FROM THE PEOPLE. WHAT SHALL SHE DO? To the Editor of The Gleaner. Sir,—I have read many views on the marriage question in your interesting column, and believe that I might feel better were I to tell my personal experience. I have been married six years, have three children. My husband is in business for himself, has a comfortable income and we own our own home. In short, he has everything that ought to make for happiness. I understand that there are many business troubles which a man must suffer, but I don't think I have ever been lacking in sympathy and understanding when confided in. Also I am an excellent cook and housekeeper. We keep a maid, but I always do the cooking to cater to my husband. Now I would like to have the opinion of readers on the following: My husband is a kind father, a very generous provider, and is not a child in his own home, but he is invariably coming home with a grouse for me, not for his children, and immediately proceeds to pick on me. I have tried to point out how unhappy his actions cause me to be, and he will invariably admit that he has a "merry disposition" and will strive to improve it, but after a few days or a week the same thing is repeated. I naturally don't take any stock in subsequent promises. I would appreciate hearing from others what course they would pursue under the circumstances. I will admit when he is in a pleasant mood.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE. Throwing a Wrench. "Jones thought he had a tin-spider to save himself worry about the H.C.L." "Yes?" "He apportioned his entire salary pro rata with his butcher, baker and candlestick maker." "And then?" "He had to call a plumber." A Wrangler. A former vicar of a country parish not far from Sheffield, a gentleman distinguished for his learning and for the position he took at Cambridge. One day, a visitor to the village got into conversation with one of the parishioners, and the talk turned to the vicar. "Your clergyman," said the visitor, "is a very able man. Why, he is a wrangler." "I never heard that he was," was the reply of the villager, "although I know his missis is a demon at it."

Summary of Night Dispatches. Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 5.—Canada's imports of both free and dutiable goods show an increase for 12 months to August, 1920, as compared with August, 1919. Washington, Oct. 5.—Department of Justice Agents in Pittsburgh reported last night that Florian Zelenka, arrested as a suspect in connection with the Wall Street explosion in New York, had been unable to explain his movements on the day of the explosion or for seven sticks of dynamite, which he admitted having had in his possession.

Wheat Prices Down. Chicago, Oct. 5.—All grain prices smashed down yesterday to the lowest level since 1917. Impairment of confidence on the part of owners appeared to be largely responsible. The finish in wheat was semi-demoralized at 11 1/2 to 12 1/2 cents net decline. The Appeal Dismissed. Washington, Oct. 5.—The District of Columbia court of appeals yesterday granted the government's motion for dismissal of a suit brought by surface opponents to test the validity of the 19th amendment to the constitution.

Irish Prisoners Start Eating. London, Oct. 5.—As a result of Lord Mayor Macdonald's long fast, the Irish prisoners have ceased to hunger strike, the London Daily Mail said yesterday. Pongzi Revelations. Boston, Oct. 5.—Jos. Daniels, a furniture dealer, who claimed a partnership with Charles Pongzi, the got rich man, told the referee in bankruptcy yesterday that he gave his attorney, Isaac Harris, $9,500 of the $10,000 received in cash from Pongzi and the balance of $400 was deposited by him in the certified check for that amount received in the First National Bank.

Railwaymen's Wage Increase. Ottawa, Oct. 5.—The Journal today publishes a statement that clerks, conductors, station and other employees of the Canadian National Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will receive wage increases averaging about 25 per cent, and dating back to May last.

Montreal Divine Dead. Montreal, Oct. 5.—Vere Rev. Dean Evans, rector of St. Stephen's church, Westmount, died last night in his 75th year, after a little over a day's illness of pneumonia.

Five Children Burn to Death. Merrill, Wis., Oct. 5.—Five children of Edward Nelson, ranging from 5 to 14 years of age, died to death yesterday when fire destroyed the Nelson farmhouse.

Nicky Arnstein's Trial. New York, Oct. 5.—Trial of Jules W. (Nicky) Arnstein, charged with grand larceny and receiving stolen property in connection with the Wall Street bond thefts, was set for October 25th, yesterday. Charitable Bequests. New York, Oct. 5.—Charitable bequests totalling $1,350,000 are made in the will of J. H. Schiff, banker and philanthropist, which was filed yesterday in the surrogate's office. Reprisals in Ireland. Dublin, Oct. 5.—Following an unsuccessful Sinn Fein raid for the purpose of burning the police barracks at French Park, County Roscommon, Sunday, reprisals were carried out next day by police and military in motor lorries. Shops, residences, crops and much property destroyed.

am crazy about him and wonder what I would do without him. But the rest of the time through life profanity and obscene language I get really desperate. I know there are few, if any, of his business friends or our home friends who would credit such a report, as he is thought to be "an ideal father" (which he is) and husband. But what woman can be happy with a pretty home, an automobile, nice clothes, etc., when she never knows from day to day what surprise friend husband is going to spring at night? Yours, UNHAPPY WIFE, Fredericton, Oct. 4, 1920.

THIS GENERATION. To the Editor of The Gleaner. Sir,—My sermon of last Sunday afternoon, as graciously donated by the Rev. Mr. Warren at the anniversary service of the George street Baptist church, was taken from Mat. 24, 23-24. It reads as follows: "Now learn a parable of the fig tree. When its branch is yet tender and putteth forth leaves, ye likewise say, 'Summer is nigh.' So likewise ye, when ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors." "These things" are not the events connected with Jerusalem's overthrow in A. D. 70, neither are they the general events of the entire Gospel age for Christ said the "end shall not yet be." But they are those things which give warning of the approaching second advent of Christ. The fig tree, which of the fig tree announces the approach of summer, so the appearance of "these things" foretold the approaching end of Christ's Kingdom. "And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh."—Luke 21:28.

As regards the world's being evangelized before the end, as foretold in Matt. 24:14, it is observed that missionaries during the last hundred years have touched every shore while the Bible has been translated into all languages and the Bible is the greatest witness that can enter any nation. The late interchurch world movement painted the world nearly all black, indicative of its unevangelized state. But it is too black. It has passed into the chronic state of unbelief, indifference and sin. Instead of being ripe for evangelism it is ripe for judgment. Furthermore, there is a universal consciousness, whether willingly or unwittingly, that the end of the age and the dissolution of all things is at hand. Christian scientists founded in very recent times say the world must be evangelized in this generation. A learned Jew is reported to the writer as saying, "The Jews believe their Messiah will come in this generation."

In the world war every Roman imperial throne fell and the world came virtually to the end of the fourth world power of Dan. 2, or the "iron monarchy of Rome." The Bible makes no provision for civil government between the Roman empire and the everlasting Kingdom of God, and we are now in the transitional period. Again, in the world war, on Dec. 11, 1917, the Turkish oppressors of Jerusalem were driven out and soon all Palestine was over the unrepeatable Turk. This brings us to the closing drama of Jewish times and the "distress of nations," according to Luke 21:25, and the next event is the glorious appearing of our beloved Lord in the clouds of heaven.

Let no one be deceived by the strenuous words of a scuffling ministry concerning a world Utopia amid the abounding depravity of these times. We expect opposition from an unbelieving world and a pleasure seeking church, and denials without number. But disbeliefs and denials are not disproofs, and we shall reaffirm our position that the present generation will witness that wonderful event for which even the ancient prophets looked. MILTON C. BURTT, Devon, N. B., Sept. 30, 1920.
