Canadian Pacific Royal Train

The Prince of Wales will travel in Lord Shaughnessy's private car "Killarney", which the Chairman of the C. P. R. has placed at the Prince's disposal.

In addition to the "Killarney" the train is to have a second private car, the "Cromarty", belonging to Commander J. K. L. Ross. The "Cromarty" is finished in satinwood and fitted with every comfort imaginable.

The engine and several of the cars, notably the "Chinook", have been completed for the occasion, but are especially interesting in that they are the first of a new series of cars that have been adopted for the railway carriage building.

During his visit to Canada the Prince of Wales will live on the train for about two months, making the "Killarney" his headquarters throughout the trip. The train is accordingly equipped with modern conveniences, such as enclaves and conveniences, such as enclaves and conveniences, such as enclaves and conveniences.

In order to distinguish it from all other cars on the line, the "Killarney" will bear the coat of arms of the Prince of Wales, having beneath it the inscription "Ich dien". The car is entered by means of a small observation platform at the rear, small yet large enough to accommodate several arm chairs from which the royal party will view the wondrous wheat fields of the prairies. The first compartment is also devoted to observation, a com-compact little room fitted with a lounge, easy chairs, a table and electric fans. On rainy days or in cold weather the passing scenery may be viewed more pleasantly through the large windows on either side, than from the platform outside. A speed recorder adds interest to the constant enticement of the journey. The application of the brakes by the engineer.

Next to the observation compartment comes a section devoted to the Prince's secretary, after which one reaches the bedroom to be occupied by His Royal Highness in person. A rich simplicity characterizes this compartment, which is finished in white mahogany inlaid with a fine line of ebony outlining the panels.

Built into the walls across the end is the bedstead, finished with little ornamentation in the white mahogany of the room. Over the bed may be pulled a roller curtain to protect the occupant from the dust and draughts of the ventilators in the ceiling. The door is a full length mirror and an oval glass is set above the dressing table and toilet are brass in harmony with the woodwork and a large receptacle is screwed into the wall to hold a thermos bottle for hot or cold drinks during the night. Next to the royal bedroom is a second stateroom, with two berths similar to the first assigned to the secretary. Then in a niche in the wall is a shower bath of white tiles and porcelain.

The central portion of the car is devoted to the dining room which is tastefully decorated in royal blue. Beneath the little extension table is a heavy pile carpet of blue, with six chairs upholstered in tapestry to match. The curtains and even the drawers of the sideboard carry out the color scheme, for the silver table service reposes between divisions of blue tapestry velvet. Between the sideboard and the window is a secretaire with pens and paper ready for many social notes that will be imposed upon the Prince and his secretary. Above it is a miniature bookcase, just large enough for a few delightful volumes specially furnished, and all by Canadian authors.

With steel walls finished in imitation mahogany, a kitchenette, pantry, icebox, service counter, charcoal heater and chef's bedroom, have been fitted into limited space beyond the dining room. The compartment car "Empire" is reminiscent of an English coach, for the seats are partitioned off and joined only by the narrow corridor that runs down the length of the car. At each end is a commodious drawingroom with a sofa in addition to the upper and lower berths. The color scheme of the compartment is marbled with the green of the heavy fringed plush upholstery. In each room is to be found an individual heating control. The members of the Prince's im-
