

"PAT" SHEEDY HAS GALLERY OF ART

Paintings Collected by "Jack" Carr, Including Works of Masters, To Be Sold.

New York, Oct. 25.—Patrick F. Sheedy, long of Chicago, who makes no pretence of being "art for art's sake," has about to realize the dream of a lifetime by opening at 161 West Thirty-fourth street a picture gallery. One of the attractions of his gallery will be an assemblage of old and modern paintings collected by Jack Carr, who recently passed from this life in Copenhagen.

These works of art were supposed to have been collected by their owner in an entirely informal manner. Many were picked up here and there at cut rate prices, like the Meyer von Bremen recently offered in this city, or quietly selected from private collections. There are a hundred or so of them, and the last one was obtained 23 years ago, according to Sheedy. They, however, have been kept from the public eye so long that questions of titles are not likely to be raised. The fact that such an artistic treasure existed in Europe was pointed out several weeks ago in a cable dispatch from Paris.

Sheedy has been in communication with the present owners, and when they deliver the paintings in New York he will be able to make satisfactory arrangements for their disposition. These canvases will not constitute the entire stock, but the famous painting which the noted amateur, who has now become a professional collector, has in mind, the hand, will also be on view. Two hundred other art works, some of them from the brushes of old masters, and a few now innocent of varnish, will be displayed.

"Men change their opinions," said Sheedy, "but not their principles. I am no reformer, and I do not intend to claim my honesty. I will sell what I like, and I would be the same if I were a millionaire of the gospel. I've gone through life looking for the good in what might be termed the bad people, and not looking for the bad in what might be termed the good people."

"Anybody can buy a picture from me with impunity, and I will get a great deal for doing so. I'm not one of those dealers who will say, 'It's all right, but don't say you got it from me.' I have been preparing for this business now about twenty years, and I will have something here well worth looking at. I will show Troyon and Corot, I will show some of the best pictures of Ziem and of Henner, and of both Dupres. I have just bought from Seabert ten of his best examples. I have two of the best Bouguereau, and for the works of Vibert just call on me. Two of the best paintings of Rosa Bonheur are to be seen in my gallery."

"Many of the nouveau riche have plenty of money to spend, but having no training in art, they do not know how to do it. For the benefit of the uninitiated I have gathered some small collections which will be placed in rooms so that they may be studied with reference to the furnishings. One who sees pictures in a glance whether or not the works will harmonize with white and gold interiors. If they don't, it can be seen in the effect of some other color."

It was through the mediation of Sheedy that the famous portrait of the Duchess of Devonshire, which was stolen in Chicago and returned to its owner.

SWITZERLAND'S BIG SEASON

Exclusion of Automobiles Is Not Attended by Expected Disastrous Results.

The specially severe ordinances for the control of automobile driving have recently been enacted in Switzerland, and it is reported that no small dismay among hotel and boarding house keepers, who feared that the wealthiest tourists would be kept out of the country, and a lean summer season would be the result. Unofficial figures, compiled at Bern, however, show that this fear was wholly unfounded.

It is said that the season has been by far the most profitable that the mountain region has ever known. It is calculated that the amount gathered in by the hotels and pensions amounted to more than six millions of marks, or about $15,000,000.

In addition, the earnings of the railroads and lake steamboats from the tourist travel exceeded 20,000,000 marks, or $50,000,000. No estimate can be made of the amount left behind by visitors in the shape of tips, fees to guides, hire of horses and carriages and for purchases of all sorts, but it would foot up several million marks.

The people who cater to tourists are now taking the ground that the exclusion of automobiles to a considerable extent is a positive attraction to summerers who do not own machines. Tales are reaching them of the annoyance caused by dust and noise and danger to the visitors to resorts on the Mediterranean coast, and they are promising themselves even a more prosperous season next year than this.

The estimates made of the total number of visitors to Switzerland this summer approximates 500,000, representing all the countries in Europe, not to speak of America. The number of German visitors was especially large, reaching, it is believed, 38 per cent of the whole number. England came next with about 18 per cent.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.
Take LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box.

