St. Thomas, August 27, 1899.
J. W. Doyle.
DEAR SIR:—In reply to yours of the 23rd inst. I am as well as I was at this time. I have not had any symptoms of rheumatism since I have been using your liniment. Further—While wheeling to Port Stanley I came into collision with another wheelman and injured my knee so that it seemed to me that it would never be well again. I told him to call on a couple of days and I would show him. He called, and I showed him my knee, from which the swelling had all disappeared. He said, "Keep right on with what you are doing." I cannot say too highly of it.
Yours truly,
J. W. Doyle.

THEY ARE NOT VIOLENT IN ACTION.—Some persons, when they wish to cleanse the stomach, resort to Epsom and other purgative salts. These are speedy in their action, but serve no permanent good. Their use produces indigestion, and if persisted in they injure the stomach. Nor do they act upon the intestine in a beneficial way. Parnelle's Vegetable Pills answer all purposes in this respect, and have no superior.

The fair at London is making the traffic heavy. It was almost impossible for trains to make any headway during the early hours this morning, especially freight trains.

FARMERS' DAY

Some 30,000 Visitors Passed Through the Gates.

Crowd Equally as Large as Last Year.

Railways Carry Over 12,000 People to the City.

The Success of the Western for 1900 Is Now Assured—How the Day Was Spent—The Speeding Events and Winners.

Wednesday at the Western Fair has come and gone with its immense crowds, and another Farmers' Day will go down in the history of London's great show as a precedent for more big days. It is always expected that Wednesday will be the day above all others for the largest number of thousands to attend, and the fair stands or falls upon the Farmers' Day attendance. For many years the yeomanry of Western Ontario have not failed in making their day the most successful of the week, and so far this year they have again been successful. It was away ahead of any of the previous days, both in numbers and in the spirit of enjoyment that prevailed. The directors would not give exact figures of the crowd, but Secretary Nelles said that he was confident that the crowd would equal, if not surpass, the corresponding day of last year, when the attendance was more than 30,000. There was one thing that tended to make a smaller crowd than would otherwise have been—the railway rates were not as low as is usual, and consequently there were not so many visitors from outside places. The low-rate days are Tuesday and Thursday. The railways did not carry so large a crowd as on Wednesday of a year ago, but they expect to carry many more today.

The bulk of the passenger business is always done by the Grand Trunk, which, with its many branch lines, traverses most Western Ontario districts. It carried a crowd estimated at 8,000. Special trains were sent from Windsor, Sarnia, Wingham, Brantford and Stratford, and each carried a full quota. An average of ten coaches were attached to each train. The "crowd" came from Windsor and intervening points, over 1,000 passengers being aboard the special. The regular trains, in addition, carried 2,000. On the C. P. R., the C. N. R., and P. E. R., probably 4,000 people were passengers, making a total of some 12,000 strangers in the city, exclusive of the large number who drove from the city. All the special trains left London on the return trip at a late hour last evening.

The people amused themselves in various ways, according to their inclinations. In the morning the main building and the various departments were well patronized, and thousands roamed about the grounds engaged in fascinating occupation of watching others. The side-show men did an immense business, and as quickly as one crowd departed from the tents another took its place. The farmers' mission, the display of agricultural implements, which in other years was a most interesting department for them. There was general regret that the manufacturers had not exhibited.

The crowd was taken up and from the grounds with gratifying promptitude. The street car company won many encomiums for the excellent service that was given. Most of the motorists and all ran within a minute or so of each other.

The parade of the prize-winning live stock before the grand stand yesterday, was one of the features of the afternoon. The performance, which was of great interest to the farmers and citizens alike. Some fine animals were shown, many of them having captured prizes in all parts of the Dominion.

The entire programme of special attractions was repeated. The Wendt family of acrobats; the Dilworths acrobats; Miss Gilbert, cornet soloist; the Rexos, the graceful skaters; Ladoux, the bounding wire artist; La Mondue, the clown who is skilful on a slack wire; the Gillette family of acrobats; the Tackey troupe of colored people, and Gourlay and Lamoth, acrobats. Praise was heard on all sides for the splendid springs provided, and many were of the opinion that the attractions of 1900 were the finest ever secured by the fair board.

The balloonists got away safely at 5, the balloons being in a southeasterly direction. Mme. LeRoux landed safely in the vicinity of the Park street school, but the professor stayed with the balloon for some time afterward, and was carried further south. The height reached by him was greater than on Monday.

Two ascensions were announced for the afternoon, at 2 and at 5 o'clock, but at the former hour the wind was too high, and the aeronauts would not venture skyward.

THE SPEEDING EVENTS.

Four horses came to the wire in the farmer's trot. Roy H. a bay gelding, owned by Slack & Hendrie, of St. Marys, was an easy winner, finishing first in three heats, without being driven out. Aladus, a black stallion, owned by John Locke, of Thamesford, had a narrow escape from being distanced in the second heat. Wm. Tottle's Doile was second in each heat, pushing the winner closely in the third mile. Golden Text, s. g. (Atkinson & Wiggle, Kingsville), and Minnie S., (W. A. Smith, Woodbridge), were drawn. The summary:

OLD TIME HOUSES....

How similar is the ancient looking house to an out of date suit. And why not, since the clothing is the house of the body? People are often judged by the appearance of their residence, as are men and women judged by the garments they wear. Those careful dressers who will be satisfied only with the most tasty and fashionable clothing are the people who deal with us. They are used to the newest and best lines, and they get these every time at this store. The styles, patterns and shades are strictly up to date.
