Unable to tell his own name a man lies in the General Hospital recovering from the effects of attempted suicide. That his first name is William he knows. That he obtained a watch by false pretences in Olean, N. Y., and therefor made an attempt on his own life, he thinks. Moreover, he says his father was a judge in New York State. He is conscience-smitten and wants to go back to Olean to answer to the charge, but the Olean people have not replied to the query sent them as to the identity of William——.

GIVES THE DOG A GOOD NAME.

Editor World: In reading your paper yesterday morning I noticed an article, "Down with the Dogs," by Taxpayer, who says that the dogs which prowi the streets all night are a nuisance, and they should be done away with. In place of blaming the dogs he should blame the owners for allowing them to do so. He also says they should all be muzzled. He must be a hard-hearted fellow to want to treat "man's nest friend" in such a way. I would like to ask him if he ever saw one man stand by another, as a dog will stand by his master, and he can only answer in one way and that is, he never did for example, take the dog that waited on the ice in the lake off Port Hope last winter. Would Taxpayer have waited and watched that length of time? Not on your life. He also says the tax on dogs should be raised from five dollars to ten. In this he is mistaken, as the tax on male dogs is only one dollar and on feamales five dollars, and only two dollars on female dogs if registered. However, if the tax was ten dollars, it is not to much for a man to put up for his best friend, and the more we see and hear of the dog haters, the more I think the old saying is correct, "The more I see of men, the better I like my dogs."
