Amsterdam, Dec. 20.
Kruger attended a meeting today in Neiwkerk, at which speakers declared that Great Britain sold her birthright for a handful of gold, and Continental powers would forever bear the brand of her gain, unless they intervened in South Africa.

Special Despatch to Daily News.

Practical Philosophy.

We make way for the man who boldly pushes past us.—Eoyee.

As we advance in life, we learn the limits of our abilities.—Fronde.

Men are as old as they feel, and women as they look.—Italian Proverb.

No woman can be handsome by the force of features alone, any more than she can be witty only by the help of speech.—Hughes.

Adversity is sometimes hard upon a man; but for one man who can stand prosperity, there are a hundred that will stand adversity.—Carlyle.

I look for power in the man; he affirms the dignity of the law; but the woman rules, and she will continue to rule, through grace alone.—
Schiller.

A traveler at Sparta, standing long upon one leg, said to a Lacedaemonian: "I do not believe you can do as much." "True," said he, "but every goose can."—Plutarch.

No nobler feeling than this, of admiration for one higher than himself, dwells in the breast of man. It is to this hour, and at all hours, the vivi-fying influence in man's life.—Carlyle.

Attacked by an Octopus.

An Australian diver having fired off a charge of dynamite to displace the stones, went to the bottom of the Moyn river, and while engaged in moving the stones a devil fish, or octopus, coiled about his arm. The body of the fish was no larger than a dinner plate, but it had eight arms, each four feet in length, and at the butt as thick as a man's wrist. The diver could not extricate himself, and had to walk as quickly as he could to the ladder and climb up into the boat.
He was a curious looking object as he came into view, but his companions wasted no time in words and cut away the eight arms without delay.
If he had not been a powerful man he could never have come to the surface.

Failed.

He obtained his form through the office door and, noting the man with the scissors, said:
"Good morning! I suppose this is the editorial!"

"No; this is the editorial room!" shouted the man with the scissors.
And one more human being was made aware of the fact that there is no longer such a thing as an "editorial sanctum sanctum." The world do move.—Philadelphia Press.

"Papa, he has broken my trusting heart," moaned the old man's sentimental daughter. "What shall I do?"
"Take it round to the quick repair shop," said the practical old man.

The Layman Explains.

"Paw."

"Well?"

"What's the difference between a professional golfer and an amateur?"
"Oh, the professional gets paid for his blame foolishness."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Another Species.

"I see that the Germans have succeeded in getting 16 per cent of sugar out of a beet."

"I'll bet you I know some beats that the Germans couldn't get anything out of!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Will Santa Claus
Bring Slippers?

Many a foot wonders if good old Santa bring a pair of nice warm slippers on Chr-mas morning.
Some are little feet; some are big feet, all feet look alike to Santa Claus—he bring them if you but give him the hint.
Put "Slippers" on your gift list—Santa Cl-will do the rest.
Plenty here to please every taste.
