

McGill vs. 'Varsity. 'Varsity 11, McGill 4. That was the score last Friday night, and it was a very good indication of the merits of the respective teams. It is impossible to offer any excuse for this overwhelming defeat—the best team won without a doubt.

'Varsity's combination play was superb and as McGill stuck to the time honoured tactics of unsupported individual rushes up the ice, the result was a foregone conclusion.

It is greatly to be deplored that, even with defeat staring them in the face, certain members of the team should have shown their capacity for "mixing it" to the extent they did.

For McGill, Scott and Davidson played well, while Frith and McSloy were the particular stars for 'Varsity.

The Queen's game, protested on account of the final goal having been scored by the puck striking the back bar of the net and bounding over, was ordered to be replayed, at a league meeting held here on Saturday. Queen's will, however, probably carry the matter before the Intercollegiate Athletic Association. While we feel quite justified in our protest, we regret that the spirit in which it was brought forward seems to have been misunderstood by Queen's, and hope that the cordial relations which have existed between the two Universities will not be long disturbed.

McGill II. vs. Queen's II. The intermediate hockey team was also defeated by Queen's II. by the score of 6 to 5. An easy victory was expected by

McGill owing to the fact that they defeated Queen's II. in Kingston on Monday by a score of 13 to 7. On that occasion McGill outclassed her opponents both in speed and stick-handling; but on Friday night the whole McGill team seemed disorganized. They went on the ice expecting to win

It's at the Viger—enough said.
