URGENCY OF WATER IMPROVEMENT.

Now that the experts have confirmed the report of the city engineers that the intake pipe was broken by "an act of God," by means of heavy ice and storm, Controller Church, who has got in wrong on this question, should change his base. His action just now is swayed by the demoralizing influence of the system under which he works. What is needed is not recommendations about what might, should, would or could have been done on some previous occasion, but a decision about the best thing to do now. The system always begets paralysis of present necessary action with accumulating evil results for the future. We are now suffering for what has thus occurred in the past. We will suffer in the future from the divergences of Controller Church and others. No sensible man of business spends two minutes howling over split milk. The system insists on howling all the time instead of getting to work.

The ice broke the intake pipe. Let the howling abate and let us get the pipe mended, and something settled which will put a similar accident beyond possibility in the future. If any business man's well went dry he would not wait a week before he started to sink another. How many wells must the city wait before we begin to put our water supply beyond peradventure?

Prof. Coleman says we should go to Scarborough Bluffs, build a reservoir there and run a pipe into the lake to fill it. Engineer Rust thinks we should build a tunnel. We believe one plan is about as good as the other, and that the question of cost should be the determining factor. The calculations should be available in a very short time. Under a business administration either the tunnel or the Scarborough reservoir would be under weigh in a month. According to the usual methods of the system under which we now labor it will be left to the new council to decide in 1912.

Meanwhile we have more faith in the expedition of the engineers in making repairs on the pipe, than in the recommendations of the city council.

THAT WILL 'O THE WISP.

The Canadian Parliament is legislating on something (reciprocity) that it can't deliver!

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has virtually promised the people of Canada something (reciprocity) that he can't deliver!

Won't he be in a mess should it turn out that when he had said it they paraded the Americans had still failed to pass it, or had passed something very different?

Therefore, wouldn't it be wise for him and in keeping with the honor of Canada if he sat still and saved a little real wood while the Americans were finding out where they were on the question?

Can any country afford to have its national policy at the mercy of an outsider?

And don't hitch your wagon to a will 'o the wisp. Reach for a star! Nationality, not reciprocity, is the Star of Canada!

GERMAN AND AMERICAN CITIES.

To the April number of Scribner's Magazine, Mr. Frederick C. Howe contributes a lucid comparison between the German and American cities. The most obvious thing about the German city, he says, is the orderliness and he attributes this to its age and traditions. Another, but less evident distinction is the fact that it has no mayor. The official who roughly corresponds to the mayor is known as the oberburgmeister, and he is a professional expert. For in Germany, city and town government so far as the chief executives are concerned, is a profession which can be adopted, studied and mastered just as any other branch of human activity may be. In Mr. Howe's words, "they are like the managers of a great business concern and are employed by the city council for that purpose, much as they might be employed to manage a railroad."

The present head of the City of Berlin has held that post for many years. Originally a lawyer in Breslau, he was elected to the council of that city, and became so interested in the work that he resolved to make city administration the business of his life. Dr. Adickes has occupied the corresponding position in Frankfurt for a quarter of a century and recently declined a post in the interior department of Prussia. It is elected after their first ten or twelve years, the tenure of office of these mayors becomes permanent. It is easy to see the advantage derived from continuity of management by men of proved capacity and ability, but it can scarcely be obtained in this form in English-speaking countries. Something approaching this has been secured under the British system where the chairman of committees administering important departments and undertakings often hold office for many years and become identified with their special fields.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Sir James Whitney's declaration that public opinion was against woman's suffrage was somewhat less ingenious than we are accustomed to hear from him. If he chose to advocate the extension of the franchise to women, there would be public opinion enough in a week to warrant him in granting it.

ASSESSMENT REFORM.

Sir James Whitney opposed the bill to give municipalities local option in the matter of assessing land higher than buildings. He objected to it on the ground that it was the thin end of the wedge of single tax. Objections like this will be the thin end of the wedge between Sir James and the people.

