MEN DO NOT GET SUFFICIENT REST

Baltimore & Ohio Railway Investigation Reveals Some Startling Facts in Regard to Sirenous Work.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Investigation by the Interstate Commerce Commission into the block signal system in use on the Baltimore and Ohio R. R. today showed that men engaged in the operation of trains work an excessive number of hours without a sufficient period of rest. It was developed that no restrictions are placed upon the hours trainmen shall work, and that they take advantage of the opportunity to increase their compensation by extra work. An instance was given when an engineer had worked for thirty-six hours and had not slept during that time. The commission dwelt at length upon the question of hours because it is believed that the facts brought out will accelerate the passage through Congress of the bill limiting the hours of trainmen.

PICNICS IN THE SNOW

Opening of New Year Saus Large Number of Visitors in Switzerland.

GENEVA, Jan. 14.—The oldest inhabitant does not remember seeing so much snow and so many visitors in this country at any previous opening of a new year.

St. Moritz, Davos, Caux, Grindelwald, and a dozen other resorts are already crowded, and a number of English competitors have already entered. Picnics in the snow, in the midst of lovely Alpine scenery, are very popular. The number of Alpineists who climb on skis has doubled this year, and many mountains up to 9,000 feet have been climbed.

SEPARATION LAW UNJUST, IMPIOUS AND SACRILEGIOUS

REIMS, France, Jan. 14.—Archbishop Luçon addressed a vigorously worded note to the municipal registrar today in the matter of the sequestration of church property by the state, in which he designated the separation law as unjust, impious and sacrilegious. He declared further that the action of the government was an abuse of the power of the state and that the state had broken its solemn promises and had no regard for the rights of the church. Neither the clergy nor the faithful of Reims would co-operate with the state in any way, the archbishop concluded, and would yield only to force.

WERE TORN TO PIECES

STUEBENVILLE, Ohio, Jan. 14.—William Smith and John Jones, Englishmen, employed by the Wash. Coal Company, were torn to pieces today by a shot from a gun accidentally discharged. The contents of the gun went into a crowd of one hundred people, but Smith and Jones received almost the entire load. Several others were shot, but not seriously hurt.

EVERYTHING UP TO DATE

The brand new and modern laundry plant which has recently been installed in the Unwar yard on the west side of the city has been put to the severest test, and has proved a complete success. The work turned out by it is of the highest quality, and it is a progressive concern out of the reach of any length of time. The Unwar people are now in their own building again, have the most recent inventions in the line of machinery, and are already turning out immaculate work.

SCHOONER EDWIN R. HUNT HAS BEEN REPORTED AT PORTO RICO

BATH, Me., Jan. 14.—Sailing from Chester, Pa., five months ago for St. Ann's, Cape Breton, to take on a cargo of gypsum for the former port, the large four masted schooner Edwin R. Hunt of this port, long overdue at Chester, has been reported at Porto Rico. News that the vessel had been sighted off the island was received here today. It is supposed that her experience on the run eastward was duplicated and that she was blown hundreds of miles out of her course by heavy gales. The big vessel sailed from Chester in ballast last summer for Cape Breton. She encountered a succession of severe gales and was blown far out into the Atlantic. Captain Sargent finally reached the Cape Breton coast in September and the Hunt was picked up by a tug and towed to St. Ann's. She left that port on October 2 with a cargo of plaster rock, but met with more unfavorable weather and was obliged to put into Halifax. The schooner left Halifax on November 26. She was not heard from again until December 17, when she was spoken in 25.51 north latitude, 60.35 west longitude. For five weeks nothing had been heard of the schooner, and she feared that she had met with a serious accident. It will probably be ten days before she arrives at her destination.

"Now our cook has gone away I don't know what we shall do." "I thought you told me your wife was such a good cook?" "Not a bit of it. I told you my wife was an expert in broils, roasts and stewa."

MARRIES GIRL HE SAVED FROM RIVER

Colorado Man Met His Wife-To-Be During a Terrific Storm in the Mountains.

