From lightning and tempest; from plague pestilence and famine; from battle and murder and from sudden death, Good, Lord deliver us.

In the whole literature of prayer we know of lightning and tempest, the plague, pestilence and happily exempt from the visitation of pestilence and famine and the cruel desolations of battle, ers are to preach." the effects wrought by the raging of the tempest, the madness of murder and the inroads of sudden death, are painfully visible around us; and the Body of methodism, renounces private just the body of methodism, renounces private just pared with other ills derrecated in this prayer, John Wesley must be the guide of every man's its dreadful work, but the surging tempest often of orphans. God be pitiful to them all! Trey are many just now around some of our storm swept shores; but He knows where to find and how to succour every one of them-Husband of the widow and Father of the fatherless as he is.

It was of sudden death we were thinking particulary when we began to unite. We are all liable to such a death ; and human nature shrinks back from it instinctively. No wonder it is an unspeakably solemn thing to die. It is a solemn thing, even by a death ever so slow and gradual. to pass from all that is known to that which is altogether unknown, to the awful mysteries of eternity, to the dread presence of Jehovah-God All-holy God-Almighty. Standing upon the brink of the bridgeless river that divides the two worlds, one would desire to take a long deepdrawn breath before plunging into the dark chill waters before him, from which he is never to come back. Benevolence. the Editor of the Provincial Wesleyan,

A magnificent gift has lately been bestowed on two of the Wesleyan Methodist Schools on the Circuit.

Reubin J. Hart, E.q. of Halifax, wholly unsoliited as far as is known, has placed two properro': the annual rent, or the interests of the profor the benefit of the Wesleyan Methodist Sabbath schools in Guysboro' and at the Cover all The property for the Guysboro' school is fishing station in Chebucto Bay, formerly very valuable, and now under an annual rent of $140

Mr. Hart by this generous act has well merited the sincere thanks of the Wesleyan portion of the community, for the benefit that result therefrom cannot be estimated.
