siren dare not pass under penalty of having to cut wood ten years with a rat-tail file.

Verily, you are a chromo!

"Do you know," said a frequenter of prize rings and a man who is an ardent admirer of the manly art, "that the name 'Kid,' in my estimation, queers a boy as soon as it is applied to him; and yet every pug in the country who can distinguish the right mitt from the left thinks it smart to be called 'Kid.' I have watched the matter for a number of years and have seen but one or two of these kids that even got past the amateur stage of pugilism. To my way of thinking, the boy who has no more sense than to wish to be known as 'Kid' never has it in him to become anything more than an ordinary terrier."

Corporal McPhail does not pose as a connoisseur, but he does think he knows good butter when he sees it. He has lately unearthed several tons of Union butter in the city which was being offered for sale for domestic consumption. "Union" is a good word in everything but butter, for in union there is strength.
