Miscellaneous.

As an after-dinner pill, to strengthen the stomach, assist digestion, and correct any bilious tendencies, Ayer's Pills are considered the best. Being sugar-coated, they are as agreeable as any confection, and may be taken by the most delicate.

Some philosopher has truly said that at twenty we know, at thirty we think we know, and at forty we give it up.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold, a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by E. Lee Street.

The difficulty with the young is they don't do as the old folks advise, but as they have done.

Edward Linlef, of St. Peters, C. B., says—'That his horse was badly torn by a pitchfork. One bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT cured him.'

Livery Stable men all over the Dominion tell our agents that they would not be without MINARD'S LINIMENT for twice the cost.

When a man is fortunate in business he attributes the fact to his ability. When he is unfortunate he bewails his bad luck.

'Oh, if I had only taken this medicine earlier in life, what years of suffering it would have saved me!' was the touching exclamation of one who had been cured of rheumatism by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Scores of such cases are on record.

Minard's Liniment for Sale everywhere.

'Whew how my stomach aches.' Take Johnson's Anodyne Liniment in sweetened water.

It is difficult sometimes to determine between a broken heart and a torpid liver.

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford, for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We knew from experience that Shiloh's Cure will not cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by E. Lee Street.

Minard's Liniment relieves Neuralgia.

Even the definition of the phrase good weather depends entirely on the point of view, remarked the man who has umbrellas to hire.

FOR IMPOVERISHED BLOOD.

B. Jardine, North Sydney, C. B., writes:—'I suffered from weakness and improverished blood, and only found relief in Pink Pills. I heartily recommend them.' All dealers or by mail at 50c a box or 6 boxes for $2.50. Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N. Y. Beware of imitations.

Don't be deceived with imitation; take only McLean's Vegetable Worm Syrup.

Money goes fast under almost any circumstances, but one way of ever expediting its natural speed is putting it on a horse.

No child will refuse to take McLean's Worm Syrup, pleasant and effectual.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

Benevolence often hides its rights under a bushel so well that the poor man does not know where to look for him.

SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY.

A marvelous cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth, and Headache. With each bottle there is an ingenious nasal injector for the more successful treatment of these complaints without extra charge. Price 50c. Sold by E. Lee Street.

He—I should think so dissipated a fellow would be awfully afraid to meet his mother-in-law. She—He never will. She's in heaven.

Buckingham's Dye for the whiskers is a popular preparation in one bottle, and colors evenly a brown or black. Any person can easily apply it at home.

Answer This Question

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75c. we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by E. Lee Street.

When all else fails, woman can console herself with the thought that marriage is still a worthy occupation though a trifle risky.

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, &c.

MONTREAL, July 25.—The Star publishes the following cable, dated London, July 25: At a meeting of the board of directors of the Grand Trunk railway of Canada it was decided that Sir Henry Tyler, president, and Mr. Hubbard, the new director and vice president of the English board of the Great North-western railway, proceed to Canada about the middle of August to examine thoroughly into the working system of the entire line. They will be accompanied on their tour of inspection by several American and Canadian railway experts. The principle object of the visit of Sir Henry and Mr. Hubbard is to reduce materially the working expenses of the railway, especially in the way and works departments. The board decided that the expenses must be reduced to the lowest reasonable point.

Youth's Corner.

TWENTY TIMES A DAY.

Twenty times a day, dear,
Twenty times a day,
Your mother thinks about you,
At school, or else at play.
She's busy in the kitchen,
Or she's busy up the stair,
But like a song her heart within
Her love for you is there.

There's just a little thing, dear,
She wishes you would do.
I'll whisper, 'tis a secret,
Now mind, I tell it you.
Twenty times a day, dear,
And more, I've heard you say,
'I am coming in a minute,
When you should at once obey.

At once, as soldiers, instant
At the motion of command;
At once, as sailors seeing
The captain's warning hand.
You could make the mother happy
By minding in this way,
Twenty times a day, dear,
Twenty times a day.

