CUT IN PRICES FOR WEEK-END

Splendid Program at Opera House, Mystery and Tom Mix, Priced Within Reach of All.

The Opera House management are pleased to announce a special week-end admission fee for this Friday and Saturday, when the evening prices will be 25 and 50 cents as they have been all week.

This announcement should certainly find favor with theatre patrons, especially in view of the fact that the program is, if anything, better than those which have preceded it.

The Friday and Saturday bill will open with a two reel Mermaid Comedy—and a very funny one it is—followed by De La Ferre, Magician and Illusionist, presenting an entire change of magic, sleight-of-hand tricks etc.

By special request he will also repeat his "Maid of India" Sword Cabinet.

Test which was so acceptably received on Monday and Tuesday last.

Little Miss Cecilia ("Bobbie") DeLaFerre will also appear in a new dance number.

Next on the program will be the Tom Mix feature "The Last of the Duanees" from the celebrated novel by Zane Grey.

Following the feature M. DeLaFerre in his character of Mystery, Oriental Mind Reader will answer the many questions submitted by the audience. This act alone is a unique feature and patrons have been amazed at the correctness of his answers and the rapidity with which he handles the questions.

The various acts are ably staged, beautifully dressed and well presented. Certainly here is a program which is worth fifty cents of anybody's money and in view of the decrease in prices aforementioned it is probable that the Opera House will be well filled on Friday and Saturday.

A special Children's Matinee is scheduled for 2:30 p.m., Saturday. Matinee prices are 15 and 25 cents.
