

"Dare you trust?"

To the commonplace every-day goods with an unknown reputation?

SALADA

CEYLON TEA

Pales are of enormous proportion. Established through matchless quality and value. "The tea that is pure." Lead packets only. 25c, 30c, 40c, 50c, 60c. All grocers.

JESSAMINE.

"He spent the Sabbath with us," wrote she. "It was a pleasant day to us all. Mr. Wyllys kindly took my place as organist in church, and played with even more than his usual taste and feeling. His news of you would of itself have made him a welcome guest. His report of your health, sports, and progress in your studies was very favorable. He says, moreover, that Mrs. Baxter will not consent to give you up before spring. Do not abridge your stay, for fear we shall be lonely without you. We miss you, of course, but we are consoled for the pain of separation, by the knowledge that you are improving in health, and enjoying social and educational advantages such as our secluded valley cannot furnish."

"I inclose a letter from Roy, directed, as usual, under cover to father. In the accompanying note, he alludes to his gratification at learning that you are so pleasantly situated and happily employed this winter. We are glad that he is heartily in favor of the important step we ventured to take without waiting to consult him."

"I wish you could see your oriel now. Our flowers have flourished this winter as they never did before. The daphnes are in full bloom. The stephanotis is almost encumbered by buds, and the fragrant petunias and double nasturtiums (the seed of which Mr. Wyllys gave me in the fall) are thriving bravely, the latter climbing rapidly."

"Our excellent neighbors are very kind and attentive," etc., etc. Jessie re-read this letter when she had finished Roy's, perused it with a half smile, and was more thoughtful than amused, and an odd stricture about her heart. Eunice's round of pleasures and duties seemed to her like something she had passed—outgrown ages since, yet there was, far down in her spirit, a piteous longing for those gone days. She might be wiser—she was not better or happier for the glimpses lately granted her of a world of stormy and contending passions and mixed motives.

"He spent the Sabbath with us," she read aloud. "And I was not at home! He said nothing to me of his intention to visit Dundee. Since he had changed his plans in one respect, he may in another, and be absent three or four weeks instead of two. Heigho!"

She folded up her sister's letter, and addressed herself very slowly to the task of getting ready for a party at Judge Provost's. The guests of the town. It was given in honor of a niece of his, who was visiting his daughter, and was to be a grand affair. Jessie had never attended one half so fine, but she was envious in anticipation.

"There will be the stock company of beaux," she meditated. "The one unmarried professor; the ten almost marriageable seniors; and the ten utterly ineligible ones, who are without beards or money; capital, the whole army (I had nearly said 'herd') of juniors and sophomores; the dozen or fifteen gentlemen detailed for the occasion from the doctors' and lawyers' offices, and the higher rank of tradespeople in Hamilton. There will be dancing in one parlor, and small-talk in another; promenading in the halls and billiard-rooms; flirtations in all stages among the dandies and lemons; trees of the conservatory, and 'a jam'—not sweet—in the supper-room. As a clergyman's daughter and the guest of a clergyman's wife, I must not dance in public. I am sick to nausea of callow collegians and small-talk, and I don't care for late supper and edifying dainties. I would rather spend the evening with Mariana in the moated grange, for that moish damsel would let me sit still and sulk if I wanted to. And I believe she would let me sit still and sulk if I wanted to."

"A little more fire, my love!" whispered Mrs. Baxter in the dressing-room, affecting to be busy in shaking out Jessie's pink silk drapery. "I have a presentiment that you are to meet your fate tonight. But rank must positively exert yourself to seem less quiet and preoccupied. Repose and lofty indifference are considered well-bred, and are a very safe role for the commonplace to adopt. But they are unbecoming to us."

The novice did her best to throw light into her eyes and warmth into her complexion. Being a novice, the attempt was a failure; but Mrs. Baxter, perceiving that ignorance, not obstinacy, hindered the desired effect, forbore to hint that, in spite of Jessie's elegant attire and becoming coiffure, she had never seen her look worse. Trusting to the animating influences of the festive scene to restore that which

Appetizing

For this season of the year when fresh vegetables are scarce.....

