Selected Literature.

THE WRECK AT THE CLIFF.
"Hark, Dave!"
Dave, sitting by the stove early one Christmas morning, heard Grandmother Pond say a second time:
"Hark!"
"What is it, grandmother?"
"Thought I heard a roaring!"
"The sea, grandmother! It was banging against the cliff all day yesterday—fearful breakers!"
"I dare say."
She rose and went to the window, near which, on a stand, the old-fashioned candlestick still held its burning tallow taper; but above the cold, dark sea there were signs that the sun would soon have a multitude of tapers alighting in the great window of the coast for the benefit of that particular Christmas.

"How is Grandfather?" asked Dave.
"Well, his rheumatism keeps him in bed, makes him nervous. Did it snow much during the night?"
"I haven't been out, grandmother, to see."
"A snow-storm is bad for folks at sea, the sea!"
Dave knew the meaning of this. She was thinking about her sailor-boys, John and Jotham. Only the heavenly Father could tell just where John was. Jotham's Dave's uncle, but the two had not seen each other for years. David was an orphan, recently come to live with his grandparents. He now said:
"Don't I wish I had a lot of money, grandmother?"
"Why, Dave?"
"I'd make a home for sick sailors. I would let any one come that did not have a home, and could not make one for himself. 'See here! Don't I know you?'
"I feel at home anyway," said the stranger.
"Somebody bring the basket. Come on!"
To the cliff went all the apparatus; and, finally, between the cliff and the vessel's mainmast, ran grandfather's basket. Soon a man came back in it.
"Wish ye a merry Christmas!" cried Jotham.

"Wish you a good many!" said the arrival from the sea. "If it hadn't been for you, we should have had an awful Christmas out here!"
Back went the basket for the next man. Dave had hobbled to the house, and told grandfather and grandmother everything that happened. Grandfather just held up his hands to God and prayed for the shipwrecked crew.—Grandmother flew about. She warmed-up pie from her pantry. She fetched dry clothes from the closets. She made dry coffee. Oh, it was a wonderful Christmas! Every time a poor drenched sailor arrived, grandmother felt that the sailor's Saviour had come to be cheered and made comfortable. By the time all the rescued had arrived, the old farmhouse, with the grandmother stirring about and the grandfather on his bed, seemed to those loving hearts so full of the Saviour's presence that the spot became a very Bethlehem, angel's songs echoing in the air.

"Don't you want that man to come in, grandmother,—that stranger who has done so much?" asked Dave.
"Oh, yes, Dave! Bring him in!"
When he entered, grandmother threw up her hands, began to cry, and then took him in her fond arms.
"Why, John?" she sobbed.
"Yes, mother; I was wrecked the other day, on the Jersey coast, and have been travelling about to get here, but did not come till in the night, and thought I would not rouse you, but make port in the old barn, and be a kind of Christmas present for you in the morning. If it hadn't been for crutches going through the barn, I might have been sleeping now, and not helped about the wreck!"
A boy's heart leaped to think his crutches had done some good on Christmas morning. He had heard the angels' song of good will to men.—Rev. Edward A. Rand, in S. S. Times.

Temperance.
IMPRISONMENT FOR LIFE.

Imprisonment at hard labor for life was the sentence. Yet how could it be the prisoner was so young and pale, and there was still a kind, expressive look in that haggard face—and still he had committed a murder. In a drunken row he had killed a fellow man. Of course his brain was maddened with liquor; still it made no difference, and he strode back and forth in his narrow cell, fully realizing that in the morning he would be taken to the prison where, for the remainder of his life, he would eke out a miserable existence, ever to repeat of his folly.

Hark! he pauses as he hears the footsteps of his wife and child approaching—for the little baby girl and his wife have come to bid him a last farewell.
The outer door has been opened and the child admitted next to the prisoner's cage. His face was suffused with tears as with love he could place his hands upon once his story. "There's a wreck down under the cliff!"