Why indeed should women wish to vote when A. E. Donovan is available to represent the sex?

Hon. A. G. MacKay was on the whole rather in favor of woman's suffrage, he said. Why then does he not adopt it as one of the planks of a really liberal platform? Sir James Whitney throws away enough good material to make the fortune of a live opposition.

Dr. Smellie made the strongest plea that was advanced in the debate on the woman's suffrage bill, when he admitted that the foreign voters required to be educated up to the standard of the ordinary Canadian woman. Prejudice alone prevents women having a vote and prevents a poor basis for legislation.

We wrote yesterday: "It is desirable that the delegated authority of the city in the hydro-electric commission should be closely assimilated with the delegated authority of the city in the local commission." The printers made it "should not be closely assimilated," the opposite of what was intended.

CONFESSION AND ABSOLUTION.

Editor World: The Rev. Dr. Griffith Thomas has come to this country to assist our doughty pamphleters of the legal profession, and our most popular Bloor-street canon, in guarding the Protestantism of the Church of England, and instructing the lifelong holders of the Book of Common Prayer, as to what they may and may not believe. Many members of the various Protestant churches are now flocking to him in great numbers at this time, not what are the views of this or that member of the Kempt party, but what is the prayer book declaration in the words of a morning and evening prayer every time either the doctor or the canon officiates, he recites as a priest, to wit: "Almighty God who hath given power and commandment to his ministers, to declare and pronounce to his people, being penitent, the absolution and remission of their sins," and in the office for the visitation of the sick, there shall the sick person be moved to make a spiritual confession of his sins, after which confession the priest shall absolve him after this sort. Our Lord Jesus Christ who hath left power to his church, to absolve all sinners who truly repent, of his great mercy forgive thee these offences, and by his authority committed to me, I absolve thee from all thy sins. In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost." Dr. Griffith Thomas in his lecture at Wyckville yesterday says that confession and absolution by means of a priest are "unthinkable to a man with the prayer book in his hands."

T.E.L. GETS CITY'S OFFER
DIRECTORS ARE MUM

Manager Macrae Sends Formal Note of Acknowledgment and That's All.

The formal offer from the city council to the Toronto Electric Light Company for the purchase of its plant was received by Manager H. H. Macrae yesterday at noon. It contained a brief note explaining that the enclosure of the extract from the report of the board of control dealing with the probable purchase and price was contained in the same envelope and that its contents had been approved by the council. It was signed by the city clerk.

About 3.30 o'clock the following formal reply, directed to City Clerk Littlejohn, was received:

"I beg to acknowledge your letter of 21st instant, enclosing the offer of the City of Toronto for the purchase of the property of this company; also extract from report No. 6 of the board of control."

"Yours truly,
H. H. Macrae,
General Manager."

Manager Macrae was afterwards questioned as to the probable action of the company in regard to accepting the letter and declared that as all he had to say on the matter. "When will the meeting of the shareholders be held?" he was asked. "I don't know that myself," was the reply. "So far as can be ascertained no date has yet been set for the discussion of the offer by the shareholders. It is expected that it will be arranged for at a meeting of the board of directors which will soon be held to talk over the situation. It is understood, however, that Mr. Macrae and Sir Henry Pellatt have not revised the opinion that the offer of the city is too low and that they can hold out for more than $125 per share. There is a possibility of the shareholders' meeting being called to order at a meeting of the board of directors, and when the meeting takes place there may be some fireworks."

OBJECT TO THE SMOKE.

The possibilities of Hudson Bay, the great Canadian inland sea, ever being utilized as a waterway for the transmission of western Canada's products to the marts of Europe have been exploited by writers innumerable. It rests with an alien to approach this subject from a new standpoint, and in picture and prose he describes it as the northern Mediterranean in this week's Sunday World.

MAGISTRATE APPROVED

INSPECTOR ARCHIBALD

Later Held That Policeman's Word Was Enough Evidence to Convict Upon.