Large 3-lb. tins French String Beans, 20c.
Rodel French Peas, 15c.
Rodel Mushrooms, 25c.
Whole Tomatoes for slicing, 20c.
Canned Corn, Peas, Tomatoes, Beans, French Kidney Beans, Succotash, Baked Beans, Tomato Sauce.
California Prunes, 8c per lb.
California Silver Prunes, 12 1/2c per lb.
California Dried Peaches, 10c per lb.

Fitzgerald, Scandrett & Co

160 DUNDAS ST. WE GIVE TRADING STAMPS

friendly expostulation had proved inefficient to recall, she committed her to the officious homage of young Lowndes, and turned her attention to the part she was herself to play in the evening's drama.

"What a magnificent creature your niece is, Mrs. Baxter; or is she a cousin?" said an elderly gentleman also one of the judge's visitors, to her at length.

The pleased and amiable chaperone looked over her shoulder, directed by his gaze, just in time to see Jessie pass, treading as if on air; her eyes luminous with the inner foldings of a damask rose; her lips apart in a smile, sweet and happy, and her hand on Orrin Wyllys' arm.

CHAPTER X. "And you have really been to Dundee!" Jessie was saying, unconscious that she was clinging to Mr. Wyllys' arm—very slightly, but perceptibly to him, with the glad hold of one to whom something dear and rare had been restored. "Was this a part of the original plan of your journeyings?"

"No; but my business led me within sight of Old Windbeam—a frosty pow' his is, just now!—and it acted upon me as day of the Iron Mountain. 'Arabian Nights' upon the hapless ships that approached it. It drew out the nails of doubt as to the best course for me to pursue; the screws of resolution not to be turned aside by memories of the past and the allurements of the present. To be brief, I collapsed utterly, took the afternoon train to Dundee, and passed, in that retreat from briefs and busybodies, the happiest Sabbath I have known since last August."

"Euna wrote to me about it—the lovely, precise old darling! She never indulges in extravagances upon any subject, but her concise sentences mean much, and these said how she enjoyed the day—and your music was a nucleus of her when I read it, just for a moment, of course. I have seen so much of you this winter it seemed mean and selfish in me to grudge her a day of like pleasure."

"Envy so groundless could not but be evanescent," said Orrin, with admirable gravity. "But tell me about yourself. What have you been doing while I was away?"

"I inclose a letter from Roy, directed, as usual, under cover to father. In the accompanying note, he alludes to his gratification at learning that you are so pleasantly situated and happily employed this winter. We are glad that he is heartily in favor of the important step we ventured to take without waiting to consult him."

"I wish you could see your oriel now. Our flowers have flourished this winter as they never did before. The daphnes are in full bloom. The stephanotis is almost encumbered by buds, and the fragrant petunias and double nasturtiums (the seed of which Mr. Wyllys gave me in the fall) are thriving bravely, the latter climbing rapidly."

"Our excellent neighbors are very kind and attentive," etc., etc. Jessie re-read this letter when she had finished Roy's, perused it with a half smile, and was more thoughtful than amused, and an odd stricture about her heart. Eunice's round of pleasures and duties seemed to her like something she had passed—outgrown ages since, yet there was, far down in her spirit, a piteous longing for those gone days. She might be wiser—she was not better or happier for the glimpses lately granted her of a world of stormy and contending passions and mixed motives.

"He spent the Sabbath with us," she read aloud. "And I was not at home! He said nothing to me of his intention to visit Dundee. Since he had changed his plans in one respect, he may in another, and be absent three or four weeks instead of two. Heigho!"

She folded up her sister's letter, and addressed herself very slowly to the task of getting ready for a party at Judge Provost's. The guests of the town. It was given in honor of a niece of his, who was visiting his daughter, and was to be a grand affair. Jessie had never attended one half so fine, but she was envious in anticipation.