"What, what? A wreck?"
The stranger started. In an instant he threw off his burden of sleep. He sprang up with the alertness of a deer. He rushed to the cliff, looked down a minute, and then ran back.
"Here, boy! Rouse all the neighbors! And where's your grandfather's rope? There's tackle here, somewhere, isn't there? Get a big basket?"
Dave answered these questions. He showed where various lines and ropes were stowed, where the tackle was, where a big basket stood in the corner. Then he hobbled off to rouse the neighbors.
"Wonder who that is?" thought Dave. "He's a young man—isn't old? Wonder who he is? Oh, there's a fisherman! He will help me get people. It's Jotham Smith! Jotham!" he began to shout. "There's a wreck at the cliff! Jotham! Jotham!"
It did not take Jotham Smith long to give the alarm. When the aroused neighborhood reached the cliff, they saw a line reached to the battered vessel. The stranger, tying a light line to a big spike he found in the barn, had sent it to the vessel. The crew pulled on the line, to which the rescuer had attached a firm rope. Its successor was a strong stretch of hemp almost the size of a cable. Occasional shouts from the imperilled crew reached and stimulated their solitary ally. When helpers reached him, he was dragging out the tackle from the barn.
"Hurrah!" shouted Jotham the fisherman. "Here we are! everybody take hold! Why, he said to the stranger, 'guess you are a sailor, a rigger, or something!' 'See here! Don't I know you?'
"I feel at home anyway," said the stranger.
"Somebody bring the basket. Come on!"
To the cliff went all the apparatus; and, finally, between the cliff and the vessel's mainmast, ran grandfather's basket. Soon a man came back in it.
"Wish ye a merry Christmas!" cried Jotham.

"Wish you a good many!" said the arrival from the sea. "If it hadn't been for you, we should have had an awful Christmas out here!"

the little girl's head and she could kiss papa through the bars. He then folded his blanket and made the child a pallet, took off his coat for his pillow, laid it quietly to rest while he fanned his sweet face and mingled his looks of sorrow and love with words of fondness. As sure as God lives there is righteous judgment to come. This man and his innocent wife and child are separated. He to linger and starve without his help. And all for what? A drunken row.

The man who made the whiskey still free; the one who sold it freely to sell more. Distillers still stand to curse and crush hundreds of other victims among untrained men of strong appetites.—Ez.

SAM'S ARITHMETIC.
"Come Sam, let's go in and take a little. Old Bob keeps the best cake in town.—Come along, a little drop will do you good."
"Jim, I have been thinking the matter over since I saw you last, and I can't do it. What do you suppose it costs us to patronize Old Bob?"
"Let us look at it and make a fair calculation."
"You deposit—
"Your money—and lose it.
"Your character—and lose it.
"Your health of body—and lose it.
"Your strength of mind—and lose it.
"Your manly independence—and lose it.
"Your self-control—and lose it.
"Your home comfort—and lose it.
"Your wife's happiness—and lose it.
"Your children's rights—and lose it.
"Your own honor—and lose it.
"Your own soul—and lose it!"
"Well, Sam, I never saw it in that light before. Come, let's go and sign the pledge together!"
The two friends did so, and one thing we may be certain of, they never regretted the step they took together.

THE MODERATE DRINKER.
"No moderate drinker ever expects to be a drunkard, and if he will let the first glass alone there is no danger; but, this taken, he can little realize what will follow. When the first glass is recovered, his moral affections are the strongest to resist, and from the fact that it is the nature of alcohol to weaken those moral affections, and undermine the keen, discriminating power of conscience, all the moral power he has to help him to refuse the second glass is inadequate; hence the sin must be in taking the first one, for it is this glass that opens the gateway into the highway that leads to intoxication.—The great battle in behalf of total abstinence must be fought in the field of moderate drinking. Those who drink right along and never get drunk persuade habitual drunkards more than any other class. A reformed man cannot become a moderate drinker. If he does not want to become a gutter drunkard, he must forever repudiate that first glass; he must be an absolutely total abstainer from everything that intoxicates!"