KOKOMO, Ind., Jan. 15.—Kokomo society circles have been given a surprise by the announcement of the marriage of Miss Laura Johnson, of this place, to Mr. Glenn Millard McNett, of Canon City, Col. This affair is the culmination of a pretty romance. Several months ago, Miss Johnson, a stenographer and typist, was west for her health. At Royal George, near Canon City, several parties of tourists were caught in a terrific snowstorm that flooded the mountain sides and valleys. It was in this furious storm that Mr. McNett and Miss Johnson met their matrimonial fate. He rescued her to a place of safety. That was the beginning of the acquaintance that resulted in marriage. The bride also has a rescue credit due her. One day recently the bridegroom was stricken with critical illness in his apartment in the building of the Canon City National Bank, he being locked in the room alone without care or medical attention. He was in this helpless condition from Saturday evening until late Sunday afternoon, when Miss Johnson, frantic over his continued absence, hunted for the president of the bank, former Governor Peabody, who gave her duplicate keys and she went to the relief of her imprisoned and stricken sweetheart. The bridegroom is a bookkeeper and accountant in the National Bank, and Canon City is the home of the newly wedded couple.

JEALOUS MAN KILLS RIVAL

Friends Become Deadly Enemies for Love of Pretty Waitress.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—A man named Leon Argier yesterday killed a former friend named Marcel in a cafe here. The two men were in love with a waitress named Jeannette, who treated them with impartiality, encouraging first one and then the other. A close friendship which had before existed between the men, soon changed to hatred. After his dinner yesterday, Argier, who was sitting at another table, presently Marcel could stand it no longer and struck Argier in the face. Argier stabbed him to the heart, and Marcel fell dead at the feet of his sweetheart.

Cohan is acting as treasurer of the fund and is also one of the managers of the testimonial benefit which will be held in Madison Square Garden January 23, which is expected materially to swell the fund. The history of the soldiering subscriptions extends to many cities where McGovern was known either as a fighter or through his appearances on the stage.

THE UP-COMING OF THE GUGGENHEIMS

An Incident in Colbat's History Has Made Name Familiar

Meyer Guggenheim, the Head of the House, Started Lowly—Story of the Smaller Trust.

What are the Guggenheims? Thousands of Canadians have learned the answer to this question in the past few weeks. Who are the Guggenheims? Is a question not so easily answered, but since one of the brothers has been elected a United States Senator, and will be the youngest member of the Senate, the newspaper correspondents have been busily engaged in delving into the past and collecting from many sources facts bearing on this remarkable family. The story of the rise of the Guggenheims is one of the most interesting that the annals of modern business contains, and it has proved an inspiration for hundreds of poor, uneducated immigrants who started like Guggenheim, and hoped to complete the parallel.

A STREET PEDDLER.

Meyer Guggenheim, the father of "the Guggenheims," was born in a Swiss village, and came to America when 19 years old. He made his way to Philadelphia, and began his career as a merchant by peddling shoe-blackening on the streets. Money-making at this business was a tedious process, and Meyer determined that the manufacturers of blacking took most of the profit. Therefore he set himself to learn how the polish was made, and soon was a manufacturer of the stuff he sold. He saved a few dollars, and then changed his stock-in-trade, becoming a peddler of embroideries. After a while he was able to see a better prospect in the embroidery business. How did he do it? Writing of Guggenheim in the Chicago Record-Herald, William E. Curtis says that he had the Midas touch.

In 1888 Meyer Guggenheim was a man of great wealth, with money to invest in other enterprises besides that of embroidery. In this year he was "stuck" with a lot of stock in a Colorado silver mine. He soon found out that even if the mine was valuable he was not likely to benefit under present management, so, to protect his investment, he had to buy a controlling interest in the mine. It was not long until Guggenheim had caught the mining fever, and soon he sold out his other interests in order to invest in a smelter. This was the beginning of "the Guggenheims," the American Smelting and Refining Company, that is one of the greatest corporations in the world, and that handles nearly all the silver, copper, and lead of three continents.

THE SEVEN SONS.

Old Meyer Guggenheim's greatest capital was his enterprising spirit. His business was not his cash, nor his own tremendous energy, but his seven sons were all men at that time. Isaac, the eldest, was born when his father was not very prosperous, and began life as an errand boy in a grocery store. He became a competent traveler, and later on got hold of an oil well in Canada, whereby he made a fortune, which he invested in the smelting business with his father. Daniel Guggenheim, a name familiar to holders of Colbat stock, went to Switzerland as a youth, and managed the embroidery business of his father in Europe until it was sold out. Murry Guggenheim was a clerk in the smelting business, as was Solomon, who later on built smelters at Pueblo, Col., and Monterey, Mexico. Benjamin, the youngest son, was the first to receive a college education, and is one of the ablest of the brothers. He worked at the Denver smelter as a day laborer, and having mastered the technical part of the business built a great smelter at Aguas Calientes, Mexico, smelting is the inventor of a process for treating refractory copper ore, which has added to the family's millions.

