The Cork Election Will Convert Many Parnellites.

An Exhibition of Implements of Torture.

A Banking Firm Suspends Payment.

Members of the Defaulting Firm Shoot Themselves.

Prospective Liberal Gains in Coming Bye-Elections.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—It is announced to-day that the Government of India and the British Home Government have both been advised that the Parnell is valueless from a military point of view, either for attack or defense. Professional opinion in England and in India is, however, that Parnell has no intention of annexing any part of the Parnell; and that if he had the whole region, in the teeth of British and Chinese opposition, in her hands, it would be of no service to her for an attack on India. So the latest war cloud is dissipated.

A FAMOUS WILL CASE.

The probate suit relating to the will of Anna Maria Wood, formerly of The Lodge, Eltham, will be heard Nov. 18. Its title in the official list is Parnell (formerly O'Shea) vs. Wood and Wood (O'Shea, Steele and others intervening). The plaintiff is the youngest daughter of the late Rev. Sir John Parnell Wood. In 1867 Katharine Wood, now Mrs. Parnell, married Capt. O'Shea. Under the will of her aunt, Mrs. Anna Maria Wood, she was left sole legatee of £100,000. The will is disputed by her brother, General Sir Evelyn Wood, V.C., and Mrs. Charles Wood, D.L., who allege undue influence. Under former wills they were bequeathed, but their names were omitted in the last testamentary disposition. The deceased was 88 years of age when she died. A large array of Queen's Counsel will appear in the case, which will be of an interesting character.

THE CORK ELECTION.

The result of the Cork election has exactly confirmed our correspondent's forecasts. The Parnellites profess to have done better than they actually did, which shows that they can be thankful for small mercies. Their actual poll of Nationalists was less than 2,000, for fully 200 Tories voted for Redmond. Last evening the Tories went about boasting that they had polled more than they did at the last contested election in 1885. It is shown to-day that their candidate received 250 fewer votes than in 1885. They do not attempt to deny today that probably 250 of the vanished votes that were certainly polled were given to Redmond. It is certain that the result of the election will convince many Parnellites of the error of their ways, and it is probable that some members of the Parliamentary minority will gladly make an excuse for returning to their allegiance. No difficulties will be placed in their way, for it is the earnest desire of William O'Brien and his colleagues to win back by gentle means as many prodigals as possible before the general election; but to those who remain recalcitrant no mercy will be shown. It must be remembered that the majority of the minority have taken no part in the bitter strife which has been going on since Parnell died. They took the step which seemed to them to be best in the interests of the country and they wisely held their peace. These are the men for whom the door has been kept open and to whom the interdict given by Cork should irresistibly appeal.

John Redmond is now in a ludicrous position. Had he won Cork he would have been formally selected leader of the irreconcilables. That was the price which he exacted before resigning his seat at Wexford in order to lead the forlorn hope, but his ambition has overleaped itself. He has grasped the shadow and lost the substance. He will probably ask Wexford to take him back, but he will be beaten again. Nationalists there have already selected their candidate, and there is no reason to fear that Wexford will go wrong where Cork went right. John Redmond is destined to be a political wreck, and it is difficult to see where he will find a seat even then. The Irish Tories are warning the Government that if the general election is delayed until the next summer there will be fear that the Irish dissensions will have been healed up. They are promising the Government a gain of ten seats in Ireland if Parliament be dissolved at once. But their representations are not likely to have any effect.

COMING ELECTION TESTS.

The immediate electoral prospect is very pleasant for the Liberals. Two Tory county seats, South Morton and East Dorset, have become vacant, and the Liberals have cheerfully undertaken to win them both. In the former constituency the contest is proceeding boisterously and polling will take place on next Friday. In East Dorset, where there is a Tory majority of 655 to wipe out, the fight will not commence in earnest for several days, and the result cannot be made known for at least a fortnight.

MR. GOSCHEN AND LORD DUFFERIN.

The Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports has been given to the Marquis of Dufferin, and concurrently with this announcement we are given to understand that Mr. Goschen has made one more sacrifice. The pleasant sacrifice was offered to him, but he declined it in his self-sacrificing way because his friends say, he already had a nice home in Kent and did not want to leave it. He suggested Lord Dufferin, who, poor man, only has one castle, and that one in a remote part of Ireland, and the post was accordingly given to the noble Marquis. If Mr. Goschen should continue to make sacrifices at this reckless rate, it may be no neces-

ROYAL CELEBRATIONS.

The Emperor and Empress of Russia are celebrating their silver wedding at Livadia to-day. There was an actual wedding in the palace chapel, and the archbishop of Odessa officiated with the full pomp of the orthodox church. The Prince of Wales is also celebrating his 50th birthday in homely fashion at Sandringham, but not with his family as originally arranged and announced. The Princess of Wales and her two unmarried daughters are at Livadia, and figure to-day in the Czar's glittering train of imperial and royal relatives.

"UNEASY LIES THE HEAD," ETC.

