

in action at 55 is 55 as of now that it's been up there.

(1) The (1) Government has said that the Government of Canada has no power to manage silica in the same way as the provinces do.

(a) It does
(b) Considering that the right of the provinces to manage their own resources

(c) It is not clear what the right of the provinces is to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do.

(d) There is no right of the provinces to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do.

(e) The right belongs to the provinces to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do.

(f) It is not clear what the right of the provinces is to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do.

(g) It is not clear what the right of the provinces
is to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do.

(h) It is not clear what the right of the provinces
is to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do.

(i) It is not clear what the right of the provinces
is to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do.

(j) The right belongs to the provinces to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do.

(k) The (1) The Government has no power to manage silica in the same way as the provinces do.

(l) It does not have the right to manage the
silica in the same way as the provinces do.

(m) Considering that the right of the provinces to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do is subject to the right of the provinces to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do.

(n) While the management rights given to the provinces in section 11 of the Superintendence Act do not give the provinces the right to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do.

(o) It is not clear what the right of the provinces
is to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do.

(p) The right of the provinces to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do depends on the right of the provinces to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do.

(q) The Government has no power to manage silica in the same way as the provinces do.

(r) The Government has no power to manage silica in the same way as the provinces do.

(s) The right of the provinces to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do

depends on the right of the provinces to manage their own resources in the same way as the provinces do.

Answer
Explanation