Simon, who has just been elected a Senator from Colorado, is 39 years old, and received a fine education in the United States and Europe. He is the only one of the family that has ever taken an interest in politics. Before he was 30 he had been nominated for Lieutenant-Governor of the State, but his youth prevented his election. He has refused the nomination for Governor, but has been an aspirant for the Senate for some years. The youngest of the seven sons is William, who was put through the same practical training as his elder brothers. He built the smelter at Perth Amboy, N. J., when 24 years old, after original designs, and at a cost of $2,000,000.

FAMILY OF MILLIONAIRES.

It has often been said that the real ruler of the Guggenheims is the mother of the boys, who met her future husband on the emigrant ship. Mrs. Guggenheim waited on customers in the embroidery store for several years, and had a great deal to do with its success. In later life she was a philanthropist, and gave away hundreds of thousands of dollars collected by her frugal sons. The Guggenheims, as a firm, have always borne a reputation for honorable dealings; also a reputation for getting what they go after. When the two reputations clash, the history of Colbat, when it is finally written, may reveal which of the two is the fitter to survive. The present is not an opportune time to hand householders where lesser men would have gone to the wall. They are a famous family and remind one of another noted family, the Strausses, for every member of each is a millionaire many times over.

AUTHORITY OF THE PRESIDENT DISCUSSED; SEN. TILLMAN'S ATTACK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Taking but a brief time to pass the legislative executive and judicial appropriation bill, carrying nearly thirty-one million dollars, the Senate devoted the remainder of the day to the Brownsville affair. President Roosevelt's message accompanied by many additional affidavits and a cigar box of bullets and empty cartridge shells was received, and ordered printed. The speechmaking on the subject then began and continued until 5:30 o'clock. Senator Mallory, endorsing the action of the President, opened the discussion. He held that the President might have gone too far in preventing the re-enlistment of the soldiers involved, but otherwise he approved the President's order of discharge. When Senator Clay, who followed, took the floor the debate was given lively turn by Mr. Tillman's interruptions. Mr. Clay said the people of Georgia heartily endorsed the President's order. Senator Bacon followed with what he said was reported as a precedent for the Brownsville order in the discharge of a company of South Carolina national guardsmen by Senator Tillman when he was Governor. This involved Senator Tillman again in the debate. Senator Spooner was in the midst of a constitutional discussion of the authority of the President in the case when adjournment was taken. Mr. Spooner holds that when the President exercises his power as commander-in-chief of the army, the Senate has no jurisdiction to review his action.

ICE FIELDS HAVE BECOME "OPEN SEWER"

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The Merchants Association has called upon Dr. Eugene H. Porter, State Commissioner of Health, to institute an immediate surveillance of the Hudson River ice fields from which this city secures the results of the open winter river has, as it is said, become an "open sewer" and as a consequence dire results are threatened. Mr. Hatch today said: "Many ice houses situated just below Albany, where the river is so contaminated from the sewage of Albany, Troy and other towns, as to be absolutely filthy. Statistics show that typhoid fever is of frequent occurrence in these cities and towns during the period in which ice is forming, and the waste from typhoid patients passed directly into the river."

SUIT AGAINST SEVERAL S. S. COMPANIES

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Violation of the Sherman Act, preventing combinations in restraint of trade, is charged in a suit against several steamship companies and their New York agents brought in the United States circuit court today by Thomas and Company of this city, exporters.

The defendants, which are companies operating steamers to South Africa or agents of those lines, are: Union Castle Mail Steamship Co., Ceyser, Irvine and Co., Donald Currie and Co., The Buckland Steamship Lines, Hanna Steamship Navigation Co., of Bremen, and Barber and Co., of London and San Francisco, Eddy and Co.

The complaint alleges that prior to 1888, all of the defendants, excepting the Hanna Company, entered into a combination suppressing competition and securing a monopoly in steamship rates to South Africa, and that discriminations were made to certain favored shippers.
