ALDERMEN AREN'T EAGER TO CALL OUT THE POLICE

Controllers' Resolution May Be Sicklied O'er With the Pale Cast of Thought in Being Dealt With by Council This Morning.

Manager Fleming of the street rail
May is saying possible for the present.

"I would prefer not to discuss the question," was his invariable reply to do not want to have the city attempt question," was his invariable to what the anything illegal.

Questions last night as to what the anything illegal.

What Could a Cop Do police were ordered out?

The special meeting of the city council at 11 a.m. to-day will also discuss the board of control's recommendation that appeal be made to the Ontario should stop the cars, the motormen or overcrowding on the street cars.

The opinions of a number of aldermen, as given below do not point torailway board for relief from the ills could be cor

Ald. J. Hales: I can't say 'yet how I'll vote, as I haven't got all the facts.
If it could be legally done I should certainly like to see the old routes restored. There is a pretty strong feeling that we should order the change, even if not strictly within our legal rights, meetings, has been sicklied o'er by but I think we should be guided conconsideration of Mr. Fullerton's letter.

Here are some of the views.

Here are some of the views:

Follow Fullerton's Advice.

Ald. McBride: I want to hear the discussion before I will say how I'm going to vote. If Mr. Fullerton says we haven't got the right to call out the police, what's the sense in having him there is we don't follow his advice. All the trouble over Yonge-street orige was because the city didn't do so. If we can't depend on him, then we have no right to pay his salary. bridge was because the city didn't do so. If we can't depend on him, then we have no right to pay his salary. My opinion is that Hocken is going a little too far. The whole thing looks to me as if we haven't a strong enough man in Rust's position. The street railway service is all mixed up, due to this changing of routes every day, and if we can better it, well and good, but I don't want to see the city let in for a big lawsuit.

Aid. McMurrich: I don't know exactly how to vote. The street railway violated their agreement by changing the routes without consulting the city engineer, and, besides, they should have advertised in the papers and let the people know of the changes. Ever since the loops began the service has been mixed up all round, and is certainly worse than a service as the near the people know of the changes. Ever sainly worse than a service has been mixed up all round, and is certainly worse than a service and the company had not altered the routes, is as follows.

The resolution passed at the noon meeting of the board Saturday on receiving advice that the company had not altered the routes, is as follows.

How. Robert JAFFRAY: "Aye, movin' discourses that come frae its that the board of control could not go ahead without the support of council that stood in the way of summary of council not see without the support of council that the board of control could not see the core it allows.

sists on certain things being done and the railway doesn't do them, he has ower to appeal to the county judge.
"We have got to look at the legal tandpoint at the same time. The
