

5. There shall be a Council, to be composed of the President, Vice-President and five Barristers, to be elected annually at the general meeting.

The Judges of the Supreme Court and Court of Admiralty being members of this Society, shall be honorary members of the Council. Four members shall be a quorum.

6. All members and office-bearers of this Society shall be elected and admitted by ballot.

7. The Council may at any time call a special meeting. If a member of the Society apply to the Council in writing to call a special meeting, and the Council refuse, then any six members may call it. The notices for such meeting stating the matters to be submitted thereto and to be signed by such members.

8. After the first day of October next, no Bye-Law of this Society affecting the rights or privileges of members or the amount of their subscription, shall be passed or altered except at a meeting consisting of more than ten members, two-thirds whereof shall concur in such new law or alteration,—nor unless notice of proposed new law or alteration shall have been given at the meeting immediately previous thereto.

9. The Council shall have the general management of the affairs of this Society, and shall settle all questions between members relative to their practice, and regulate all other matters which can come under the cognizance of this Society; but an appeal shall in all cases be allowed from the Council to the next general or special meeting, a notice of such appeal to be given to the Secretary within four days after notice of the decision.

10. A member complaining of any infringement of the rules or By-laws of the Society, or of any conduct of another member, shall inform the Council, in writing, of the nature of his complaint, and the Council shall thereupon, after having given