"There will be the stock company of beaux," she meditated. "The one unmarried professor; the ten almost marriageable seniors; and the ten utterly ineligible ones, who are without beards or money; capital, the whole army (I had nearly said 'herd') of juniors and sophomores; the dozen or fifteen gentlemen detailed for the occasion from the doctors' and lawyers' offices, and the higher rank of tradespeople in Hamilton. There will be dancing in one parlor, and small-talk in another; promenading in the halls and billiard-rooms; flirtations in all stages among the dandies and lemons; trees of the conservatory, and 'a jam'—not sweet—in the supper-room. As a clergyman's daughter and the guest of a clergyman's wife, I must not dance in public. I am sick to nausea of callow collegians and small-talk, and I don't care for late supper and edifying dainties. I would rather spend the evening with Mariana in the moated grange, for that moish damsel would let me sit still and sulk if I wanted to. And I believe she would let me sit still and sulk if I wanted to."

"A little more fire, my love!" whispered Mrs. Baxter in the dressing-room, affecting to be busy in shaking out Jessie's pink silk drapery. "I have a presentiment that you are to meet your fate tonight. But rank must positively exert yourself to seem less quiet and preoccupied. Repose and lofty indifference are considered well-bred, and are a very safe role for the commonplace to adopt. But they are unbecoming to us."

The novice did her best to throw light into her eyes and warmth into her complexion. Being a novice, the attempt was a failure; but Mrs. Baxter, perceiving that ignorance, not obstinacy, hindered the desired effect, forbore to hint that, in spite of Jessie's elegant attire and becoming coiffure, she had never seen her look worse. Trusting to the animating influences of the festive scene to restore that which

"There will be the stock company of beaux," she meditated. "The one unmarried professor; the ten almost marriageable seniors; and the ten utterly ineligible ones, who are without beards or money; capital, the whole army (I had nearly said 'herd') of juniors and sophomores; the dozen or fifteen gentlemen detailed for the occasion from the doctors' and lawyers' offices, and the higher rank of tradespeople in Hamilton. There will be dancing in one parlor, and small-talk in another; promenading in the halls and billiard-rooms; flirtations in all stages among the dandies and lemons; trees of the conservatory, and 'a jam'—not sweet—in the supper-room. As a clergyman's daughter and the guest of a clergyman's wife, I must not dance in public. I am sick to nausea of callow collegians and small-talk, and I don't care for late supper and edifying dainties. I would rather spend the evening with Mariana in the moated grange, for that moish damsel would let me sit still and sulk if I wanted to. And I believe she would let me sit still and sulk if I wanted to."

"A little more fire, my love!" whispered Mrs. Baxter in the dressing-room, affecting to be busy in shaking out Jessie's pink silk drapery. "I have a presentiment that you are to meet your fate tonight. But rank must positively exert yourself to seem less quiet and preoccupied. Repose and lofty indifference are considered well-bred, and are a very safe role for the commonplace to adopt. But they are unbecoming to us."

The novice did her best to throw light into her eyes and warmth into her complexion. Being a novice, the attempt was a failure; but Mrs. Baxter, perceiving that ignorance, not obstinacy, hindered the desired effect, forbore to hint that, in spite of Jessie's elegant attire and becoming coiffure, she had never seen her look worse. Trusting to the animating influences of the festive scene to restore that which

"There will be the stock company of beaux," she meditated. "The one unmarried professor; the ten almost marriageable seniors; and the ten utterly ineligible ones, who are without beards or money; capital, the whole army (I had nearly said 'herd') of juniors and sophomores; the dozen or fifteen gentlemen detailed for the occasion from the doctors' and lawyers' offices, and the higher rank of tradespeople in Hamilton. There will be dancing in one parlor, and small-talk in another; promenading in the halls and billiard-rooms; flirtations in all stages among the dandies and lemons; trees of the conservatory, and 'a jam'—not sweet—in the supper-room. As a clergyman's daughter and the guest of a clergyman's wife, I must not dance in public. I am sick to nausea of callow collegians and small-talk, and I don't care for late supper and edifying dainties. I would rather spend the evening with Mariana in the moated grange, for that moish damsel would let me sit still and sulk if I wanted to. And I believe she would let me sit still and sulk if I wanted to."