A LESSON AFTER SCHOOL.

Alice, aged ten, came home from school with an exceedingly damp aspect, and dissolved into tears on entering the room.

'What is the matter, my dear?'

'I was pro-pro-o-moted; and the teacher's awful cross! She ex-ex-pects me to know things when I do-on't-t know 'em.'

'Promoted! Why, how nice! You didn't expect to be!'

'It isn't nice at all, mamma. And she's beginning to tell us about adjectives and verbs and things! And its horrid! It's too hard! I don't like such hard lessons. If I was only as big as you, I'd never have to learn any. Oh, dear! Oh, dear! I don't see why we must learn such hard things!'

'But the lessons I learn are a great deal harder, dear. If you had to learn my lessons, what would you do?'

'You don't learn any lessons,' said Alice, laughing, through her tears. Paul looked up from his book, and Nellie from her crocheting, and joined in the laugh.

'I don't? Well, you are mistaken, all of you. I am older, and so my lessons are harder than yours, of course. They are not about adjectives or verbs, it is true; but I don't like them any the better on that account, and I very often make as much fuss about the learning as you do.'

'Nellie's eyes grew round, and the corners of Paul's quizzical mouth twitched as he watched her wondering stare.

'Sometimes, I think,' slowly said Mamma, looking through the window up into the sky, while three pairs of young eyes noted her far-away glance—'sometimes I think, children, that I ought never to find fault with you, for I cry and rebel over my lessons far worse than any of you. I feel this way. I can't understand why I must learn such hard things.'

'Why, that's exactly the way I feel!' exclaimed Nell.

'But my teacher is very firm. When he says 'must' I have to obey. I may struggle and get angry, or cry. I may say 'I won't, or 'It is too hard'; but in the end I have to learn my lesson just the same. And as soon as I have finished one lesson my teacher sets me another, and it is always a little more difficult than the last.'

'Ah!' said Paul, with a deep-drawn breath.

'And then I make the same struggle and fight as before; but it is just as useless, you know, dears; I have to learn it, just the same.'—'Exchange.'

A SHIRKING BOY.

A neatly dressed, bright enough looking boy came to reply for a situation as office-boy in response to an advertisement inserted in a daily paper by a gentleman with whom it would be an advantage to any boy to be associated. The duties were not irksome, the pay was more than office-boys are usually paid, and the boy would have the kindest treatment. But before the gentleman could ask the boy the few questions he wished to ask him, the boy began a little catechism of his own.

'How many hours a day would I have to be here?' he asked.

'From eight until six o'clock.'

'I know some office-boys who get off at five every day,' said the boy.

'I would need you until six.'

'How long a time would I have at noon?'

'An hour—from twelve until one.'

'Some boys get an hour and a half. Would I have to be here at exactly eight every morning?'

'It would be best for you to make a rule to be here every morning at that time. Boys ought to learn to be punctual.'

'Well, there isn't generally much to do that early in the morning, and I thought maybe it wouldn't make any difference if I didn't get here at just eight every morning. I suppose you wouldn't want me to go out any on my own account if it happened to be a dull day and you didn't need me.

'I couldn't tell just when I would need you. Besides, if I paid you for your time between six and eight o'clock, that time would rightfully belong to me.'

'Do you ever give any half-holidays?'

'Not often.'

"German Syrup"

Here is an incident from the South—Mississippi, written in April, 1890, just after the Grippe had visited that country. "I am a farmer, one of those who have to rise early and work late. At the beginning of last Winter I was on a trip to the City of Vicksburg, Miss., where I got well drenched in a shower of rain. I went home and was soon after seized with a dry, hacking cough. This grew worse every day, until I had to seek relief. I consulted Dr. Dixon who has since died, and he told me to get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. Meantime my cough grew worse and worse and then the Grippe came along and I caught that also very severely. My condition then compelled me to do something. I got two bottles of German Syrup. I began using them, and before taking much of the second bottle, I was entirely clear of the Cough that had hung to me so long, the Grippe, and all its bad effects. I felt tip-top and have felt that way ever since." PETER J. BRIALS, Jr., Cayuga, Hines Co., Miss.

