

APPLES, ORANGES, FIGS AND PRUNES Are The Four Fruits Used in Making "Fruit-a-Tives"

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" is the only medicine in the world that is made from the juices of fresh ripe fruits. Thus, it is manifestly unfair to say, "I won't take Fruit-a-tives because I have tried other remedies and they did me no good". On the other hand, the fact that "Fruit-a-tives" is entirely different from any other preparation in the world, in any form, is a fact that is a fair trial, in any form of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys or skin. "Fruit-a-tives" is composed of the active principle of fruit and the greatest nerve tonic ever discovered. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

A Hymn for Mothers in War Time.

Countless boys who fight and fall; Oh, believe He knows them all! Oh, believe His hand can reach, With a special gift to each!
Countless stars in heaven's blue frame; Everyone He calls by name, Every sparrow's fall He sees; Are our heroes less than these?
Wounded falls your darling? Balm He sends down, and strength and calm. Killed? He takes him from the strife To the everlasting life.
Can he stay beyond his bound In whose love the lost is found? Prisoner? He can break the bond, Mother, will you yet respond?
Love, 'mid millions, keeps your son As he were the only one;
Keeps him still, alive or dead; Count the hairs upon his head. This His message, sent to you; This, in life or death, is true.
—S. G. Ford, in London Daily News.

The following from The Christian Guardian has our hearty endorsement.

If this war leads to an increase in the consumption of cigarettes, as it seems likely to do, it will be a deplorable result. Tobacco may act as a sedative to the overstrained nerves, as would any other drug of like nature. Yet the formation of the drug habit can scarcely be advocated on such grounds. The Guardian wisely says: 'Though not a rabid crank on the subject of tobacco-using, we confess that we have grown very weary of the continual appeal for tobacco and cigarettes for the soldiers, appearing in nearly all the English and very many of the Canadian papers. Of course the soldier to whom tobacco has become a necessity must have it when he is in the trenches and on the battle front, for the simple reason that he is no good without it; but this fact he must have it, whether it is convenient or inconvenient, possible or impossible, only serves to show how unwholesome and dangerous is the hold of the habit upon him. The story of fighting has several records of soldiers meeting, and even of soldiers reversing, because the men were, of sheer necessity, cut off from their supply of tobacco. These facts, as well as the other admitted fact that tobacco has an effect in delaying the healing of wounds, should at least warn us that, if the continual appeal for tobacco for the soldier has the effect of encouraging the habit, it is to that extent a great mistake.'

Lt. Ralph B. Clark, B. A.

(AN APPRECIATION)
Graduate of U. N. B., sometime preacher in Naparima College, Trinidad, third year Theological Student of the Presbyterian College, Halifax, and an Editor of the Theologie, Letter Lt. in the 26th Overseas Canadian Infantry Battalion.

Of his life in College others will tell; his life in the army, only his comrades know; but a word or two from one in touch with the soldiers, life will show of what stuff the man, Ralph Clark, was made. The private's life is not always easy and no matter how high the motive it takes some courage to enlist as such. It is not simply physical discomfort. An officer can choose his company. He expects his brother officer to act as he becomes a gentleman, and if not he has his recourse. But a private is flung with men of every kind, sometimes the best but sometimes with mates whose thoughts and speech is agony to one of culture. He enlisted in the ranks.

Gradually he grew. When Sergeant's stripes were given him, the testing of his mettle came. The custom of the Mess required all to drink to "him, and he provide the drink. Customs are stronger than laws. Break a law and you gain ill will. He refused. At once the Mess was hostile. The leading spirit would not take his hand and gave the lead. His brother sergeants—and the only friends he would freely fraternize with—put him under boycott. So he took his own way and lived his own life alone. Later he was given Mess business of one sort and another which he discharged to their best satisfaction. Character was making itself felt. By degrees the whole atmosphere changed. The man who had refused his hand now took it and openly became his friend. And so he made his way. A year in France and he was sent to England to qualify for promotion. Receiving his commission, in these last few days he was sent on in the great advance and where the air tingled with the thrill of victory he fell. The war still rages but he, and such as he, are they who made the spirit of our mighty army and fixed the kind of stuff it is.

Little Worries in the Home

THESE BRING THE WRINKLES AND FALD-FACES THAT MAKE WOMEN LOOK PREMATURELY OLD.

Almost every woman at the head of a home meets daily many little worries in her household affairs. The care of her little ones, the work about the house all contribute to these worries. Most of them may be too small to notice an hour afterwards, but they constitute a constant strain that affects the blood and the nerves and make women look prematurely old. The effect of these little worries may be noticed in sick and nervous headaches, fickle appetites, tiredness after slight exertion, and the coming of wrinkles which every woman dreads. To those thus afflicted, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills offer a speedy cure; a restoration of color to the cheeks, brightness to the eye, a healthy appetite and a sense of freedom from worries. Among the many thousands of Canadian women who have found new health and strength through these pills is Mrs. G. Strasser, Acton, Ont., who says: "I am the mother of three children and after each birth I became terribly run down. I had weak, thin, blood, always felt tired, and unable to do my household work. After the birth of my third child I seemed to be worse and was very badly run down. I found the greatest benefit from the Pink Pills. They gave me back my old self as well as in my girlhood, and could take pleasure in my work. I also used Baby's Own Tablets for my little ones and have found them a splendid medicine for childhood ailments."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or you can procure them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Animal Superstitions.

