

OBJECTS TO REMOVAL OF DUTY FROM IMPORTED HONEY.

In looking over the list of proposed changes in tariff with the United States, I find that honey is put on the free list, but have found no mention of sugar or syrup, except maple. Now if there is a duty on syrups and none on honey it is quite likely several kinds of mixtures will become honey in crossing the line. And bee-keepers ought to see that nothing which does not come up to our standards for honey be sold under its name.

It seems to me that bee-keepers ought to ask for and get the same protection that the sugar, syrup and other competing industries enjoy. If our product is free so should theirs be, and if they are protected so should we. The syrups compete in the market with honey and should have no greater protection. It is possible that the United States may ask for a revision of the proposed tariff and it might not be too late to press more strongly upon the government our claim either for a duty on honey coming into Canada or the removal of the duty on sugars and syrups, as being the only fair way to bee-keepers.