Farm and Household.

THE HOME.

THE SICK IN SUMMER.

The nursing of the sick in summer is even a more difficult task than in winter. In winter there is abundance of fresh, pure air, and a proper temperature may be easily attained by the use of artificial heat. In summer, on the contrary, the heat cannot be controlled. Pure air is not always possible in all localities, where the neglect of one or two careless neighbors, with slovenly kept dooryards, may fill the atmosphere with the poison of decaying vegetation or some other nuisance. These difficulties are against the invalid sufferers in country or town, and require extra care on the part of the nurse.

A wise physician has said that a good nurse is a woman, thoroughly healthy and alert in all her five senses. She must have good sight, in order that she may watch the slightest changes in the patient, catch a motion of the eye, the tips of the fingers, and see in a moment what is wanted. She must have quick hearing to catch the slightest whisper of a weak invalid. She must have a sensitive as well as a soft touch, that she may note the most delicate changes in the skin and may test the temperature of hot applications that may be ordered. It is especially necessary that she have a correct and acute sense of smell, so she may detect the slightest impurity in the atmosphere of the sick room. Her taste must be correct, in order that she may test the food to see that it is properly cooked. A good nurse should be also a good cook, and at the best training schools for nurses a course of lectures with manual training in cookery in a part of the curriculum.

A nurse has special need of physical strength to endure the fatigue of her place in the summer season. Where the patient is very ill a second nurse is supplied at night, to give the first or day nurse her needed rest. It is a great mistake for any woman to undertake the duties of a nurse unless she is willing and able to endure the physical hardships of such a place. A nurse must have no objectionable eccentricities of manner; she must have a general sense of wholesomeness in her personality. A nervous woman is in no way fitted for a nurse. A great many women managed to pass their examinations who do not possess all these requirements, but they do not make successful nurses. The question of education is a second one. No education beyond the rudiments is required at the admission on probation. Nevertheless, it is found that uneducated women fall out of the ranks before the time of probation is over, as they do not possess the same nerve and power of endurance and comprehension of details as women of more cultivated minds.

The good nurse should certainly be a woman of tact, in order to humor the harmless whims of her patient rather than irritate him by martinettish methods. One of the most objectionable habits of the indiscreet nurse is that of rehearsing her sickroom and hospital experiences to her patient. Like a wise physician, the discreet nurse says little and never talks 'shop.'

THEY REQUIRE SALT.

All undomesticated, herbivorous animals crave salt, and will travel many miles to obtain it from natural salt-licks. A necessity, then, so plainly marked, should not be ignored, and dairymen should consider it all-important that their cows are regularly salted. Do not let the cows get starved for this necessity by long intervals between indulgence as its good effect is thereby greatly lessened. Better than salting cows even once a week, is keeping salt by them all the time. The animals will not eat more than they want, and what their appetite craves their nature requires. Some 'pooh' at the idea that salt is especially valuable in the dairy; but we know by experience that cows give more milk when it is fed to them regularly, and the cream from such milk more readily yields butter in the churn. It is not too much to say that it is as essential to put salt into a cow's stomach as it is to add it to the butter which she yields. One of the mainsprings to success in dairying is to keep the cows in vigorous health, that they may be able to discharge their functions in a natural manner. A bright eye, soft and shining hair, and a sharp appetite are indicative of perfect health, conducive to which is the use of salt as craved by the bovine appetite.—'Fredericton Farmer.'

MAKING HAY WITHOUT SUNSHINE.