Flaming are lights have now become an established feature of downtown Chicago streets. They are new, comparatively, for their principle has long been known. The flaming arcs thus far shown in the United States produce a light yellow, red or vivid white light, according to the carbons used. The addition of the salts of fluoride, bromide and iodide of lime give the light the yellow tint, while other salts of lime give the flame a red color.

SOMETHING MORE THAN A PURGATIVE.—To purge is the only effect of many pills now on the market. Laxative Bismuth Pills are more than a purgative. They strengthen the stomach, where other pills weaken it. They cleanse the blood by regulating the liver and kidneys, and they stimulate where other pills compound depression. Nothing of an injurious nature, used for merely purgative purposes, slips into their composition.

BLANKET INDIANS ARE MIGRATING

Carlisle Graduate in Native Dress and With Three Squaws Heads Party.

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 25.—Blanket Indians are on the move. During the past week a party of them passed through this city, headed by "Carlisle Bill," who seemed to be the spokesman for the Indians. He derived his nickname because of the fact that he is a graduate of the Carlisle school. He is a fullblood Cherokee and wears the native costume.

In anticipation of both Indian Territory and Oklahoma becoming states these Indians are uneasy and are seeking another country. They are going to Mexico where they say they can continue to live their own lives in their own way without being bothered by the white man under the latter's civilizing influence. The Indians are colonizing in Chihuahua.

The Indians were togged out in regular redman fashion. They wore platted, long hair down their backs, while their headgear consisted of tattered hats stuck full of feathers and gaily decorated with beads. Moccasins were worn and their bodies were covered with deep red blankets of their own make. "Carlisle Bill" spoke good English. He had with him three squaws and one pappoose.

"Practically, all the Indians who have not been Americanized are going to Mexico to live," said Carlisle Bill. "We do not care to adopt American customs and Mexico is the only country we can live in in freedom. I represent about 500 families of my tribe and expect to buy from the Mexican Government from 100,000 to 200,000 acres of land in the mountains of Chihuahua, where we will live in future."

"Hunting and fishing are good here and we will have the freedom we desire. The Indians are the richest people per capita in the United States, and we are amply able to buy our own lands. The Mexican Government has guaranteed to permit us to live as we please on the land we purchase. As soon as we have secured the land I will return to the territory and will bring all my people back with me."

The real "blanket" Indians are greatly dissatisfied with the fact that all of the Indian Territory has been opened to white settlement. They know it means that they must accept the ways of the white people or be exterminated. Mexico is offering inducements for them to go there. Under the new law the Indians have no tribal government and can sell their land and go where they please, provided they behave themselves.

KAISER PLAYS AT CALIPH HAROUN

Rambles Incognito Through the Streets of the German Capital.

Berlin, Oct. 25.—Curious stories of the Kaiser's weakness for studying the problems of his capital and his people, after the fashion of Haroun al Raschid, the Caliph of Bagdad, are going the round of court circles now.

It is stated that in order to obtain impartial views of the Berliners concerning many innovations that he contemplates, the Kaiser has occasionally made use of private carriages at night to drive to some frequented spot, where he has alighted and mixed with the crowd. In spite of his characteristic and marked features, he has invariably escaped detection.

A few weeks ago he strolled alone at the corner of Potsdamer Platz for over an hour to study means and methods whereby the enormous and congested traffic there could be best dealt with. With the exception of a single occasion, when the Emperor sallied forth on these light tours of inspection alone, not even his gentleman-in-waiting being in attendance.

The reports which were current a few days ago that the Kaiser's health was again giving cause for alarm in consequence of the recurrence of throat troubles are belied by his remarkable performance in the hunting forests at Rominten yesterday, when in the course of a deer-stalking expedition lasting eight hours without a break, his Majesty brought down two magnificent stags with 16-pound antlers.

The first stag, rather an old one, was shot shortly after breakfast. He was killed principally because of the annoyance he caused to younger and better animals. Meantime, a thoroughly high-grade stag, with irregular 16-pound antlers, was reported to be roaming in another section of the forest.

The Kaiser jumped into his swiftest motor car, accompanied by Admirals von Tirpitz and Mueller, and a little after 2 o'clock in the afternoon got within range of his prey, and with a splendidly aimed shot through the vitals, brought the stag to earth. He weighed 389 pounds.

