"REVOLUTION WILL COME," SAYS A. J. COOK

SECRETARY OF MINERS' UNION LAUDS BALDWIN

Praises Stand in Connection With Coal Dispute

VISIONS NEW ERA

Warnings Against "Red" Menace Uttered in British Churches Yesterday

Canadian Press Cable. LONDON, Aug. 17.—(Special) now the power we have," said A. J. Cook, general secretary of the Miners' Federation, in a speech before an enthusiastic and overflowing audience at Pontypool, Wales, on the coal crisis.

Secretary Cook declared that a new era had been established. The words of Karl Marx, "if the workers of the world unite you have nothing to lose but your chains and a revolution which will translate into deeds, he said. The coal mine owners, Cook stated, had said to the miners, "You keep out of the ring; let us fight," but the Premier was a humanitarian and a man who only desired to see the result of it if it had come to a fight between the miners and the employer. "It would have meant a revolution, take it from me," Cook added.

WARNINGS OF REVOLT

"Revolution will come," he continued. "I want a revolution that will have a disciplined army behind it—a revolution that will not have only discipline, but will be organized with an objective ahead of it, a revolution understanding its goals, a revolution where the mentality of the people will be free from the terrible curse of criticism and apathy."

Several warnings against the "red" menace were uttered from pulpits in Great Britain yesterday.

Canadian Press. Will Establish Independent Medical Register—Move Meets Opposition.

The government's decision, however, must be ratified by the Irish Parliament, and the medical men, it is stated, will seek to obtain majorities against the proposal both in the Senate and the Dail Eireann.

SUGGESTS PLAN FOR SOLUTION OF DIFFICULTY

Would Make Commissioners Privy Councilors

CONTESTS SMIDDY

Disagrees With Statement of Irish Envoy That Unity Merely Formal

WILLIAMSTOWN, Miss., Aug. 17

—The problem of giving the Dominion of the British Empire an adequate voice in the determination of its foreign policy is grave, but not insoluble, Sir Robert Borden, former Prime Minister of Canada, asserted at the Institute of Politics today in an address on "The Dominions and Foreign Relations." He gave constructive suggestions for making effective the principle of equal nationhood, complete autonomy and a voice in the Empire's policy.

Sir Robert advocated the following measures: "That the high commissioners of the Dominions at the present time be made members of their own governments, and receive the status of imperial privy councilors to enable them to attend cabinet meetings in London, when summoned."

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

"That the League of Nations representatives of the Commonwealth of Nations (The Dominions), meet before each annual session of the League assembly to discuss common problems as applied to the Dominions and that the Canadian and other empire delegates to the assembly should spend at least a week in London to discuss matters to the assembly agenda, and also vital questions touching foreign relations."

"That each Dominion send strong representatives to the League assembly, and strengthen its department of external relations."

SAYS SMIDDY WRONG Sir Robert, referring to a recent address at the Institute by Prof. F. A. Smiddy, Minister of the Interior, Free State at Washington said he did not agree with Prof. Smiddy that the diplomatic unity of the British Commonwealth was merely formal. This unity was not lessened because each Dominion can now negotiate treaties with foreign countries, and have them ratified by the commonwealth, he said. Nor would a divergence of view in the assembly of the League of Nations weaken the ties between the nation of the commonwealth.