The shadow of scandal which has rested on the Austrian throne ever since the suicide of Crown Prince Rudolf grows deeper. The Empress has become the victim of chronic melancholia, and the spectre of insanity hovers over the beautiful palace which she has built for herself in the lonely corner of the Greek island of Corfu, and she obstinately refuses to return to Vienna. Emperor Francis Joseph performs his daily work, and is seen at times by the world, but he is one of the loneliest men in Europe.

HUGH PRICE HUGHES TALKS.

Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, fresh from the Ecumenical Congress in Washington, had a great welcome home in St. James's Hall Friday night. Mr. Hughes was good enough to say some kind words about American freedom, and he had much to say about that equality of man which reigns throughout the broad United States, as proved, among other things, by the fact that Presidents, millionaires and common persons alike clean their own boots. But in one respect, it seems, scant consideration was shown for the feelings of the reverend and illustrious visitor. He was shocked to find, and he shocked his big audience last night by telling them the dreadful tale, that in Philadelphia accommodations at hotels is refused to negroes, while at railway stations, not in wicked Philadelphia alone, his eyes were opened by the notice, "Waiting room for colored people." For the rest, the Rev. Hugh Price Hughes proved that he had not escaped the attentions of those practical jokers who delight in loading up unsuspecting strangers with wonderful anecdotes illustrating the greatness of America, the wisdom of her statesmen, and the cuteness of her people.

PROGRESS OF CO-OPERATION.

A striking proof of the steady progress of the principle of co-operative production was given on Saturday at Leicester, where over 500 delegates from all parts of the kingdom assembled to assist at the formal opening of the largest co-operative boot and shoe factory in the world. The factory stands on six acres of ground. The buildings cost $150,000, and when fitted with machinery the total outlay will have been $250,000. The working capital will be $1,000,000, and the factory will be able to turn out 50,000 pairs of boots every week. This huge enterprise has been planned by the co-operative movement, and the men who make the boots will share in the profits earned by their labor.

INSTRUMENTS OF TORTURE.

Mr. McCormack, the London agent of the Chicago World's Fair, is negotiating for the loan or purchase of Lord Shrewsbury's famous collection of instruments of torture, formerly kept in the Royal Castle at Nuremberg. The collection will have been on view here in a blood-red character calculated to astound general American citizens. There are between 700 and 800 pieces—racks, tongue teasers, thumb screws, iron gloves compulsion, iron bed, barbed whips, strangling collars, spiked cradles, iron caps, an elegant array of executioners' swords, and a series of ancient pistols illustrating execution.

TORTURED BY BRING RAIN.

The British authorities of Madras have started an investigation relative to the case of horrible barbarity and superstition reported from Madras. Rain has been much needed in that vicinity, and the drought was attributed by the superstitious natives to the malignity of an evil-minded female deity. To propitiate this deity they resorted upon reviving an old practice of torture, known as "hook swinging." A woman was found who consented to undergo the ordeal. The points of iron hooks were pushed into her neck, a rope was fastened to the hooks, and the poor wretch was hoisted into the air. His shrieks of agony regarding the superstition that the goddess would answer with the long-looked-for rain. After the man had hung for an hour he was taken down, apparently not fatally injured, although with two deep wounds in his back. Whether the rain followed is not stated.

IS PATTI FAILING?

Patti sang in admirable voice to a crowded audience in the big Albert Hall, Kensington, Saturday night. She has taken the best of the week on the City of Paris, and will leave for New York on Dec. 25. Musical leave from the diva can no longer reach the high notes which she formerly took with such brilliant ease. As this is the case, there is no doubt that in the Albert Hall concert the high notes were avoided, or at least omitted, by the songstress.

TRAGIC END OF BANKERS.

Signorini and Felix Sommerfeld, brothers, who themselves yesterday in Berlin upon the publication of the fact that the Wechsel Bank, of which they were managers, had been ruined. Signorini cannot recover and Felix is dead. The sufferers by the collapse of the institution include the politician of the Reichstag, Count von Waldensee, the violinist Gruenfeld, now in New York, and several other well-known persons, besides a host of small depositors. Last night a number of managers of Berlin banks convened and agreed to concerted measures to meet and check a panic. They dispatched letters and telegrams to customers throughout Germany stating their readiness to pay deposits at any time, and that their banks would be open to-day to meet withdrawals. The panic appears to be less marked to-day.

GLADSTONE TO COSCHEN.

Mr. Gladstone has written a letter for publication in reference to the statement of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Rt. Hon. Geo. Goschen, in which the latter is credited with saying that Mr. Gladstone negotiated with both sides of the rival Irish parties at Boulogne. Mr. Gladstone says: "What Mr. Goschen says he understands he misunderstands. I had no more to do with the proceedings at Boulogne than I had with the proceedings at Vienna. I informed Mr. McCarthy of my desire to hold free communications with him. The communications were made for publicity and not for secrecy. On the police question I am not aware that Mr. Gladstone was named which was withheld in 1888."

