NOON MEETINGS.

OONDAY meetings, as a rule, are the most difficult to sustain. It is quite true, that in some very large cities they attract a fair attendance, but in cities like Toronto the numbers attending is generally small. There remains, however, the blessed assurance of God's word, that where "two or three " are gathered in His name, there will he be present. This has been verified to us. We, however, desire to see these meetings enlarged; and at our last lioard meeting a deputation was appointed to wait upon the Ministerial Association with a view to secure their co-operation towards making these meetings more widely known among the members of then respective congregations, and also by naming leaders for three meetings each week. As expected, the deputation was most cordially received, and the ministers present heartily entered into the plan suggested. It was agrecd by them that notices should be given from their pulpits, announcing the meetings, and inviting the members of their congregations to attend.

In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths. Prov. iii. 6.
