

Sir Arthur Currie ----2.

This particularly has reference to the matter of access to the new wing and the possibility of providing such access through the Workman Building and avoid a bridge or an opening from the Engineering Building, and also reduce the cost of moving and installation.

Yours faithfully,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "A. A. Stewart". The signature is written in a cursive style with a long, sweeping underline that extends to the right.