REIGN OF MURDER

ENDED IN DEATH

standing at the station talking to Flagman W. C. Bond. Without warning the two negroes fired on them and both fell. Then the negroes directed their fire at Claude Freeman, who was waiting for a train to take him to his home at Fayette, Miss. He was instantly killed. The negroes then fired into the train, terrorizing the passengers.

A sleeping car from Natchez is left every night at Hamilton. It will be there from Memphis to New Orleans. After the train from Natchez had departed this car was a target for the fire of the two negroes. While many windows were broken, no occupant of the car was hurt.

Sheriff is Shot.

With the bloodstain at the highest pitch, the negroes made their way to a cotton-seed house nearby. Pritchard, a citizen by this time had telephoned for Sheriff Hammett at Fayette, Miss. Summoning former Sheriff Gilchrist, the negroes started for the seed house, whereupon Walter Jones went to the trap near by and as Hammett approached, the negroes fired at him and he fell. A shot from the seed house brought down Gilchrist.

By this time the countryside had been aroused and the farmers came pouring in from every direction. A general fusillade of shots was directed at the seed house, but all was sent to Gov. Brewer for troops.

Finding his hiding place too precarious, Will Jones started to run to the seed house, but he had been followed by a cool chute nearby, but he had gone only a few steps when a bullet ended his life. A rope was placed around his body, it was strung up to a telegraph pole near the station and became a target for everyone not shooting at the seedhouse.

Soon after, Will Jones was killed, a negro, of the coal chute by his deadly aim. Weeks fell to the ground dead.
