

Live Poultry

ROOSTERS—Market your early-hatched cockerels as broilers. They pay best in that way. Separate them from the Pullets when they weigh about a pound. Feed them bread and crushed oats in your old butterbills for two or three weeks. Get them ready now. If you have any ready now ship them to us. We can handle any amount and will pay the highest market price. When you ship to us you always receive highest prices and prompt remittances.

Achieving Success in Breeding impression that he has all of the good animals. On the other hand he should not be afraid to let the public know that he has some of the good ones, by using plenty of good advertising in the proper mediums. I am certain that the man who uses these methods will have as good results as the farmer in Kansas who, having difficulty in getting harvest hands, put a sign upon his fence that read as follows: "Harvest hands wanted—hired girl is very pretty, Victrola music every evening; six three times a day; three spoonfuls of sugar to the cup of coffee; hammocks, feather beds and leather divans at your option for sleeping; rising hour 9 o'clock; three hours' rest at noon." Needless to say, plenty of help was obtained in a short time. By using the right mediums to advertise in, the breeder can dispose of his animals as easily as the Kansas farmer disposed of his harvest. —Harry H. Moore, Poland China Record.

mation that Luther definitely dissociated ecclesiastical reformation from the social and the political! By subjecting the reformed church to the princes he divorced it from the love and confidence of the common people and created that monster which now threatens the world—a nation armed with all the resources of modern science and destitute of religion except the worship of itself.

our own birthday as a nation, let the idea sink deeply and truthfully into our hearts that the precise measure of our Christian faith is the measure in which it controls our social and political life. It has been the tragedy and the shame of the first half century of our confederated existence that our religious convictions have influenced so little our politics. The problems of the first half century have been chiefly material, the initial problems of settlement, building of towns, transportation and inter-communication. The absence of the controlling and inspiring force of religion has meant boundless graft. The problems of the next fifty years will be the problems of living together. If our religion cannot dominate more desperate evils than graft will be ours. Canada, with all the western nations, is entering the belt of storms. Only politics saturated with the spirit of Jesus can save her from strife, and it might be, from wreck.

Ontario Women Organize

An association known as the United Farm Women of Ontario was formed on Monday, June 17, at a meeting presided over by J. J. Morrison, of the United Farmers of Ontario. The meeting was attended by the wives and daughters of farmers who have been active in the organized farmers' movement. The meeting was of a provisional character and will be followed by a general meeting in the fall.
Among the speakers was Mrs. Violet McNaughtan, of Saskatchewan, who told of the assistance rendered to rural life by the organization of the wives and daughters of farmers. The provisional officers are:—
President, Mrs. George A. Brodie, Newmarket.
Vice-president, Mrs. Foots, Collingwood.
Secretary, Miss Emma Griesbach, Collingwood.
