the Tugela river to get a drink of water in safety. I saw several men killed while getting a drink.

"In the attempt to relieve Ladysmith in which I was engaged, I had a very narrow escape. It happened this way. A shell came my way and hit my helmet. Having the chin strap under my chin the force of the blow knocked me down." knocked me down.

The only wound Mr. Johnston re-ceived was being struck in the hand by an almost spent bullet. He was in engagements at Tugela Heights, Laang's Nek, and Belfast, after which he went to the Eastern Transvaal and on returning to Colenzo get in with some of the Canadians. 'They are the finest lot of men I ever came in contact with and have a good name all over South Africa.

"While in Middleburg," he continued, "we were called to Pan to repair a line which had been blown up by the Boers and while on the way the carriage we were in was blown with

When asked what he thought of the treatment of Buller, he said,—
"Buller is without doubt the finest and best general I was ever under,
and I would follow him anywhere.
He is being shamefully treated at home. I travelled," continued he,
"through the Transvaal, Orange River Colony, Cape Colony and ended on the line building blockhouses between De Aar and Kimberley."

Mr. Johnston has the Queen's chocolate which she sent to all the soldiers safe and untouched in its box, and he says it will always remain so.

He left the Cape on the 7th of December, 1901, and went to England, landing at Liverpool on the 7th day of Jan. 1902. He left Liverpool for Chatham on the 18th, and, arrived here on the 27th, coming by way of New York

Mr. Johnston did not come to this country when his father and mother did, but stayed in England with an aunt, and this is the first time he has been in this country. His accent is decidedly English and he is a fine specimen of the soldier.

That the merry making season with its gift-giving is over, the housekeeper's thoughts are free to turn again to the needs of the home

'Tis in this store that the tasteful and thrifty owner of a home will find largest opportunity for supplying those needs.

Whether you want a Carpet, a Rug, Curtains, Drapery or Upholstery we will supply worthy and artistic goods, such as any housekeeper may well be proud of.

True, the offerings are ever changing. Kaleidoscopic in variety, but fixed unmovable in merit.

Have you all the Rugs you need? Remember 'tis rugs that give character to a home. A rich red rug glaring before the grate in the library; a large square in the dining room; a strip or runner in the hallthese afford a touch of elegance Reproductions of art of the far east, may be seen to-day in thousands of Canadian homes. Where it is missing it is more of a hesitation about the cost than for a lack of taste for it.

Our present collection of coverings and draperies will afford many people the opportunity to indulge their oriental fancies with entire forgetfulness of extravagance.

Another suggestion :- Now's the best time if you have furniture to be recovered, to have it looked after. Better now than later. Our workmen can serve you promptly and at reasonable prices. It will cost you nothing to see what it will cost.
