Writes a Letter and Stirs Up a Hornet's Nest.

Parliamentarians and Statesmen Discuss the Doctor's Sanity.

WAS A REGULAR FIELD DAY.

Without Gloves-Dawson From a Moral Standpoint.

From Saturday's Daily.

The 28th day of June last was another red letter day in the house of parliament. The proceedings of that day's session were about as lively as, when a year ago, Sir Charles Hit bert Tupper jumped into the middle of the arena and demanded a judicial investigation into the Yukon administration.

The recent hornets' nest was stirred up by no one other than Dr. Catto, of Dawson,, who attained fame last spring as the author of numerous resolutions which for some reason or other he could never have duly and properly considered at public meetings.

Apparently the doctor concluded to take the bull by the horns and so wrote a letter down to Ottawa, which was read in parliament on the above date mentioned by the Hon Mr. Bell, member of parliament from Pictou.

Portions of the letter only are produced here by reason of lack of space, but enough is produced to show pretty conclusively that Dr. Catto had his fighting clothes on and was out for blood.

The letter formed the basis for a discussion of several hours duration in the house, during the course of which the doctor was variously termed a "lunatic," "a vicious and immoral person," and numerous other equally choice epithets.

The following extracts from the letter will show its general trend and by the Liberal leaders in parliament "Do not suppose that I have written from an alien's point of view. Though Vam a stranger in Canada, I am a British subject, born in Scotland, and a graduate of two Scottish universites, and have many friends in all parts of Great Britain, who know that I would disdain to write a single word except in the interest of my country and in the interest of Canada.

"On whom then rests the responsibility of this chaotic administration of affairs on the Yukon? It rests on the government and its agents. Overcome by a sense of official importance, and drunk with unmerited power, they have been capricious, unjust, tyrannical and foolish. Stirred only by motives that are despicable, they have carved their country with a pitiless hand. In doing so, they have cut the conduits of all precious currents, moral, political and economic, that are the life-blood of a community-currents that, allowed to run in ther proper channels, would have been, in this case, a source of rejuvenation to Canada.

"Any one living for some time in Dawson finds that he is not living in a social community. There is no classification of the present inhabitants of the Yukon districts. They have, however, been forcibly and roughly cut into two divisions. The government, with its various rings; and the people; the armed and the defenceless, the oppressors and the oppressed, the gatherers of fines and taxes and their victims, the private dealers in monopolies and permits and the unwilling purchasers of monupolized goods; on the one side, those who sell, barter and give away not only the land, but the liberties of the Canadian people in such a manner as to raise a continual suspicion that they participate privately in the benefits they bestow; on the other, side, a there are 150 prostitutes, again a low people compelled to pay from their own estrmate, and we have a revenue of hard labored hands the price for which $26,400 from prostitution. ther lands and their libertles are bought

"Such was the treatment dealt us by large gambling saloons, in which the the commercial and industrial regula- tempt has been made to suppress gamaffairs whose name is legion,

"Observe how matters stand in consequence of the various changes in the into what is euphemistically called crown reserve, but more appropriately privately as he privately determines. Has he always been careful to dispose of this valuable reserve belonging to the people of Canada to absolutely reliable friends, deservers of their country's love? Much of this so-called crown reserve has already proved valuable. As time goes on the miners working on adjacent ground will give a it. In the meantime, it remains idle, costing the minister of the interior The Yukon Administration Handled kon territory are unable to find employment or ground to prospect. But they dare not touch this precious reserve, which already amounts to more than nine-tenths of the gold-bearing area of the Yukon district-a teritory larger than Great Britain. What do the people of Canada think of all this being in the hands of the minister of the interior and his estimable friends? Think of it-all this disposed of in acdecided by the minister of the interior.

The minister of the interior advertised these claims tor sale, with the usual governmental proviso that the highest or any offer would not necessarily be accepted. This, proviso, which works no mjustice when we are dealing with an administration that acts in good faith, reduced the sale to such an open farce that honest business men and miners who were not in the ring, and who knew the bold proclivities of the department of the interior, were well aware that it was useless for them to make an offer. Notwere far higher than those of Ottawa. offers, and sold their ground for less than one-twentieth part of its value?

"The Yukon policy of the minister of the interior is very simple. It is simply a policy of private aggrandizeto do is to suspend the laws for a short the water still rising steadily. time so as to declare a closure on the As soon as this condition was reached effect of converting the country into full capacity and running on fast scheminister of the interior.'

On the contrary, it has been in mining laws and the crimnical code of a manner, legalized by the sanction and Canada, and was already discredited by connivance of the police and the maggreat series of wholesale scandals in istrates, who collect the monthly reveconnection with the town site, the wa- nue from he tables in the shape of ter front, Dominion creek, Dominion what they call a fine. They may call it benches, and by a host of individual what they please. The plain English of it is that the government runs the gambling on something better than a percentage basis, because it collects the revenue whether the house has lost or mining regulations. All tractional won during the month. A man from claims, all groups of ten alternate each house goes to the 'sacred temple claims, all claims that have not been of justice,' and pleads guilty for the prospected and represented, now fall gambling fraternity of the house, and pays $56 per month for each of the gamblers in the house. We have heard of known as Sifton's reserve, since the one house paying $830 per month, and minister of the interior disposes of it Mr. Marjoriebanks informs us that his monthly contribution for gambling in the Horseshoe was $728. They wanted him to pay $500 extra because there were girls in the house. The direct revenue from gambling in Dawson city cannot be less than we formerly stated, namely, $67,200 per annum.

"This is not all. In each saloon there are arrangements from which the government draws $2500 per annum in prospective value to more and more of addition to the secret monopoly, for restoring the victimized miner to a state of physical and mental comfort, providnothing. Thousands of men in the Yu- ed he has enough money lett to pay for them. There is monopolized fire-water made in Dawson city, and called whisky, at the rate of 50 cents and $1 per glass. There is an invitation to an exhilarating dance; and then to the private boxes with the smile and comforting touch of perfumed ladies, dressed for their work, who order monopolized effervescing drinks called champagne, for which the miner has to pay at the rate of $30 per bottle( Complete intoxication follows, and the miner is cordance with section 16 of the mining arrested on the charge of drunkenness. regulations in such manner as may be The Yukon administration, which has been robbing him indirectly throughout "The claims in that Dominion creek, the whole performance, now comes forward courageously and empties his gold sack by a fine of $30 and costs. And Walsh, who had no more power to close this is called government. And thus hundreds of young men who never saw Yukon district, but nevertheless rati- the inside of a courtroom till they came here, are decoyed to slaughter in the Dawson 'temple of justice,'

"Prostitution is a crime in Canada, Dawson city contains several rows of women, perhaps 150, set apart by the government, publicly engaged in that trade. The police magistrates collect the revenue from the women in the shape of what they call a 'fine,' The plain English of it is that the government runs the public women of Dawson as a source of revenue, just as it runs the gamblers. "The law of Canada says you must not gamble in public; the administration says you may gamble in public, but you must not cheat a policeman, withstanding this, the Dawson offers and if you are a gambler by profession, you must pay $56 per mouth whether But the claims were sold to a ring in you cheat or not, whether you win or Ottawa for the price of a solitary third- lose.