The Japanese have many curious superstitions about animals, the chief among which is their belief in the supernatural power of foxes. There are, in fact, numberless shrines in Japan which are dedicated to foxes. The badger is another animal feared by the superstitious mind. It is believed to have power to annoy people, and to be able to turn into a priest at will. The crying of weasels and the baying of dogs are considered evil omens, and such insignificant happenings send a shudder through the believers. In Japan a light-colored mouse in the house is a sign of happiness. If a spider falls from the ceiling in the morning it brings pleasure, but if at night it is thought to be very unlucky.

New Military System For Canada.

A new military system is being worked out for Canada and it will be similar to the territorial system of Great Britain. Under it no individual units will be sent to England, but the men will go as drafts for their territorial battalions. An officer will be sent with each draft and on reaching England if his services are not required in his present rank he will be given the opportunity of re-enlisting or returning to Canada. No more railway construction battalions are wanted and when the forestry battalions are recruited to strength no more will be required.

Farmers Take Government of State of North Dakota

A despatch from Bismarck, North Dakota, under date of Jan. 3rd says: The government of North Dakota passed today into the hands of farmers. Without an inaugural ball, devoid of all pomp or ceremony, Lynn F. Frazier, who ten months ago was unknown outside his own precinct took the oath of office of governor. Prior to that time he had farmed ever since he was graduated from the University of North Dakota seventeen years ago.

Governor Frazier is the first governor to be elected by the Farmers-Non-partisan league, which captured every elective state office except one and elected three justices of the supreme court, who have endorsed the program of state control outlined in the platform.

The titers of the state control executive branch of the state government were discharged to their best satisfaction. Character was making itself felt. By degrees the whole atmosphere changed. The man who had refused his hand now took it and openly became his friend. And so he made his way. A year in France and he was sent to England to qualify for promotion. Receiving his commission, in these last few days he was sent on in the great advance and where the air tingled with the thrill of victory he fell.

Mrs. A.—Our dentist has a new way of extracting teeth.
Mrs. B.—Indeed! What is it?
Mrs. A.—He uses cold air instead of chemicals. He lets the temperature of the room get down to freezing point and freezes the patient's gum in this way.
Mrs. B.—How strange! What are his reasons?
Mrs. A.—Oh, chemicals are very high on account of the war, you know.

"Certainly, sir, certainly."
"Well then let some one else make them."

Canada and the Beef Problem

WITH the price of beef and other meats soaring to unheard-of heights, and every newspaper carrying stories about the future prices of hogs and sheep and other articles of meat, there may be a modicum of comfort to be taken from the fact that the farmers and ranchers of the West have not been turning their attention to cattle and stock raising in an attempt to make two profits where he hitherto made one.

The modern farmer is very wide awake, and especially so in the West, where the price of livestock is so high that the price of a cow is as high as that of a hog. A slight increase in the price of livestock is a matter of importance to him, and he is doing so by combining it with the grain production. He is hitherto a two profit man.

According to the figures given in the Census and Statistics Bulletin issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa, all three of the western provinces show large increases in the number of livestock raised in 1913, as compared with 1912. In Saskatchewan immediately preceding 1913, all classes of livestock except swine show greater percentage of increase in the number of head than in any of the previous years. The figures for hogs show a decrease, due to the fact that the western packing firms from the alliance. One firm alone is said to have received an order for 100,000 head and hogs called for 800,000 head of hogs.

Fishermen's Boots.
A pair of rubber boots in a night that they may be rolled up and carried in the pocket is primarily designed for the use of amateur fishermen, says the Scientific American. The wading streams they are worn over the leather or canvas, affording all the protection of the heavy boots without the inconvenience of the latter when on the way to and from the fishing ground. The boots are made of pure gum, fashion hand, and have an elastic top, thus fitting tightly around the leg.

A veteran recently enlisted in the army. After a week at his new quarters he was brought up before the officer commanding for a cleaning list. "I see, I suppose it is only a few years since you were repulsed? What was your last defence?"
"Can I tell you a night's sleep?" asked the soldier, with irony on his face.
"For not cleaning 'em bow and arrow, sir."

Once upon a time an elderly farmer from a border of the country was deterred into a town dry goods store, where a sale of nightshirts was in progress.

Picking up one of the garments he gingerly loosened its folds, curiously inspecting it.
"Can I tell you a night's sleep?" asked the sales girl.
"No," said the farmer, his articulation somewhat impeded by a chew, "you couldn't sell me one, but they do say there's thousands that wear 'em."

Ere he'd rubbed over the heels, toes and soles of his stockings makes the threads stronger and doubles their wearing quality.
