said Mr. Rowell, "have been the occasion for a redefinition of the standards and obligations which should govern ministerial conduct. To contrast the statements and attitude of the Prime Minister of Great Britain on those questions, with those of Sir James Whitney, does not reflect any great credit on this province." Rewell showed how differently the ministerial investigation in Great Britain was carried on compared with that in Ontario. 1934 "Mr. Asquith," Mr. Rowell told his earers, "in the course of his very memorable speech on the report of the Marconi committee, formulated what he described as a code of rules a positive obligation governing ministerial conduct. One of these rules was of special interest. No minister ought to accept any kind of favor from persens who are in negotiation with or seeking to enter into contractual or pecuniary relations with the Government. This rule, not of expediency, but of positive obligation, was clearly and admittedly violated by the Provincial Secretary of Ontario. In Engample, that the minuster should carefully avoid all transactions which could doing anything which the rules of positive obligation forbade. It was made perfectly clear in Mr. Asquith's remarks that had his colleagues violated any of the rules of positive obligation they would have deserved and received the censure of the House and this would have involved their retirement from the Government.

Railways Responsible For Fire Protection

[Canadian Press.] Ottawa, July 3.-A number mendments to the original order of the Railway Commission in regard to railway fire protection were approved of at meeting of the board this morning. The most important amendment and practically the only one objected to by the railways, was that limiting the exent of territory on either side of a rail-way track within which railways would be responsible for fires to 300 feet. his Mr. Flintoff, for the C. N. R., objected that it would make "a beautiful ammunition for a jury trial."

The chairman pointed out, however that up to the present the railway might be held responsible for an indefinite stretch of territ y which was

I am, sir, sincerely yours, and with thanks, GEO. A. MACKENZIE. 422 York street, July 2, 1913. The Manifesto.

The "manifesto" referred to mewhat lengthy document and deals with the position of the Christian workers concerning the "Baptism of the Holy Ghost." In it Rev. Mr. Macenzie points out that the Ottaway avenue church "can never be anything the public good. As a party we stand out a "Christian Workers' Church" for pledged to give to the people this according to a codicil in the trust deed. if ever affiliated with any other movement or denomination the building i we are returned to power at the would have to be sold and all the money given to two specified mission-

"The church has always stood the doctrine of the "Baptism of the Holy Ghost," but the manifesto goes on to say, "the brethren who were present at the meeting do not accept the statement that only those who have at some time spoken in another tongue have re "Baptism of the Holy Ghost, neither do they believe that all those who have spoken in another tongue are filled with the Spirit."

The Spirit-Filled Life. The manifesto after admitting that there are "special 'gifts' of The Spirit, including the 'gift of tongues' and manifestations; of The Spirit, including speaking in an unknown tongue," cites as the "truest evidences of Spirit-filled life' among other qualities, separation from the world," "holi-ness of heart and life," "illumination in the knowledge of God through His word," "a burning desire for the salvation of souls." "constant power to witness for Christ," "and absolute bedience to the Savior.'

The manifesto concludes: 'We are warned in God's word that these "last days" there will be many false and seducing spirits pressing to the front, and from all sides we hear that many are being led away by them land the ministers were guilty only of breaches of "rules of prudence" for exto be the case when supernatural manifestations are sought, and after they give color to the belief that they were have been received, and we earnestly spirit that seeks to divide the faithful ollowers of Christ, and to cause "His body" to be broken into splits and jar-

"We would also warn against every spirit in men and in women that seeks or undue prominence in the assemblies of the saints, or to ursurp authority ver God-appointed leaders.

"We would further caution our memers against readily accepting the heories of any and every stranger who may desire to call himself or herself teacher of God's people.

'We do not desire to interfere with he Christian experience of any person tho may worship with us, nor do we efuse to anyone whether man or wonan the right of testimony in our open neetings when such testimonies do not onflict with the principals for which we stand.'

PLACES FOR PLAY

similar plan in the public schools. As a result Victoria school, St. George's school and Chesley avenue school have peen equipped with playground apparatus, and at recess and after school is let out in the afternoon scores of happy children can be seen enjoying the delights of the seesaw, giant stride. Roman rings, etc. Supervision Necessary.

The school board provides for the supervision of the school playgrounds during the months that school session. No provision is made for the summer months, however, and the problem of keeping the playgrounds open during this time, when they are n greater demand than at any other time of the year, is one that is causing those connected with the movement a great amount of worry at the present time. Adequate supervision is essential if the greatest good is to come from the efforts put forth to obtain the play grounds and to secure competent per sons for this work requires consider able money. Public-spirited citizens in the past contributed money for the purpose of buying equipment, and this, of course, cannot be used to pay the salaries of those engaged in the work of supervision. And so the mothers' clubs have been left to their own resources. The Victoria School Club has engaged two young ladies and a young man to take charge of the work during the next two months and will make up the salaries among themselves.

St. George's School Club has raised enough money to secure supervision for half the summer, but the playgrounds on Parke's flats are likely to remain closed all vacation owing to the ack of funds. A meeting of the Central Mothers Club and the Playgrounds' Association was held recently at which the Playgrounds' Association gave "carte blanche" to the mothers' clubs to do as they saw fit with regard to the school playgrounds. The mothers' clubs are now endeavoring to find means to provide not only for the installation of apparatus in all the schools but also for proper supervision during the summer months "It seems too bad, after the apparatus has all been bought and put in place, to let it stand idle all summer for the want of a little energy in securing funds to pay competent supervisors," said Mrs. W. A. Tanner, ex president of the Central Mothers' Club, in speaking of the matter this morning. Just what course will be followed has ot yet been decided, and in the meantime several thousand kiddies who are unable to get out of the city to spend the holidays, are left with Maygrounds than the street.
