AT THE FESTIVE BOARD.

The Annual Banquet of the Club Nationale—Stirring Speeches Arouse Great Enthusiasm—The Hon. Mr. Mercier Receives an Ovation—Liberal Policy Defended and Success Prophesied.

The annual banquet of Le Club Nationale came off last evening in the large dining hall of the Windsor hotel. About 200 gentlemen, including many delegates from Ontario and elsewhere, were present.

Alderman R. Prefontaine, president of the club, occupied the chair, having upon his right Mayor Beaugrand, Mr. Edgar Judge, president of the Young Men's Reform club; Messrs. George W. Stephens, M.P.P., T. C. Robinette, Toronto, H. J. Cloran, Selkirk Cross, B. J. Coghlin, J. X. Perrault, and on his left Mr. A. F. McIntyre, president of the Young Men's Reform Club of Ottawa; Messrs. J. E. Robidoux, M.P.P., Jas. McShane, M.P.P., D. E. Cameron, Lucknow, Ont; Ald. Beausoleil, Brunet and Dufresne, E. L. Beique, L. O. David, E. Lareau, ex-Ald. Stroud, D. Barry, J. K. Ward, A. Perry and James Stewart. The vice-chairs were occupied by Messrs. P. G. Martineau, Prevost, Bruneau and Coghlin.

The dinner provided was an excellent one and did credit to the Windsor. After dinner speech-making was commenced.

The chairman proposed a toast to "The Queen."

The chairman then proposed a toast to "Canadian Independence," and in doing so said that he was merely giving effect to the policy enunciated by the club some four years ago. All knew that such a change was not to be expected in a year or so, but all were believing that it was coming, and when it did come he hoped it would be for the benefit of the country.

The toast was responded to by Mr. H. J. Cloran, who was received with loud cheers. He said that the public opinion of Canada was fast reaching the conclusion that Canada should soon take its legitimate position among the nations. It was nearing the day when it would throw off the colonial mantle and assume all the attributes of a free and independent country. (Loud cheers.) He quoted Sir Richard Cartwright, Sir Leonard Tilley, Sir A. T. Galt, Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, John Bright, and even the Tory Gazette, as being or having been advocates of independence. He protested against the Tory organs flinging vile epithets at the heads of young Canadians who desired to see Canada set up house for itself and enjoy all the privileges, powers and responsibilities of a free country. (Applause.) He advanced many arguments in favor of independence which were forcible and convincing. Of course he did not expect the question to be solved in a day or a year. A people more than individuals could afford to wait, but it was the duty of every citizen to see that there was no unnecessary delay in the acquisition of the greatest blessing that could be the lot of a country—its independence. (Loud Applause.)

At this moment the Hon. Mr. Mercier entered the dining hall, and was extended an ovation which lasted several minutes.

Mr. Geo. Sandfield Macdonald, of Cornwall, and Mr. Cameron, of Lucknow, Ont., also responded to the toast, and expressed the hope that the next political change which Canada would undergo would be independence, and hoped that all would live to see the day in which Canada would become a nation. Mr. Cameron adduced a special argument to show that Canada had all the elements of a nation, and thought that the independence idea should be made a subject of discussion of all political clubs.

Mr. J. X. Perrault also responded to the toast, and expressed his pleasure at seeing that independence was making so much progress, and he hoped that it would be more and more appreciated every day.

The chairman then gave the toast of "The Liberal Party," which was received with great enthusiasm. He called upon Mayor Beaugrand, Mr. A. F. McIntyre, and the Hon. Mr. Mercier to respond.

Mayor Beaugrand, when he rose to respond, was loudly applauded. He held that the Liberal party of Quebec was the worthy exponent of the great ideas which had given liberty in all lands. The Liberal party had for its representatives in all ages and in all times the most progressive men and the greatest patriots. Canadians were all proud of Papineau, Mackenzie, Blake and Mercier. (Applause.) All Liberals had a right to be proud of their principles, and the convention just closed had shown that they had the courage of advocating them. He hoped they would obtain the victory in the coming struggle, but if they did not they would still have the satisfaction of knowing that they were in the right and that their cause would finally triumph. He thanked the delegates from the other provinces for having come to Montreal, and he hoped that they were satisfied and pleased with their trip.

Mr. A. F. McIntyre was loudly applauded during his remarks. He commenced by saying that at all times the Liberal party had been found to be the party of justice, of progress and of humanity. The leaders of the Liberal party in all countries were among the most illustrious men of their time. If Canada had self-government it owed it to Papineau, William Lyon Mackenzie and the other patriotic men who had carried their lives in their hands while struggling for constitutional liberty. All had reason to feel proud of their leader, the Hon. Edward Blake,—(applause)—than whom no better man ever lived. Since he had become the leader of the Liberals the differences of faith and nationality had vanished. He had created a party which extends from end to end of the country, and which is composed of all honest, independent, right thinking men. Under Mr. Mercier the Liberal party was bound to secure victory in the coming struggle, and the Province would obtain as a consequence the best Government it had ever had. (Cheers.) The Liberal party were going to reconquer Quebec—(applause)—and would do so in a short time. (Cheers.)