An ingenious inventor, who has spent a fortune is devising a machine for making hay in the absence of sunshine by artificial heat, now finds that his outlay and labor have been in vain. His 'exhaust-fans' cost thousands of dollars first and last, but however well they may be adapted for finishing hay-making in the rick and for turning into hay a large heap of half-dried grass, it appears, after all, that a perforated pipe will do the work automatically at a fraction of the cost. It is a common practice in Derbyshire, England, to place in a haystack at the time of building it a galvanized iron pipe perforated with holes and about 6in. in diameter, reaching from the bottom to the top of the stack as a chimney through which the steam of the fermenting hay may escape, and this simple, self acting contrivance has proved sufficient to cool a rick of hay under ordinary circumstances.

medicine, for old and young. Ayer's Pills are indispensable to soldiers, sailors, campers, miners, and travelers, and are everywhere recommended by the medical fraternity. Dr. J. W. Haynes, Paloose, W. T., writes: "Ayer's Pills are the most evenly balanced in their ingredients, of any I know of."

"For more than twenty years I have used Ayer's Pills as a corrective for torpidity of the stomach, liver, and bowels, and to ward off malarial attacks, and they have always done perfect work."—E. P. Goodwin, Publisher "Democrat," St. Landry, La.

"For a long time I was a sufferer from stomach, liver, and kidney troubles, and having tried a variety of remedies, with only temporary relief, I began, about three months ago, the use of Ayer's Pills, and already my health is so much improved that I gladly testify to the superior merits of this cathartic."—M. HOW TO KEEP BOARDERS.

One of the most common employments of women is the keeping of boarders. Some make a success of it and some do not, for various reasons. In order to keep your boarders you should treat them well, and at the same time avoid putting yourself in debt for unnecessary expenditures. I cannot remember the time when we did not 'take in boarders.' After coming to us they generally remain until such time as they make homes of their own. Perhaps it might interest some to know how we treat them. To begin with, as regards meals, have your breads, meats, butter and coffee, of the first quality and if you must practice economy, let it be on some of the fancy side dishes, and not on any of the staple foods. Do not salt, pepper, or season in any way, the various dishes, as all have not tastes alike, and it is best for every one to suit himself in these matters. Always serve all meals on individual plates, as this allows late comers to have their meals warm, and saves much grumbling. It is best to use individual sets for many other reasons which will be obvious to the boarding-house keeper.

Show no partiality among your guests, and strive as far as possible to cater to individual tastes. Vary the meals as much as possible, remembering, that though some dish may be very good cooked occasionally it loses its charm by being too often repeated. Let each boarder have a permanent seat at the table, and make no changes when new ones arrive, but arrange a new seat for them. Great offence is sometimes caused by changing the position of chairs at the table; let each one 'have and hold' an accustomed seat.—'The Housekeeper.'

HORSE SHOEING.

The horse is one of the most superbly perfect of Nature's works viewed physically and he occupies besides, an exalted position among animals as to his intelligence and moral qualities. It is, therefore, most painful to see how under the hand of intelligent (?) man he is maltreated and even abused. He submits his neck to the yoke uncomplainingly; he accepts the iron plating of his feet; and he allows the galling check upon the movements of his head, and gives man his best service even to death. The ignorant smith has his views as to what should be the shape of the feet; so he cuts and rasps, and forms them to suit himself. He has an idea that the hoof was made on purpose for him to rasp and shoe, and exercise all the tools of his trade upon. So he makes the shoe and fits the hoof to it; he removes the natural polished exterior, which, by its rough elasticity, defends the tender parts from injury, is nearly impervious to water, and permits a little evaporation of internal moisture, by which it is kept normally pliable and vitalized to the very surface. He rounds smooths off the new surface; leaves it in a condition to allow the moisture of the hoof to pass off rapidly, and the hoof to dry and crack, and then he recommends the application of tar and grease and lampblack, as if he was trying to render an old boot pliable and presentable. The greasing complete? the mischief. But why do sensible horse-owners allow the evil which their preemptory orders, if not their mere remonstrances would prevent?