"There will be the stock company of beaux," she meditated. "The one unmarried professor; the ten almost marriageable seniors; and the ten utterly ineligible ones, who are without beards or money; capital, the whole army (I had nearly said 'herd') of juniors and sophomores; the dozen or fifteen gentlemen detailed for the occasion from the doctors' and lawyers' offices, and the higher rank of tradespeople in Hamilton. There will be dancing in one parlor, and small-talk in another; promenading in the halls and billiard-rooms; flirtations in all stages among the dandies and lemons; trees of the conservatory, and 'a jam'—not sweet—in the supper-room. As a clergyman's daughter and the guest of a clergyman's wife, I must not dance in public. I am sick to nausea of callow collegians and small-talk, and I don't care for late supper and edifying dainties. I would rather spend the evening with Mariana in the moated grange, for that moish damsel would let me sit still and sulk if I wanted to. And I believe she would let me sit still and sulk if I wanted to."

"There will be the stock company of beaux," she meditated. "The one unmarried professor; the ten almost marriageable seniors; and the ten utterly ineligible ones, who are without beards or money; capital, the whole army (I had nearly said 'herd') of juniors and sophomores; the dozen or fifteen gentlemen detailed for the occasion from the doctors' and lawyers' offices, and the higher rank of tradespeople in Hamilton. There will be dancing in one parlor, and small-talk in another; promenading in the halls and billiard-rooms; flirtations in all stages among the dandies and lemons; trees of the conservatory, and 'a jam'—not sweet—in the supper-room. As a clergyman's daughter and the guest of a clergyman's wife, I must not dance in public. I am sick to nausea of callow collegians and small-talk, and I don't care for late supper and edifying dainties. I would rather spend the evening with Mariana in the moated grange, for that moish damsel would let me sit still and sulk if I wanted to. And I believe she would let me sit still and sulk if I wanted to."

BIBLE SCHOOL CONVENTION

Large and Interesting Gathering of Sunday School Workers at Poplar Hill.

Poplar Hill, June 17.—The Sunday schools of the township of Lobo convened in the First Baptist Church on Thursday, June 15, which was the eighth annual meeting of the association.

MORNING SESSION. About 10:30 President Alder called order, and introduced Mrs. George Edmonds to the convention, who conducted the devotional exercises.

Appropriate hymns and Scripture lesson, mingled with earnest prayer to Almighty God for his rich blessing upon the sessions of the day was a good primer indeed.

Next was the president's address, in which he said the executive had spared no means in providing the programme, and heartily thanked those called upon for addresses, etc. Not one had refused.

The secretary-treasurer's report of last meeting was then read, and those who heard it do not wonder why it was quickly adopted. In accuracy, smoothness and style it would have done credit to a provincial gathering. Visitor Gray's report will talk for itself. Here it is: Number of Sunday schools in township, 9; number of officers, 52; average attendance, 43; number of teachers, 51; average attendance, 44; number of scholars on roll, 597; average attendance, 372. Amount given to home missions, $34.60; to foreign missions, $22.95; Manitoba and Northwest, $10.15; Children's Hospital, $2.50; Bible Society, $4.41; Grand Ligne, Que., $9.67; expenses of schools, $22.66; total, $311.06.

Bro. Gray also brought new methods of teaching, ways of raising money, and helpful hints gathered in the different schools, and laid them before the convention.

After a short discussion the meeting adjourned to the lawn of Mr. Graham, and when the writer saw the richly-laden shrub, we might give more than the paltry sum of 50 cents per scholar for missions, if we had to curtail the cake and pie.

AFTERNOON SESSION. In the absence of Rev. A. Sinclair, the writer led the devotional exercises, beginning about 1:30. First on the programme was a study of the preceding Sunday's lesson by the president, which was ably handled and well threshed out.

Rev. H. D. Moyer, of Delaware, then delivered an able address on "Sunday School Literature," followed by music by the choir, and a reading of themselves ably throughout the whole convention.

Rev. E. E. Crawford, St. Thomas, was then called for, but was missing—the only member that did not respond. In order to have no blank, the writer gave a few thoughts on "A Teacher."

Then came a song, followed by an address, "The Sunday School and Its Relation to the Home," by Rev. S. Lawrence, in which he said: "If there is no school, we are lost. The school is more home religion."

