itory is so well known, and it is such an old established firm, that little need be said. The firm's reputation for quality and price is also well known, and W. D. Grand intends to maintain this reputation by selling sleighs from $30 to $50 each, sleigh robes from $7 to $30 each, harnesses $15 to $50 each, horse blankets from $2 to $12 each. These prices will give a faint idea as to what may be expected, and as Mr. Grand has already sold over sixty sleighs this season, and last winter sold 150 sleighs, it is more than likely that 200 will scarcely supply this season's demand.

Mr. Grand does an exclusive commission business, handling sleighs for the manufacturers both in Canada and United States, and the firm is the oldest established in the city.
