ITALIAN OFFENSIVE FAILS.

BERLIN, To-day. The third Italian offensive in the Isonzo district can be considered as having definitely failed, says a Cologne correspondent at the Austro-Hungarian headquarters, as quoted by the Overseas News Agency, since only feeble attempts to advance are still being made by the Italians. During this last struggle the Italians suffered immense losses besides having 5,367 men wounded and prisoners.

THE WAR STAFF.

LONDON, To-day. Premier Asquith said the War Office had taken steps to secure a more effective and co-ordinate prosecution of the war on the part of the Allied Powers by strengthening the British General Staff and to establish a more intimate intercommunication, not sporadic but normal and habitual between military and naval advisers of all the Allied Powers. His own view had been strengthened by what he had seen during his two visits to the front as to the importance of interchanging officers between the War Office and the army in the field, so that all might have experience in trench fighting and all novel operations this war had introduced. Sir Archibald James Murray, head of the General Staff is about to appoint as his assistant General Mitchell, and the Premier said he was satisfied that the staff now at the War Office, which was far more numerous than the public was aware was composed of very able and distinguished officers, no less than twenty-six of whom had had actual experience in the present war. With regard to the relations between the British staff and those of the Allied Powers, it would be a great mistake, he said, to suppose they had been living in watertight compartments without communicating with one another. There was a British military attaché at the French headquarters and a distinguished French officer in attendance at the War Office in London. Arrangements had been made for a more intimate co-operation and for interchange of views for the common development of plans for all military operations in the different theatres of war. A distinguished French staff officer, the Premier stated, will be in daily communication with the general staff at the British War Office, and Britain is sending to France officers entrusted with a like mission. It is more than probable, he added, that this organization may still further develop.

FIVE MILLION A DAY.

LONDON, To-day. Asquith said there was no reason to believe the expenditures during the next two months would exceed five million pounds daily, so that the new vote of credit might be expected to last till the middle of February.

FLEW AUSTRIAN FLAG.

PARIS, To-day. The Ancona was attacked by two submarines, both flying the Austrian flag, says Havas despatch from Cape Bon, Tunis.

THE BLACKEST OUTRAGE.

LONDON, To-day. Commenting editorially on the sinking of the Ancona, the Times describes it as the blackest outrage since the Lusitania. The Ancona was outward bound says the Times and therefore could not have been carrying munitions. We feel sure that the high-spirited Italian nation will insist upon reparation or revenge; whether American opinion will be moved we cannot pretend to surmise. We can hardly anticipate that the fate of the Ancona will do more than the fate of the Lusitania, Arabic or Hesperian.

CHASED BY CRUISER.

LONDON, To-day. The steamship Hecumen of Christiana from New York to Sweden was chased on Wednesday by a British cruiser off the Western coast of Norway says a Copenhagen despatch. When the steamer reached neutral waters a Norwegian torpedo boat stopped the cruiser and the vessel proceeded to Bergen.

PANIC ON BOARD ANCONA.

LONDON, To-day. The Italian steamer Ancona was not sunk without warning, according to information obtained from survivors landed at Malta, by Reuter Co. and cabled here; the Austrian submarine which overhauled her after a long stern chase gave the commander a brief respite to permit the removal of passengers, but the indescribable panic which began among the immigrants on board as soon as the underwater craft was sighted was responsible for the loss of many lives. In a mad rush for safety men, women and children overwhelmed the boats, several of which were overturned before they could be lowered. Many occupants fell into the water and were drowned. The shots fired around the steamer by the submarine, apparently to hasten the loading of the boats added to the panic. The people on board were mostly Greeks and Italians with large families on their way to the United States to settle there. The majority therefore were women and children.

SERBIAN NEWS VAGUE.

LONDON, To-day. News from the Serbian front is vague, says a Reuter despatch from Athens, but it is declared untrue that the Germans are occupying the entire line from Kraljevo to Kraguyevatz and Petrovac. Important Serbian forces arriving from Metrovitza have reached the Kutchanik defile, where they occupied the railway station to which the Bulgarians bound from Uskup to Priared had advanced. Operations extending to the northwest now are becoming the key to the situation, as the Serbian troops sent from the north to Krusevo and Monastir will pass there.

"WAKE UP, WASHINGTON!"

NEW YORK, To-day. Commenting editorially on the sinking of the Ancona, the Herald under the caption "Wake up, Washington!" says the Ancona infamy is but one in a grand scheme. Germany assumes that this Government can be kept asleep. Why not? The Lusitania is forgotten and fled away in Mr. Lansing's pigeon holes, and yet a doubt arises. True, the Zealandia, which is suspected of having on board German officers who broke parole at Norfolk, was not searched by the United States navy, which should long ago have been after this suspected ship. True, the Lusitania is forgotten, and equally true that Captain Boyd and Captain Von Papen still insult this country with their presence, but the Government shall be given the benefit of the doubt. Something may happen to wake it up yet.

MILITARY TRAINING FOR ALL GREEKS.

GENEVA, To-day. Despatches received from Athens say the Greek General Staff has decided to put into training all citizens who have not done military service. The effect of this action, it is said, will be to raise the strength of the Greek army to half a million of officers and men.

The Earl of Crawford, who is enlisted as a private in the R.A.M.C., has just been promoted to lance-corporal, is a collector of walking-sticks. The latest addition to his collection is a heavy rosewood ivory-headed cane, which Lord Crawford found in a captured German trench. Lord Halsbury, who recently celebrated his ninety-third birthday, has a penchant for a blue tie, reads Greek as a recreation, and loves to turn a lathe. Among his many accomplishments is swordsmanship. One time he shared with Sir Charles Dike the reputation of being the cleverest amateur fencer in Great Britain.

Ladies' Costumes Fall--1915--Styles.

Was there ever a more fickle lady than Dame Fashion? She is always making changes, and this season has surely surpassed herself.

There is a more decided change in this Fall's styles than has been known for many seasons. While materials are similar, Serges, Gabardines, Tweeds, Cord, etc., the designs are absolutely unlike any of their predecessors. Coats are of many styles, chiefly a la militaire, with high collars, snug-fitting sleeves, and the entire coat in some instances is beautifully braided. Skirts are much fuller, both pleated and gored, and are worn very short.

As descriptions are quite impossible, we can only say that we carry the largest and smartest line of Ladies' Costumes in the city.