Next was an object-lesson, taught by Miss Cannon, of London, which was very interesting and instructive. Solo by Mrs. Steinhoff. "When the Master Himself is Away."

The benediction was pronounced, and we returned once more to Mr. Graham's dining-parlor, which covered about an acre, and found the tables even more sumptuously loaded than before. Speaking myself, I don't care for cake today (Friday). The outward man was well fed, and there was much good spiritual food. Did we have as strong a relish for the spiritual food as we did for that which perishes? If not, why not?

EVENING SESSION. The evening session opened with devotional exercises led by Rev. Mr. Marshall, pastor of the church, in his good, sweet-spirited manner. We heard Mr. Marshall called "the young old man." He is young physically, but his nature is old.

The report of the nominating committee was received and adopted, as follows: President, Mr. John Ross; vice-president, Mr. James McArthur; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Ella Zavitz; visitors, W. H. Caverhill and F. Robinson.

Next meeting at Church of Christ, Poplar Hill. At this juncture the secretary-treasurer, Miss Maggie Sinclair, who had signed the notice of the convention, service, was presented with an address and Eddershem's "Life of Christ," in two volumes, by Rev. N. Lindsay, to which Miss Sinclair replied in a few well-chosen words.

Rev. H. C. Speller, of Sarnia, was next introduced to the convention, and delivered a very practical and powerful address. Subject: "The Boys in Our Sunday Schools," in which he set forth very clearly the wisdom that should be exercised by the teachers.

A few words from Mr. Cobbe, who happened to drop in; a closing song, and the benediction brought the convention to a close. It is thought that there were about 600 people at the evening session. We hope for 1,000 in Poplar Hill in one year.

J. H. COULTARD.

THE CRIME. The crime of which Marks was convicted was the murder of his child-wife on the night of April 30. The victim was the 15-year-old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Noble. Marks became criminally intimate with her, and a forced marriage resulted. One of the conditions precedent to the marriage was the execution of a joint deed of Marks' property to himself and wife. To obtain possession of the title thereto, together with his infatuation for another woman, was the alleged motive for the crime.

The evening of Sunday, April 30, the wife disappeared, and on the Thursday following her body was found floating in Black River. The autopsy disclosed none of the evidences of drowning, but two bruises on vital points were found, and Marks was arrested, charged with the murder. The prosecution forged a strong chain of circumstantial evidence connecting Marks with the crime, and this, together with the prisoner's conflicting statements under the sweating system, left no doubt in the jury's mind of the prisoner's guilt.

It developed at the trial that the prisoner began efforts for the establishment of an alibi the very next morning after the disappearance, and before there was any intimation of a murder having been committed. The defendant's counsel was badly handicapped in the case by the prisoner having practically outlined his defense by his statements before engaging counsel. The jury during its deliberations was agreed from the outset of the prisoner's guilt, but differed as to the degree of murder that their verdict should be.

John Hooker, jun., had a leg broken in three places at a barn-raising in Moravia the other day.

Miss Duncan, of Stratford, who has been laboring in the India mission field, is home on a visit.

Levison Russell, of Leamington, died in a Detroit hospital last week, the result of the amputation of a leg.

Dr. Johnson, 433 Woodward avenue, Detroit, has purchased Joseph Visser's villa, Riverside, above Walkerville.

The 2-year-old daughter of Mr. Doan, St. Thomas, fell out of bed Thursday morning, fracturing her left forearm.

Robert Quinn, a prominent Orangeman, of Essex, is dead. His funeral was held on Friday. The Windsor and county lodges attended.

Burglars broke into William Mowday's workshop at Eagle the other night and helped themselves to a kit, consisting of chisels, etc.

The parishioners of the Roman Catholic Church, Walkerville, have decided to erect a $7,000 convent in the fall. The site has not yet been chosen.

In response to a largely signed petition the reeve and council have appointed Monday, July 3, a holiday for Watford, instead of Saturday, July 1.

Mr. McWhirter, an old resident of Norwich, and well known in the vicinity, where he was a school teacher for years, died in Norwich on Wednesday.

The feast of St. Basil was celebrated by the priests of Sandwich College on Friday. A number of Detroit and Essex county pastors are attending the celebration.