EX-PREMIER CRISPIS LETTER.

Le Matin, of Paris, prints a letter from Signor Crispini to M. Desmarest, of the Paris bar, in which, after saying that "the Pope is consumed with ambition and would sell his soul to regain temporal power for the Papacy," Signor Crispini expresses approval of the neutralizing of Alcide-Lorraine on the condition that France joins the Dual-bud. Also, he says, would be a buffer between France and Germany. The Desmarest agreement, he adds, contains no word against France. He concludes by appealing to all men to unite to preserve Europe from the scourge of war.

DILLON AND HEALY SPEAK.

John Dillon, speaking at Templemore, Tipperary county, yesterday, said that Irishmen the whole world over are burning with pride and gratitude that the people of Cork had performed a duty so nobly. He appealed to the Parnellites to consider the hopelessness of their position, and seek for a reconciliation. Timothy Healy declared that the landlords and Orangemen supported the Parnellites, and that Mr. Redmond had received fully 1,000 Conservative votes.

MAY GO TO AUSTRALIA.

It is said that both John and William Redmond have tickets for Australia and will leave very soon. Their original tickets were for London, but John was persuaded to go to Cork on the understanding that he would remain if elected, so both exchanged for a month later. They both have wealthy Australian wives, and are anxious to go to Australia.

SPEAKER PEELS PRAISES BOXING.

Speaker Peel has enlivened the recess dullness and celebrated his own return to health by a curious public display of pugilism in a speech at Leamington. He did indeed deprecate what are called base, brutal, bloody prizefights, but he eulogized boxing and asserted that there might never come the time when the English people would cease to learn the noble art of self-defense.

OTHER CABLE GOSSIP.

The most interesting feature of the campaign in Cork was the open way in which all Tory papers in Great Britain sympathized with Mr. Redmond. There was much saying in the Tory papers that when the priests, as good citizens and good Irishmen, took sides against Mr. Parnell, every effort was strained to raise the No-Popery outcry against them and the home rule cause.

A NUMBER OF LIVES HAVE BEEN LOST BY THE FOUNDING OF THE ITALIAN BRIG VICTORIA, OFF ALICANTE, SPAIN.

Only one sailor of the entire crew has been reported saved. The Tyndale and Westaway engineers, who have been at work for some time past, resumed work to-day. The matters in dispute have been compromised. Limerick was the scene of a fierce conflict on Sunday, in which 40 soldiers and a mob of people were engaged. Four soldiers were seriously wounded with knives. Six civilians were arrested.

THE SOCIALIST LAFRAGUE HAS BEEN ELECTED TO THE FRENCH CHAMBER OF DEPUTES FOR LILLE, CAPITAL OF THE DEPARTMENT OF NORD.

Much excitement prevails in the town in consequence of his election. Lady Pancoote sailed in the Teutonic. The Duc de Vallombrosa has applied to the French tribunals to appoint a council to control the affairs of his son, the Anarchist Marquis de Mores. The Marquis's wife, nee Miss Hoffman, a wealthy American, joins in the application, and demands the separation of her personal fortune from that of the Marquis. The latter has squandered an immense amount of money in speculations in America and Tonkin.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Points from Bradstreet's Weekly Review of Trade.

New York, Nov. 7. Special telegrams to Bradstreet's are again confirmatory of the analysis of the state of general trade made public in these columns during the two preceding weeks notwithstanding unfavorable optimistic outgivings from other sources. Baltimore, where jobbers feel the pulse of almost all southern mercantile communities, reports business dull. At Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati reports are in the main far from buoyant, although at all points the outlook is regarded as good. At the west there is relatively less complaint. Mercantile collections are quiet, irregular, and average slow and unsatisfactory of tone than otherwise as far as reported. The New York share market has been depressed by liquidation due to the bank failure in Boston and the shipment of funds there. This created some pressure in the New York money market.

Exports of wheat from the United States, both coasts, this week, aggregate 3,520,000 bushels, nearly 500,000 bushels more than last week. Total exports for nineteen weeks, to Nov. 5, equal 77,376,000 bushels, against 34,975,000 bushels (Montreal included) in like portion of 1890. Special cable telegraphic advices enable Bradstreet's to point out that the total stocks of wheat available in the United States and Canada were 42,491,000 bushels larger than on Nov. 1, 1890, and 21,523,000 bushels larger than on Nov. 1, 1889.

IN THE DOMINION.

In Toronto general trade is less active than expected, though drygoods are more active. The wheat movement in Ontario is slow. Harley is going abroad freely and rye is barley. Montreal reports favorable trade prospects with fair activity in most lines, including a better demand for grain. Bank clearings at four Canadian cities aggregate $21,954,758 this week, an increase of 19 per cent. compared with last week. The Dominion reports 43 business failures this week, against 37 last week, and 27 this week last year. The total number from Jan. 1 to date is 1,557, against 1,369 last year.
