CONSERVATIVE SMOKER WAS GREAT SUCCESS

The labor candidate. He had left the Liberal party some years ago in order to support a labor party. A number of labor men had drawn up a Workingmen's Compensation Act, and sent it before the local legislature.

After Mr. Pugsley was done with their bill they could drive a coat and four through it. So the workmen in order to have revenge put up labor candidates, and ever since then they had elected Conservative. But some were weak-minded enough to elect Mr. Pugsley for charity. (laughter).

However, Mr. Pugsley would be defeated on the 21st. The people were getting tired of his pipe dreams. Some time ago, Mr. Pugsley was going to spend $20,000,000 in Courtenay Bay, later the Times said $17,000,000, and last night it got down to $10,000,000. Before election day Mr. Pugsley would be waving his magic wand and promising to dredge out Courtenay Bay for nothing.

Continuing, Mr. Killen said, Mr. Alward left the Liberals because they appointed Judge Ritchie; and came back to them because Pugsley rejected Ned Lantlum. (laughter and applause).
"Nobody," he added, "will take any stock in Mr. Pugsley's promises. It would take 100 years to dredge out Courtenay Bay at the rate he's been dredging out in Carleton."

Exploiters of Labor.

A Voice—How long has Pugsley been building the longshoremen's shacks?
Mr. Pugsley has been making a lot of promises. He seems to think 4 or 5 graders have more influence than the workmen of St. John. But he'll be a wiser and sadder man after the 21st. Percy Thomson, John E. Beattie, McAvity, Fraser Gregory, they are the typical Liberals. I know they are the greatest exploiters of labor in St. John. Then there is Mr. Beattie, who says he will take the mills out of St. John unless reciprocity passes. That gentleman ships large quantities of lumber to the West Indies and elsewhere, and he pays boys $1 a day to scow it to the ships instead of paying the longshoremen a decent wage.

Mr. Killen burst into a patriotic song, and the audience rising joined enthusiastically in the chorus.
W. W. Allingham.
W. W. Allingham was the next speaker. He said he was glad to say a word about the issue before the people, because the cost of living and the higher cost of living and the money in the workmen's pockets was not too plentiful now. He felt assured that under reciprocity the workers would have to be content with foodstuffs that had been in cold storage for some years, and that not an enticement prospect. In conclusion he predicted that Powell and Dr. Daniel would be elected by sweeping majorities.

After the band had played O Canada Dave Pidgeon sang Rule Britannia, the audience rising and joining in the chorus.
A Great Reception.

At this stage the candidates came in and were given a tremendous reception.
Dr. Daniel was the first to respond to the calls for a speech.

"This meeting," he said, "shows that the people of St. John are not satisfied with the result of the election will be. It shows that victory will perch on our banner, and not on the star spangled banner."

Continuing, he said that at the Imperial pageant in London he had seen a tableau representing a party of Loyalists fleeing from the United States at the time of the revolution. He thought the descendants of the Loyalists who had sacrificed so much to prove their devotion to the Old Flag, would never vote for a measure designed to take them back under the stars and stripes.

"I have been going about the country where my opponent is supposed to be so strong."
A voice—Not now.

"I don't think he has as much strength as he is supposed to have. If I may judge from the reception given me, Mr. Lowell won't come over the county line with the majority he boasts he will."

A voice—He'll have a minority.
In conclusion Dr. Daniel declared he had never seen a campaign in which the Conservatives displayed so much enthusiasm, and predicted the return of the Conservatives to power.

Cheers for Mr. Powell.

Mr. Powell, the next speaker, was given an ovation. In opening he said the beaming countenances of the immense audience was all the reward he wanted for entering the campaign with the assurance he needed of victory. (Hear, hear and applause).

As for the Liberals they were whistling to keep up their courage. They feared the future; they would no doubt have the use of the services of Rev. Mr. McCaskill on the 21st inst. There would be a funeral service.

Continuing Mr. Powell predicted that the Conservatives would sweep the country, and condemned the partiality of the proceedings by which Sir Wilfrid's opponent in East Quebec had been bought off. This showed how hopeless was the fight of the Opposition.