TEMPERANCE NOTES.
It is estimated that $78,200,000 is spent every year for liquor in Pennsylvania, while the output in anthracite coal, their greatest industry amounts to only $69,995,000.
There is in Japan a temperance association whose members are firmly pledged not to use even a drop of alcoholic liquor until all the waters of the earth change to the same drink.
The Supreme Court of Minnesota has decided the liquor law constitutional which provides for the imprisonment and fine of the liquor-dealers who sell to minors and on Sunday.

Says Pomeroy's Advanced Thought: "Sending whiskey and Bibles by us for the heathen is like rubbing arnica on a sword and claiming that it will heal the wound it makes!"
The insurance companies of Great Britain declare that total abstainers fall short 30 per cent of the ordinary expectancy of death, while 99 per cent of the expectancy of moderate drinkers die.

Mrs. Charlotte F. Woolbury, 22 East 14th Street, New York City, general superintendent of special department for education of youth, is furnished medals for elocutionary contests, in which young persons can compete for the prizes. Address her for further information.
The Independent, the organ of the Canadian Congregational Church, says:—"Defeated in a chosen path, men are often forced into better and more direct paths of effort. The Scott Act defeated in seven countries in one day, (which somebody calls, not a 'Waterloo,' but a 'Whiskey-loc,') has set us thinking, now that there is nothing left but the straight issue between licensed rum-selling and prohibition, that we shall all go the stronger and more directly for prohibition. And don't vote for any man who is not enough of a prohibitionist to put prohibition, voluntarily, into his election address, when he comes out as a candidate! We know where we stand; and we want to know where he stands!"

On motion of Coun. Flanagan the by-law relating to public exhibitions was so amended as to make the fee for circus and menagerie combined $100 and for other separately $50, instead of $30 and $10 as at present.
On motion of Coun. Watt permission was given for the erection by John Edie Esq., of a fence across the block west of Kerr street, with a gate for public accommodation, at a rental of $5 per year.

On motion of Coun. Adams a Committee was appointed to report to Council on its position in relation to the street processions and disturbances, Coun. Watt and O'Brien and the Sec. Treas. being the Committee.
This committee reported in the afternoon stating the Council's powers under the law.
Coun. Watt then submitted a new by-law in place of Sec. 2 of by-law 10 providing that "whoever shall shout or make any unusual noise in or upon any of the streets, highways, lanes, squares, or wharves of the County, calculated to disturb or annoy the inhabitants, or shall conduct or participate in any street parade accompanied by beating of drums or playing of musical instruments in or upon said streets, etc., unless upon written permit from the council of each parish or in the town of Newcastle or Chatham, respectively, the committee of said township, shall be liable to a penalty of $4.00.
This new by-law passed unanimously.
An allowance of $100 was made to Mr. R. G. Hall for repairs made to the public wharf, Newcastle, in accordance with the special committee report.

E. P. Williston and Dr. H. A. Fish's resignations as members of the County Board of Health were accepted and J. R. Nicholson and Dr. Frank Desmond were appointed in their places.
Coun. Watt moved to amend the by-laws by enacting that no cows or neat cattle be allowed to go at large on the streets of Newcastle or Chatham within certain districts, those in Newcastle being bounded westerly by James Falconer's upper line, easterly by Ledden's hill, northerly by the Queen's highway and southerly by the river; and those in Chatham bounded on the east by the westerly side of Frost street, on the west by the westerly line of the property formerly owned by the late James Kerr, and now owned and occupied by L. J. Tweedie, Esq., southerly by Church street and northerly by the Miramichi river.
Coun. Flanagan opposed the proposed by-law, but after discussion participated in by Coun. Morrison (who read a petition for such a by-law from leading inhabitants of Newcastle) Adams, Watt, Ryan, Jones and others, it was carried.
Coun. Morrison and Watt respectively presented memorials of Newcastle and Chatham Temperance Alliances, asking to be reimbursed, from the fund accruing from Scott Act fines, certain expenses incurred by them in prosecuting cases under the Scott Act and also five months, pay of W. S. Brown, engaged by them in laying informations against persons prosecuted, at the rate of $500 per year.
After brief discussion the matter was allowed to lie over until the January session.

