FOR the MILLION and READ by the MILLION.

6d. DICKS' ENGLISH LIBRARY OF STANDARD WORKS. 6d.

THE OPINION OF OTHERS THEREFORE UNBIASED.

“THE BAZAAR,” on DICKS' ENGLISH LIBRARY, says:—“There is just now rather a dearth of new books, and nothing of much importance, except the ‘Memoirs of Barras,’ has appeared for a long time. We are glad to see that Dicks' English Library (John Dicks, 313, Strand, W.C.) still continues to make headway. This series is illustrated throughout, and each issue (6d.) contains a vast deal of reading from the best of English authors. The high-water mark of this century's cheapness is reached here. What we may see in the next is a matter for speculation. It is quite within the bounds of possibility that the works of popular authors may be published and given away free, gratis, and for nothing, some of these days, as there are more ways than one of making money.”
