The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Howard McLean last Wednesday. 30 members and visitors were out. Mrs. MacFee was able to be present with us and all much enjoyed her earnest talk on the work of the Institute. She brought out the idea of what could be accomplished by such a large organization as the Women's Institute by all-working together. In district work Mrs. MacFee thinks we could accomplish much by each Institute working together to help some definite outside need, also in taking up the study of some subject for our education. "Laws concerning women and children" is the special book for study that Mrs. MacFee has tried to have each Institute in her district take up, and this is something surely we all ought to be familiar with. A musical contest was much enjoyed by all, several showing they were well up in the names of the old time songs and modern ones too.

THE LATE WILBERT R. FIELD

The funeral of the late Wilbert R. Field took place Thursday, April 20th, from the family residence, lot 3, con. 3, Metcalfe, to Arkona cemetery. Evangelist Geo. Crook officiated. The pallbearers were Wilfred Fuller, Basil Fuller, Clarence Smith, George Field, John Field and Gordon Field.

The deceased was well respected by all who knew him. A little over two years ago, he was married to Miss Lottie Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fuller of Arkona. For some time Mr. Field has suffered from a nervous breakdown, and was unable to sleep for the last two weeks. Those who knew him speak of him as a fine Christian young man, and his sad death came as a sudden shock to his many friends for he had always a cheering word to speak for his Lord and Master.

He leaves behind to mourn his loss his young widow and one little daughter, Ruby Helena, aged one year and three months, also his father, Mr. Wm. Field of Watford, two brothers, John of Michigan, and Geo. near Strathroy, and two sisters, Mrs. Wm. Swift of Strathroy, and Mrs. Thomas Prangle of Watford.

God nothing does, or suffers to be done.

But what thou wouldst thyself Couldst thou but see, Through all the events of time as well as He.

John Murray, 14, an orphan, residing with his grandmother, Mrs. John Murray, on the river road, about a mile north of the village of Mooretown, was drowned in between one and two feet of water in the St. Clair river on Saturday afternoon. The youth, who had been subject to epileptic attacks, is presumed to have been strolling along the waterfront and walked out onto a small pier and while there to have been seized by an attack and fallen into the water and, unable to aid himself owing to his affliction, drowned.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. JOHN SHANNON

April 8th, 1922
The nineteenth century is complete. The volume now is closed. Each chapter of that life replete. Each paragraph disclosed. The flavor of a useful herb. For those she loved, and cared, Those who have known, and seen, and heard Her richest virtue shared. Her influence could not be lost. In rapid atmosphere What she imparted; something cost. Her heart, and soul, were these, That every vein point was correct. That thought she ne'er impressed. What she discerned it was direct. She was; what she confessed, Convictions deep were clearly shown. On objects of her life She left an impress of her own. As mother, and as wife, She lived for those she loved the best. With an unselfish heart, Her worn out tent, we leave to rest, She gladly did depart. She had her own peculiar place. And this she tried to fill. And with an humble, fragrant grace. She exercised her skill.