On motion of Coun. Flanagan the by-law relating to public exhibitions was so amended as to make the fee for circus and menagerie combined $100 and for other separately $50, instead of $30 and $10 as at present.
On motion of Coun. Watt permission was given for the erection by John Edie Esq., of a fence across the block west of Kerr street, with a gate for public accommodation, at a rental of $5 per year.

Since drunkenness comes first and hardest upon women, since it is to her what a swine is to a garden, robbing every sweet blossom, and destroying every fruit, and making a wilderness of the garden of the Lord, I have a right to say to every young woman; By your look, by your work, and by your act, bear testimony and exert your influence against intemperance. Let not your fair hand, that yet one day shall go out in pledge, convey to another the cup which shall desecrate and destroy the household. If there be one thing that woman should stand for, it is temperance.

The district court at Wichita, Kansas, recently sentenced Joseph Roda, a whiskey vendor, to jail for two years and two months, for selling twenty-six glasses of beer, and for a fine of $2,000. One would judge by this that it is a crime to sell beer in Kansas, and the inference is almost irresistible that Prohibition prohibits.

There is international prohibition on the North Sea, which is inhabited by fishermen who for whole months literally live on the sea. By agreement, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Denmark have suppressed the liquor traffic on those waters.

France has passed a liquor law as follows:—Every person who may be condemned twice by the police for open drunkenness will be held incapable of voting, of elective eligibility, and of being named for the jury, or any public office.
"I could make a garden of Eden in the East end of London," says Dr. Parker, "in three months if I had my own way. I should do nothing but burn down all the breweries and shut up all the public houses. The deadliest enemy with which the social constitution has to contend is the damnable drinkshop!"

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL.
On motion of Coun. Adams a Committee was appointed to report to Council on its position in relation to the street processions and disturbances, Coun. Watt and O'Brien and the Sec. Treas. being the Committee.
This committee reported in the afternoon stating the Council's powers under the law.
Coun. Watt then submitted a new by-law in place of Sec. 2 of by-law 10 providing that "whoever shall shout or make any unusual noise in or upon any of the streets, highways, lanes, squares, or wharves of the County, calculated to disturb or annoy the inhabitants, or shall conduct or participate in any street parade accompanied by beating of drums or playing of musical instruments in or upon said streets, etc., unless upon written permit from the council of each parish or in the town of Newcastle or Chatham, respectively, the committee of said township, shall be liable to a penalty of $4.00.
This new by-law passed unanimously.
An allowance of $100 was made to Mr. R. G. Hall for repairs made to the public wharf, Newcastle, in accordance with the special committee report.

E. P. Williston and Dr. H. A. Fish's resignations as members of the County Board of Health were accepted and J. R. Nicholson and Dr. Frank Desmond were appointed in their places.
Coun. Watt moved to amend the by-laws by enacting that no cows or neat cattle be allowed to go at large on the streets of Newcastle or Chatham within certain districts, those in Newcastle being bounded westerly by James Falconer's upper line, easterly by Ledden's hill, northerly by the Queen's highway and southerly by the river; and those in Chatham bounded on the east by the westerly side of Frost street, on the west by the westerly line of the property formerly owned by the late James Kerr, and now owned and occupied by L. J. Tweedie, Esq., southerly by Church street and northerly by the Miramichi river.
Coun. Flanagan opposed the proposed by-law, but after discussion participated in by Coun. Morrison (who read a petition for such a by-law from leading inhabitants of Newcastle) Adams, Watt, Ryan, Jones and others, it was carried.
Coun. Morrison and Watt respectively presented memorials of Newcastle and Chatham Temperance Alliances, asking to be reimbursed, from the fund accruing from Scott Act fines, certain expenses incurred by them in prosecuting cases under the Scott Act and also five months, pay of W. S. Brown, engaged by them in laying informations against persons prosecuted, at the rate of $500 per year.
After brief discussion the matter was allowed to lie over until the January session.

On motion of Coun. Flanagan