The L. E. and D. R. R. have placed a gravel train on the E. and H. branch, and will gravel the track from Sarnia to Rouleau. Gravel will be taken from the Elmhurst pit.

The police, Toledo, O., have Albert Harkness in custody with a charge of embezzlement. He is from Windsor, and is accused by the Singer Manufacturing Company.

Alex. Henderson was appointed chief of the St. Thomas fire department at the meeting of the city council Thursday night. Alonzo Bowley, the present chief, resigned to accept the position of inspector of the waterworks.

"Dr." Alice G. Lonsdale, formerly of Chatham, is on trial now before Judge Chapin, at Detroit. She is accused of having performed a criminal operation upon Cora Hetherington on Feb. 21 last, thereby causing the young woman's death two days later.

The case of William Martin, of Windsor, charged with arson, was heard in the county court. The evidence against the prisoner was so weak that the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty" after only fifteen minutes' deliberation.

Dresden Times: A woman in town last week seasoned her pie with the wrong kind of sweetening, and as a result it took Dr. Mitchell about four hours to save her life. The dose was too small, or she was a goner.

Eltham Smith, a farmer residing near Yarmouth Center, met with a distressing accident on Thursday. While working in the woods the axe struck his foot between the second and third toes, cutting clear through to the instep, and nearly severing his foot. Doctors sewed up the injured foot.

Mrs. Peter Conne, St. Thomas, died suddenly on Wednesday night at the residence of John Allen, Tyroconnel. The deceased left St. Thomas on Wednesday on a visit to Mrs. Allen, and although she had been ailing for some time, no serious result was anticipated. Mrs. Conne was born in England, and was in her 72nd year.

Referee Marcon, of Windsor, has given judgment in the action brought by the township of Andover against John C. Burns, ex-collector of taxes, and John McCarthy, ex-treasurer, to recover an alleged shortage in their accounts of $383. Judgment is given against McCarthy for the full amount of the claim, with interest at 6 per cent. A serious result was anticipated. Mrs. Conne was born in England, and was in her 72nd year.

Alexander Simpson, aged 50, employed in the Michigan alkali works, Detroit, was taken to Lapeer, Friday morning, where there is a charge of non-support pending against him, as it is claimed that he has a wife and child in that city. Simpson married Minnie Goulding, aged 23, in Petrolia, Mich., June 6, and the couple have been living in Springfield since. Mrs. Goulding now threatens to bring proceedings against Simpson for bigamy, and her brother has garnished his wages at the alkali works, on the ground that the furnished Simpson with the money to enable him to marry his sister.

in Black River. The autopsy disclosed none of the evidences of drowning, but two bruises on vital points were found, and Marks was arrested, charged with the murder. The prosecution forged a strong chain of circumstantial evidence connecting Marks with the crime, and this, together with the prisoner's conflicting statements under the sweating system, left no doubt in the jury's mind of the prisoner's guilt.

WESTERN ONTARIO

John Hooker, jun., had a leg broken in three places at a barn-raising in Moravia the other day.

Miss Duncan, of Stratford, who has been laboring in the India mission field, is home on a visit.

Levison Russell, of Leamington, died in a Detroit hospital last week, the result of the amputation of a leg.

Dr. Johnson, 433 Woodward avenue, Detroit, has purchased Joseph Visser's villa, Riverside, above Walkerville.

The 2-year-old daughter of Mr. Doan, St. Thomas, fell out of bed Thursday morning, fracturing her left forearm.

Robert Quinn, a prominent Orangeman, of Essex, is dead. His funeral was held on Friday. The Windsor and county lodges attended.

Burglars broke into William Mowday's workshop at Eagle the other night and helped themselves to a kit, consisting of chisels, etc.

The parishioners of the Roman Catholic Church, Walkerville, have decided to erect a $7,000 convent in the fall. The site has not yet been chosen.

In response to a largely signed petition the reeve and council have appointed Monday, July 3, a holiday for Watford, instead of Saturday, July 1.

Mr. McWhirter, an old resident of Norwich, and well known in the vicinity, where he was a school teacher for years, died in Norwich on Wednesday.