There was a lively set to between Magistrate Peter Ellis sitting in police court yesterday morning and Chief Inspector Archibald. It arose this way: A policeman had sworn that John H. Marchmont and Archibald Rigoletti, charged with being drunk, had abused a drunk in the street. Marchmont swore that he had merely protected himself. This is no evidence to show this man was disorderly," remarked the magistrate. The chief inspector was on his feet in a moment. "I beg your pardon, A. Rigoletti has sworn otherwise. If you won't believe his word, all right," he said. "I don't wish to be interfered with," from the bench. "I am not interfering."

"You are."

"You're not conducting this court. I'll dismiss this man; they are both drunk. This has gone the limit," snapped Mr. Ellis.

"It certainly has," was the caustic rejoinder.

"You want to try my cases," retorted the magistrate.

"I do not. You needn't get annoyed. I was the unfortunate reply."

"It's going to be stopped. I'll try my own cases, understand that," was the last word from the bench and of the discussion.

FIXING A STANDARD FOR BREAD

Eight Prominent English Physicians Join in Asking That a Standard Be Fixed for the Nutritive Value of Bread.

We are making wonderful progress along the line of safeguarding the public health through the regulation of men and women work. This progress is more marked, however, in the many efforts that are being put forth to educate the public on the nutritive value of foods. The good educational work has been going on, however, until it has finally reached the point where the regulation of the right of health officers and food inspectors to actually set a standard for a nutritive value of foods.

The first specific charge against him was based on a customs entry of an automobile for Henry Cleave, the banker. Hollander, as customs broker, entered the machine at the customs at a valuation of $850, but charged Mr. Cleave duty on $1850. An examination showed that Hollander had been doing business in the same way for years among his clients being J. P. Morgan, Andrew Carnegie and other millionaires, for whom he acted as agent in the importation of various objects of art. Hollander was a member of exclusive clubs, and lived among the wealthy. He is a good musician, a connoisseur in art, and was a patron of the art duels.

GOTHAM CUSTOMS BROKER

SENT DOWN FOR FORGERY

Had Certificate From Mayor of Quebec—Morgan and Carnegie Among His Customers.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Alexander Hollander, 4016 member of the firm of Alexander Hollander and Company, customs brokers, pleaded guilty in the U.S. Circuit Court this afternoon to a charge of forgery in connection with customs frauds aggregating $500,000. He was arrested in Naples last July and after a long fight was brought back to this city in December.

Hollander was sentenced this afternoon to fifteen months' imprisonment in the federal prison at Atlanta.

When Hollander, who is a native of Austria, and has had a distinguished business career in Germany, England and New York, was discovered defrauding both the government and his customers in January, 1910, he ran away to Montreal and Quebec. When finally caught at the Park Hotel, Naples, it was found that he had a certificate from the Mayor of Quebec, setting forth that the bearer, Jacques Bonhomme, was a resident of Quebec and a British subject. He fought extradition thru all the courts of Italy, but gave up the fight when brought before the federal courts here.

FARMERS AFTER HIRED MEN

Newly-Arrived Immigrants Are besieged With Offers of Employment.

The shortage of farm help for Ontario is greater this year than ever. A great number of farmers are coming into the city in search of recruits from among the new arrivals from the old country, but for one that has his quest, there are dozens that will not obtain even one man. Many are under the impression that the majority of the new comers arrive here with no set idea of how or where they are to obtain employment, while the truth is that nearly everyone who comes knows exactly what he is going to do before he leaves the old country.

The wages being offered are not very high. An experienced man of ordinary physique will be offered from $12 to $15 per month and board, while one who can plow, milk, and in every way fulfill the duties required of him can get from $25 to $35.

G. L. Stewart, Dominion Immigration superintendent, has applications from over two hundred farmers requiring in the neighborhood of 250 persons, some as beginners, others as experienced men, and also married couples, and further applications are being received daily.