In concluding Mr. Powell told a number of capital stories, illustrating Mr. Pugsley's habit of hanging out promises before an election, and generally proceeding on the assumption that the people are babies. As he sat down the audience rose and cheered him long and loud.

Robert Seesley then sang a song which was well received.

A Liberal Speaks.

E. A. Smith was then called upon for a recitation. On rising he said he had no apology for appearing on the platform. He had formerly supported the Liberals, but he was not a party man. He was a Canadian, and on this occasion felt it his duty to support the Conservatives and oppose the reciprocity pact.

He then recited with fine effect Canon Scott's poem "The Uncrowning of Canada" inspired by the reciprocity pact.

Fred McNeill was then held up for three songs, which he rendered to the great satisfaction of the audience.

Men, Robert Maxwell.

Hon. Robert Maxwell, who was given a rousing reception, made an interesting speech. He said the rally must be a source of pleasure to the candidates, there was a larger attendance and greater enthusiasm than at the Liberal gathering in the Opera House.

"The feeling of victory is in the air, not only in St. John, but all over the country," he continued. "The result of the voting on the 21st will be another landslide, like that of 1878 when the control of our fiscal policy was transferred to the Conservatives."

Continuing, he said everywhere he had heard the enthusiasm of the Conservatives surpassed even the campaign of '78. One prominent feature of the Conservative meetings was the number of young men in attendance. The contest was more than a struggle of Liberals and Conservatives; it was a fight for the welfare of Canada as a whole.

Continuing, the speaker said the speeches of the supporters of reciprocity were a series of contradictions, intended to deceive the unwary.

In the Times there was a long wall over the repeal of the Pike law, and the greater the number of the American mills would be adopted to Maine. Was not the repeal of the Pike law a sample of the love entertained by the United States for us—of what might be expected if reciprocity was adopted, and Washington got control of our fiscal policy?

Continuing, the speaker said that if Mr. Pugsley was so powerful, he should not have allowed the West to close an estate.
John E. Wilson, M. P. P.

John E. Wilson, M. P. P., then made a brief address, expressing his confidence of a Conservative victory, and claiming that the trade policy initiated by the Conservative party was responsible for the fact that St. John had become the winterport of Canada.

Wm. Lanron, of Carleton, then sang At the call of the chair the audience rose and sang the National Anthem, after which singing cheers were given for R. L. Egan and the candidates.

A Big Procession.

Outside the hall a monster procession was formed, and the candidates were escorted to their homes. Over 2000 men took part in this demonstration to the Conservative standard bearers and their cheers as they marched through the muddy streets, had the real ring of victory.

RESORTS TO JAIL TO OBTAIN VOTES

So extreme is the pressure to which Mr. Pugsley is pit to secure votes that his supporters appear to be driven even to the jails in search of them. John G. Sperdakes, has been held in the jail for some time on the charge of tapping electric wires for light. Yesterday a telegram was received by Sheriff deForest from Deputee Secretary of State Mulry, demanding his "immediate release."

Of course no official documents accompanied the despatch, but the prisoner nevertheless was forthwith set at liberty, a proceeding unheard of in the administration of justice. Naturally it is well understood which way the government appears to be that he will not forget the party which secured his unwarranted release.

This is one instance of the extremes to which the Hon. Mr. Pugsley's supporters are resorting in the endeavor to stem the tide of opposition which has arisen against him in this constituency. They have tapped the portals of the jails, perhaps the next resort will be the lunatic asylums.

Special to The Standard.

Jerusalem, N. B., Sept. 19.—One of the largest meetings that have ever been in this vicinity took place this evening in the local hall. The crowd was so large that the building was unable to accommodate all the people and many had to be content with posts at the doors and windows. The speakers were the candidates, Luther B. Smith, Hon. J. K. Fleming and H. W. Woods, all of whom were given a magnificent reception.

Great attention was paid to the addresses and time after time as each talking point was scored storms of cheers burst from the audience. Mr. Smith was given a particularly rousing reception, and everything indicates that he will have a large majority.
