TEACH MANNERS SAYS DR. GOGGIN

School Boys Should Learn Respect and Reverence for Their Elders.

TEACH AGRICULTURE

Farmers Want to See Practical Demonstration of Advanced Methods.

Educationalists held the boards at the noon meeting of the directors. All the discussion centered on the Exhibition and its success, but the teaching methods of outside were uppermost in many of the suggestions offered. A timely word of warning for the young people of Canada, urging a study of manners and respect for elders, was given by Dr. Goggin of the department of education.

"This is called educational day," he began. "Just why, I do not know for every day here is educational. There is no other place in the Dominion or the province where so much educational work is done as here in the two weeks every year."

Two sides to education—that of self-development and that of self-support. Speaking of technical and agricultural work, he said that of late years there has been too much of the latter and not enough of the former.

Great energy was thrown into the work by the director. The district representatives, testing in high schools were no small feature.

Further, there was the industrial act, which offered opportunity to every artisan to better his lot.

England's exports had increased 21 per cent, and others correspondingly, as a result of education.

The adolescence age of a boy was catered to by regulations, guiding his life through the dangerous period. In every town and village school authorities had the power to enforce attendance at school for certain periods.

But, with all this, came beauty. Instruction in the art, graphic arts and others showed the beauty to which all pointed.

"I am not sure, however, that in educating all the modern breeds we have not lost depth. Perhaps we can overcome this by careful, particular training," he suggested.

Teach Manners. One thing, however, he wanted to speak about. To teach boys to respect women, and to show them that the boy who said