Hon. Mr. Mercier was long and rapturously cheered on rising to respond, the ovation lasting several minutes. He felt that in responding to the toast the National Party should have been added to it, as it was to-day identified with the Liberal Party, which included among its ranks the most enlightened and patriotic men in the country. The principles of the Liberal Party are sufficiently broad and generous to allow of all men of all nationalities to stand up in its defence. As an example Gladstone was now engaged in one of the greatest struggles in the world's history to grant justice to a whole people. The Liberal party was the natural protector of the weak and oppressed in all countries, no matter whether they were inhabitants of the Green Isle or of the North-West Territories. (Cheers.) The great Canadian leader had been the first to rise in Parliament to ask that justice be given to Ireland. (Applause.) The Canadian people had a right to feel proud of Papineau, Baldwins, Lafontaines and Hume Blakes, who had laid the foundations of constitutional government in this country. To-day the Liberal party was extending the hand of fellowship to men who had strayed from the true principles of their forefathers. (Cheers.) In concluding, he appealed to all to rally to the support of the Liberal cause, which was national in the largest and best sense. National discipline would have to be submitted to by all, and as for him, he would ever be found during the struggle at every point of danger, working for the success of the national cause. Their triumph would relieve the country from a horde of speculators who, after robbing the country, had attempted to set class against class and creed against creed. When victory shall have been secured in Quebec the triumph of Edward Blake in the Dominion House will have been achieved. (Applause.) Mr. Mercier resumed his seat amid loud cheers.

Mr. T. C. Robinette, of Toronto, then proposed a toast to "the autonomy of the Provinces." In his address he said that Mowat and his lieutenants had maintained the autonomy of Ontario, and Mr. Mercier, he was certain, would uphold that of the Province of Quebec.

Mr. J. E. Robidoux, M. P. P. for Chateauguay, in responding, remarked that the upholding of the autonomy of the Provinces was pre-eminently a Liberal doctrine. Liberalism was to be found in the spirit of the laws of Canada. So-called Conservative principles existed nowhere, and the Liberal party was ever to be found defending the rights of the Provinces. It had brought about the greatest reforms, and he hoped that the party would come out of the approaching struggle enabled to perform still greater service.

Mr. G. W. Stephens, M.P.P., also acknowledged the toast in a few well-chosen remarks.

Mr. Selkirk Cross proposed a toast to "The Commerce and Industry of Canada" in an appropriate manner, expressing the hope that the regrettable emigration to the United States would soon be stopped.

Mr. Edgar Judge replied in an earnest manner, paying a high tribute to the memory of the late Hon. John Young, who had first conceived the idea of deepening the channel of the St. Lawrence, and to whom Montreal was indebted for being the head of ocean navigation. He was satisfied that when the Government had assumed the channel debt the St. Lawrence route would become the great route of export for the North-West production.

Mr. B. J. Coghlin also responded, and among his remarks held that the National Policy was going to ruin the country, and as some one had remarked, "Canada was getting rich by becoming deeper and deeper in debt." The heavy revenue shown by the Finance Minister was an accumulation of the wealth of the people, which should be in the people's pockets.

Mr. McShane followed, and was received with applause. He referred to the great strides which Canada had made in the paths of commercial industry. Montreal was well maintaining its position, and he hoped that such would always be the case. He was glad of the success of the convention, and thought it reflected the greatest credit upon the party at large. They had all been glad to hear Mr. Mercier and he was happy to say that that gentleman was a leader of which they had reason to be proud. In the coming struggle all honest men would support the Liberal party, whose efforts were now about to be crowned with success.

Mr. Lussier gave a toast to the "Young Liberals," which was responded to by Mr. P. Ernest Tremblay.

Mr. Primeau proposed one to the "Sister Clubs" which was acknowledged by Mr. Snellgrove, of the Cobourg World; Mr. Sauvalle, a toast to "The Press" which was responded to by Mr. Lemieux of La Patrie, and Mr. Rinfret to "The Ladies," which was answered to by Mr. Lafortune.

The success of the dinner is largely due to the energy of the following officers of the Club:—President, R. Prefontaine; Vice-President, F. X. Dupuis; Secretary, A. A. Bruneau; Assistant Secretary, Wilfrid Larose; Corresponding Secretary, H. Viau; Treasurer, L. J. P. Bissonnette; Librarian, Eugene McKay; Committee, Alphonse Christin, Edmond Lareau, P. H. Roy, F. G. Bouthiller, Ernest Tremblay, A. E. Poirier, Wm. Scallon, Achille Dorion, P. G. Martineau, R. Dandurand, R. Prefontaine.

ALL ABOUT A SUCCESSFUL HUNT IN ALABAMA.

Mr. William Hunt of Vineton, Autauga Co., Ala., came to town to forward his ticket, which drew one-fifth of the first capital prize of $75,000, amounting to $15,000, in The Louisiana State Lottery at New Orleans. He is a merchant and farmer of Autauga, and will be forty years old in September. He says he has been buying tickets for the past twenty years, but has always won more than he spent for tickets. In twenty years he has paid out $435, and received (including the last prize) $15,900. He is satisfied that the drawing is straight and fair.—Salem (Ala.) Times, May 18.

From its wonderful power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. PIERCE thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all