The feast of St. Basil was celebrated by the priests of Sandwich College on Friday. A number of Detroit and Essex county pastors are attending the celebration.

The L. E. and D. R. R. have placed a gravel train on the E. and H. branch, and will gravel the track from Sarnia to Rouleau. Gravel will be taken from the Elmhurst pit.

The police, Toledo, O., have Albert Harkness in custody with a charge of embezzlement. He is from Windsor, and is accused by the Singer Manufacturing Company.

Alex. Henderson was appointed chief of the St. Thomas fire department at the meeting of the city council Thursday night. Alonzo Bowley, the present chief, resigned to accept the position of inspector of the waterworks.

"Dr." Alice G. Lonsdale, formerly of Chatham, is on trial now before Judge Chapin, at Detroit. She is accused of having performed a criminal operation upon Cora Hetherington on Feb. 21 last, thereby causing the young woman's death two days later.

The case of William Martin, of Windsor, charged with arson, was heard in the county court. The evidence against the prisoner was so weak that the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty" after only fifteen minutes' deliberation.

Dresden Times: A woman in town last week seasoned her pie with the wrong kind of sweetening, and as a result it took Dr. Mitchell about four hours to save her life. The dose was too small, or she was a goner.

Eltham Smith, a farmer residing near Yarmouth Center, met with a distressing accident on Thursday. While working in the woods the axe struck his foot between the second and third toes, cutting clear through to the instep, and nearly severing his foot. Doctors sewed up the injured foot.

Mrs. Peter Conne, St. Thomas, died suddenly on Wednesday night at the residence of John Allen, Tyroconnel. The deceased left St. Thomas on Wednesday on a visit to Mrs. Allen, and although she had been ailing for some time, no serious result was anticipated. Mrs. Conne was born in England, and was in her 72nd year.

Referee Marcon, of Windsor, has given judgment in the action brought by the township of Andover against John C. Burns, ex-collector of taxes, and John McCarthy, ex-treasurer, to recover an alleged shortage in their accounts of $383. Judgment is given against McCarthy for the full amount of the claim, with interest at 6 per cent. A serious result was anticipated. Mrs. Conne was born in England, and was in her 72nd year.

Alexander Simpson, aged 50, employed in the Michigan alkali works, Detroit, was taken to Lapeer, Friday morning, where there is a charge of non-support pending against him, as it is claimed that he has a wife and child in that city. Simpson married Minnie Goulding, aged 23, in Petrolia, Mich., June 6, and the couple have been living in Springfield since. Mrs. Goulding now threatens to bring proceedings against Simpson for bigamy, and her brother has garnished his wages at the alkali works, on the ground that the furnished Simpson with the money to enable him to marry his sister.

Scrofula.

Another permanent cure by B.B.B. after two doctors failed.

Ask any doctor and he will tell you that, next to cancer, scrofula is one of the hardest diseases to cure.

Yet Burdock Blood Bitters applied externally to the parts affected and taken internally cured Rev. Wm. Stout, of Kirkton, Ont., permanently, after many prominent physicians failed; Cured Mrs. W. Bennet, of Crewson's Corners, Ont., permanently, when everyone thought she would die. Now Mr. H. H. Forest, Windsor Mills, P.Q., states his case as follows:

"After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by two skilled physicians, but they failed to cure me. I had running sores on my hands and legs which I could get nothing to heal until I tried B.B.B. This remedy healed them completely and permanently, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole."

At Single Fare for round trip to all local stations in Canada, Detroit, Mich., Buffalo, Black Rock, Suspension Bridge and Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Tickets good going June 30 and July 1. To return leaving destination not later than July 3.

Special excursion to Detroit Dominion Day. Tickets good for three days. $1.75.

JOHN PAUL, City Passenger Agent, O. W. RUGGLES, General Passenger and Ticket Agent.

WHAT IS CASTORIA

Castoria is for Infants and Children. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is Pleasant. It cures Diarrhoea. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

EVERY WRAPPER BEARS THE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Ask Your Grocer For...

PATE DE FOIE

Ready for Lunch and Sandwiches.

THE CANADIAN PACKING CO.