Brazilian Tars Mutiny.

Special Evening Telegram.
RIO JANEIRO, Nov. 24.
The crews of two battleships of the Brazilian navy mutinied yesterday, turning their guns upon the loyal vessels. They also threw a few shells into the city. During the outbreak several officers were killed. The fighting ceased at night, but the revolutionists remained in possession of the two vessels. To-day the battleships with their mutinous crews are anchored outside the bar, awaiting action by the Government. Congress was summoned this afternoon to deal with the situation. Press censorship is strict, and no news of the mutiny can be cabled at this time. It is officially stated that the trouble is not of a political character. It is described as a mutiny among the crews to enforce certain concessions from their officers, rather than a revolt against the administration. President Fonseca states that for some time the men have been agitating for more pay; they also objected to the practice in the navy of inflicting corporal punishment upon subordinate or otherwise offending sailors. The matter came to a head yesterday. Following the fighting the mutineers made a formal demand for increased pay and for the abolition of corporal punishment. Then the withdrawal to the outer harbor. The mutineers expect that Congress will finalize a measure this afternoon, granting them amnesty. It is believed that if this does the trouble will be at an end. Should Congress refuse amnesty to the mutineers, the subsequent attitude of the latter is in doubt. The situation is tense, and considerable anxiety exists among the people of the city.

LONDON, Nov. 24.
A private cable despatch from Rio Janeiro received here shortly before noon to-day says the captain of the Brazilian battleship Minas Geraes was killed during the naval disturbances last night. Earlier despatches conveyed the news that the crews of several warships had mutinied. A rigorous censorship has withheld further details. A cablegram also received to-day from Rio Janeiro says that firing is in progress between the warships in the harbor there. It is reported in London that Admiral Parcular, commanding the fourth British cruiser squadron, now at Buenos Ayres, has been ordered to Rio Janeiro. The Admiralty confirmed the report that the fourth squadron was going to Rio Janeiro, but asserted that this was only in pursuance of the original itinerary of the squadron and not connected with the outbreak.

Mexican Revolt.

Special Evening Telegram.
EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 24.
It is the general belief that the situation in Mexico is now pretty well under control. Sympathizers of the revolution here, however, claim that the present lull is merely a lull in time, and that the full strength of the insurgent organization, and the real force of the uprising, will be felt within a few days.

All of the suffragettes who were charged with assault and the wilful damage of property as a result of the rioting of the past two days, were found guilty in the Bow Street Police Court to-day and sentenced to pay fines of $10 to $25, or to spend a week or a month in prison according to the seriousness of their offence. All of the prisoners elected to go to jail.

QUEENSTOWN, Nov. 24.
A young woman survived the steamer Majestic when the vessel touched here on her way to New York to-day. When questioned, she emphatically denied this identification. Those in touch with Miss Le Neve say that she is still in England, remaining in seclusion to avoid the annoyance resulting from the unpleasant notoriety which she gained as a friend of Dr. Crippen, who yesterday was hanged for the murder of his wife.

"Fair Play" Again.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—The "come-all-ye" crank is out again in your last evening's issue, and the public are treated to the usual doggerel, from which we can readily conclude he has not the same zest for the controversy displayed by him at the beginning of hostilities. He has not one word to say in justification as to why he took up the cudgels in defence of Dr. Grenfell's pin-pricker. Oh, no! He evidently wishes that little incident to be forgotten altogether. He confines himself to his usual stock-in-trade of doggerel, wherein he dubs my letter as corner-boy slang. The public will judge the truth of this assertion. Perhaps I did not give this classic writer's effusions the attention they deserve. I trust this modern Eugene Aram will pardon me, and I promise I will not be remiss in that respect on future occasions.
At the same time, Mr. Editor, I am of opinion that the more corner-boy lang used, the more readily it will be understood by this wonderful poet and I doubt if I doubt if a corner-boy would be so contemptible as to wait until one's back is turned to strike, or found defending the action of one guilty of such an act, as was done by this classic writer of doggerel verses—this modern genius!
"Fairer Play" is very anxious to know my name. I will tell it to him when he tells me what injury Dr. Grenfell did him. Yet I doubt if a pin-pricker of his ilk; why he and they are so persistent in their aversion to him. If you have any grievance towards that gentleman, don't you think it would be more manly to lay your engage-from-behind weapons for the nonce and await his return. Judging from the sudden collapse of a pin-pricker some time since, he will dish up enough cross-stuff to satisfy even a poet of your high intellect. Ah, my friend, I think you made a sad mistake when (figuratively sneaking) you doffed your coat, took up your pen and asked your brother pin-prickers to watch you—the champion doggerel maker of Newfoundland—make the doctor's friends sit up and stare. Who could resist the power of those biting sarcastic words of yours? Could any one against whom they were written read and digest their meaning and not hide his head, through sheer mortification, from his fellow-men? A thousand times no! They were written and proved a rank failure. Alas! alas! tears, Mr. Editor. I would, in conclusion, advise this poetic failure thus:

"Don't keep mussin' Roun' an' cussin' Dr. Grenfell. For I know You'll feel sicker Than that pin-pricker When he ate that nasty crow."
These lines may not be classic enough for you, my modern Aram; but they're to the point. See the point? You do? Good!
Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, I am,
Yours truly,
FAIR PLAY.

ENQUIRY HELD.—The Reid Nfld. Co. held an enquiry into the burning of the sleeping car last evening. The evidence showed that the fire must have been caused by the explosion of a lamp.

Agricultural Exhibits.

All the exhibits in the Curling Rink have been taken away and the place is being got ready for the curling season. In connection with the work done by those who assisted to make the late exhibition a success, no man did more work than Mr. Snelgrove of the Agricultural Department. He worked night and day most zealously and was always at his post. His courtesy to visitors and obliging treatment to all who wanted help or information was evidenced on all occasions. In mentioning those who helped to make the Exhibition a success, it would be manifestly unfair to omit the name of Mr. Snelgrove.

The Gypsum Emperor.

The schooner Gypsum Emperor which was so badly buffeted on her voyage from Norris Arm and had to put in here while leaking, was taken to Frowse's premises, Southside, yesterday to discharge her cargo of laths. As stated by the Telegram she was surveyed above the water line Wednesday, and as soon as the cargo is discharged and the vessel lightened, she will be examined under the water line by Mr. John Taylor. The vessel is badly tilted from labouring in the heavy sea while the storm lasted, and it will not be determined for some time yet as to what will be done with the vessel, which is built of spruce and is 18 years old.

Pieces of Boats Found.

Mr. R. J. Devereaux yesterday afternoon received the following telegram from Mr. M. Duggan, of Placentia: "Parts of two ship's boats picked up at Colinet Island, painted red inside and white outside, also a cargo boom." It is not likely that this wreckage would be from the Regulus, nor could it be possibly from the Golden Arrow, for that craft carried only a couple of doxies but no boats. The finding of the wreckage in such a place would seem to indicate that either another disaster has occurred in this neighborhood or the boats and boom must have been swept off some vessel meeting bad weather at sea and was driven up there.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CO., LTD.
Gentlemen,—In July 1905, I was thrown from a road machine, injuring my hip and back badly and was obliged to use a crutch for 14 months. In Sept. 1906 Mr. Wm. To Recover Bodies.

By the Portia to-day a diver goes to St. Mary's Bay to if possible secure the bodies of those lost in the ill-fated schr. Golden Arrow, lost near Nancy Can shoals. The general impression amongst fishermen is that it will be almost impossible to get any of the bodies, which more than likely are either dismembered by the action of the sea or possibly swept miles away from the scene of the tragedy.
