Housing, Death, Disease

(Halifax Recorder) When the war and its demands drew the attention of the rulers of Britain to the social and economic conditions obtaining, one of the first things noticed was the very large number of persons improperly housed and consequently condemned to live in discomfort and squallor.

It has been shown again and again by comparing notes that those "spots of desolation and the greatest juvenile delinquency coincide with the points of greatest congestion in housing accommodation. It has also been shown that there is from 25 to 50 per cent more tuberculosis in tenement house districts in every city than in the districts of individual homes. In the city of Cleveland, Ohio, not long ago, a contrasting study was made of two districts in this regard. One district was the old, crowded business section and near some manufacturing plants. The first of course consisted of crowded tenements, the other of detached or semi-detached houses.

In the first, in 1917 and 1918, there were 908 cases of tuberculosis, 52 per cent of them fatal. In the second there were 23 per thousand in the first there were 665 cases of contagious disease in 1917 or three per thousand. In the second there were 285 cases, or 129 per thousand and evidence of the same character was collected in other parts of the United States and in Britain.

It will thus be seen that better housing is a matter of vast importance to the nation as well as the individual. It means healthier workmen and women and more hours of work per day. It means the saving of infant lives and the preservation of the nation. It means the better upbringing of boys and girls and a consequent reduction of waywardness and crime. It means a better training and a cleaner and more wholesome outlook on life, accompanied by the cultivation of greater self-respect. Britain has taken the question up with vigor and wise direction. The movement is well under way in some of the American States, and it is to be hoped that amid the huge sums to be devoted to railway building and other public works, the Red Triangle Service will pursue a vigorous campaign for better housing conditions for those who must build or traverse the transportation lines.

Our climate, our public health, the saving of the young and the betterment of morals all call aloud for clean and comfortable living places for the masses.

MONTEAL, May 3.—The complete election of the railway system of the Montreal harbor and the erection of a million dollar cold storage plant are among improvements upon which, according to the commissioners, work will be started at once. In the course of a statement of the future development of the harbor, elaborate plans for the lengthening of piers and construction of transit sheds are also referred to.

COWAN GIRLS GO ON STRIKE

There had been no effort by labor leaders to organize a union in the factory. The girls wanted an increase in wages and a reduction of the number of hours of work, which the company refused.

MARINE NOTES

It was reported yesterday that the schooner E. T. Knight, of St. John, sailed from Durban to Buenos Ayres. This is now corrected, as from Buenos Ayres to Barcelona.

S. S. Talarie, 1894 tons, arrived last night with oil for the Imperial Oil Co. The ship Manchester Division (Wm. Thomson & Co.) is to sail at 12 o'clock Sunday, direct for Manchester with a large general cargo.

The Manchester line will have a direct sailing from Manchester to St. John about May 15.

The R. M. S. Parquet is to sail for the West Indies, via Halifax, tonight at 10 o'clock.

The new three-masted schooner, Alma R. (Wm. Thomson & Co.), is at Long Wharf loading a cargo of deals for England.

PREPARE NOW TO TALK TO AUSTRIA

(Continued from page 1) So far as is known the only thing in the schedule for the enemy plenipotentiaries until next week's session, at which the peace terms will be handed over, is a further meeting of the delegates with the executive committee of the peace conference Sunday morning.

The tendency of the German delegation's subordinates, particularly the girl stenographers, to break out into insolent behavior has caused the three hoteliers to turn back any Teutons found wandering off the reservation and to form a flying squad of detectives to round up any of them discovered in unauthorised parts of Versailles.

The commissioner has also issued a warning that any attempt to disturb the peace conference will lead to their instant banishment to Germany.

What Germans Think.

Paris, May 3.—In a German wireless despatch picked up in Paris, the attitude of the German plenipotentiaries to representatives of the Allies is described at length. The attitude of the French officials is characterized as "cold, but correct."

The message declares that the French and British press during the arrival of the Germans as a matter of course will will hear the breached caused by the withdrawal of the Italian delegation to the peace conference. The Italian premier is said to show a probable date of the signing of the treaty.

Italian Issue.

Paris, May 2.—(By the Associated Press)—The Italian issue is still in the balance, with Camille Barre, French ambassador, and Thomas Nelson Page, American ambassador, both making efforts at Rome to find, by conversations with Premier Orlando, a formula which will lead to the breach caused by the withdrawal of the Italian delegation to the peace conference.

The Italian premier is said to show a probable date of the signing of the treaty.

Premier Orlando has written a letter deprecating anti-American demonstrations, saying that the minister of the interior has taken steps to stop them, paying particular attention to manifestations directed against President Wilson.

Versailles, May 2.—(By the Associated Press)—An incident at the meeting of the Allied credentials committee with the Germans may indicate how the Germans will meet the much discussed question of prestige involved in the selection of language for use in the peace congress. Count von Brockdorff-Rantau, replying to a formal statement from the German plenipotentiaries, merely introduced Herr Landsberg, speaking in German, his remarks being translated into French by an official German interpreter. It is thought in some quarters here that this may be taken as a precedent of the intention of the Germans to use their own language.

Paris, May 3.—The newspapers here say that there have been numerous conferences between French plenipotentiaries and their German counterparts, in an attempt to find a satisfactory solution of the situation. According to one report the signing of the peace treaty without Italy has been avoided. Ambassador Barre is said to be very optimistic.

To— (Boston Transcript.) If the special court of five judges who is to try the ex-Kaiser should decide to banish him, will it, in designating the spot qualified to receive him, be influenced by the very widespread uncertainty of choice which so many persons in the years just past have suggested?
