(SECOND EDITION)

MR. H. W. MASSINGHAM in the Nation: "I am very glad to see Mr. Zangwill's powerful play 'The War God,' published by Mr. Heinemann, for its production is by far the most important event of the dramatic season of 1911. . . . While we have been trying to pick the lock of the door which shuts out the English theatre from life, Mr. Zangwill has blown the whole structure into the air."

MR. JOHN MASEFIELD: "It seems to me the only play of our time which makes modern life significant. I think it is splendid, altogether a fine and noble thing, with all the beauty and depth which one has wanted so much for so long. It is much the biggest thing done here for many years."

MRS. ALICE MEYNELL: "A very great tragedy—full of genius. Its language moves in blank verse as the appropriate ritual of this momentous theme."

MR. JAMES DOUGLAS: "Mr. Zangwill is a man of genius. He has put on the stage a play which grapples with reality in its grimmest form. . . . The play is big with the fate of nations. . . . No play of our time cuts deeper into the flesh of reality."

MR. W. T. STEAD: "I admire the courage which led Mr. Zangwill to essay this task of high emprise. . . . It is a play which the large audience followed with intense interest and discussed with great earnestness between the acts."

MR. WILLIAM ARCHER: "An admirable, even a noble, specimen of art. . . . A very fine piece of symbolic drama."

MISS BEATRICE HARRADEN: "I go about thinking of nothing else. It stirs and holds one's brain, one's soul, one's imagination. We have indeed reason to be grateful for such a noble work."

MRS. DESPARD: "A wonderful play, which, in its strength of purpose and its courage verging on audacity, ready to meet all issues so that truth may be revealed, forces upon us the conviction that the drama has, in its hand, a great power."

MR. YOSHIO MARKINO in the Westminster Gazette: "I have found out that every sort of human brain (that you can get at present moment) is condensed into three hours' play! It is the real sketch of this world, and we are all living in it. . . . No better psychology have I ever seen."