Says a Russian officer: "The chief characteristic of a twentieth century battle is that one has to deal with an invisible enemy. This causes a painful feeling of uncertainty and defiance. It has often happened that officers and men have remained several days in occupation of a position, have been wounded and carried off the field and taken back to Russia without ever having seen a Japanese."

ITS POWER GROWS WITH AGE.—How many medicines loudly blazoned as panaceas for all human ills have come and gone since Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was first put upon the market? Yet it remains, doing more good to humanity than any preparation more highly vaunted and extending its virtues wider and in a larger circle every year. It is the medicine of the masses.

CZAR TO BATTLE WITH THE BALLOTS

Hopes to Defeat Constitutional Democrats Through the Polls.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 25.—As a result of recent conferences, the Government has decided tentatively on Dec. 30 as the date for holding the election of members to the new Parliament. As far as possible these elections will be held simultaneously throughout the empire. A circular has been sent to the various provincial governors advising them of this decision and instructing them to bend all their efforts to produce the election of Government candidates.

The term "Government candidate" is defined to mean the Octobrists and their allies, but where there is no chance for the election of these candidates the influence of the Government will be thrown on the side of the regenerationists in order to defeat the Constitutional Democrats.

The circular suggests a number of measures to hamper the campaign of the opposition parties, including the deportation and imprisonment of pernicious agitators. As practically the entire press favors the Constitutional Democrats and the more radical parties the various governors are directed to turn the official gazettes, published in the larger towns of each province, into campaign organs.

There is a strong desire to take advantage of the present tranquility and conclude the elections before the Russian Christmas, hence the Government may disregard the six weeks' interval which, according to law, must elapse between the publication of the election lists and election day. If the lists of voters on the borderlands and elsewhere are delayed in coming the usages to make public announcement of the elections may not be issued.

In the course of a conversation between the premier, M. Stolypin, and Count Heyden, one of the leaders of the peaceful regenerationists, Premier advised the count not to appeal to the Senate in the matter of the refusal to legalize the statutes of the party, but instead, in order to gain time, to present new statutes containing the necessary technical modifications and apply for immediate legislation.

WOMAN.

The New and Different Magazine for Women, Which Makes Its First Appearance With the November Issue—Now on the News-Stands.

There are in America a good many distinctly woman publications. Though they differ widely in merit, they are nevertheless emphatically similar in general scheme—a smattering of fiction, a few articles, some fashions, and a considerable percentage of small talk.

This is all right in its way, and doubtless furnishes a very good model for a woman's magazine; but it is not the only model on which a magazine can be made that will be welcomed into the home by women.

Women are the great readers of the world, and this is especially true with regard to fiction. Men read more or less fiction, some books, a good many articles in the magazines, but chiefly confine their reading to the daily papers. They are much greater readers of fiction than men are. Women have more time for reading than men, and the story dealing with the human heart, and with the joys and sorrows and struggles and triumphs of life, interests them most keenly.

It is this element—good, wholesome, absorbing fiction, and a great big measure—that will differentiate a woman's magazine from the men's. To make room for all this fiction—say, four or five, or even six serial stories, and a large number of short stories, and perhaps now and then a complete novel—there will be published no fashions and no news items. Illustration and every page of fashions cut just so much out of the reading space.

You cannot get something for nothing and get it for a long time. If a magazine gives you in fashions and illustrated prices-a-b-c, and in advertisements, all that it will give you, it is clear that it cannot give in addition a ton of fiction.

This magazine will concentrate on fiction. Fiction will be its fourteen-inch gun. It may be that this isn't a good model for a woman's magazine as the conventional one, but it has merit of being different. If there were only one woman's magazine in the field, the other model would probably be preferable. But with several hundred such periodicals, and all built on practically the same lines, it would seem that something radically different in conception, though equally close to the nerve-centers of human interest, would be able to preempt a corner of the woman's field and hold it.

All fiction would be absolute concentration, but that would not measure up to the purpose in this magazine. The aim is to make it independent of its great volume of fiction, just as much of a home magazine in all the essentials as any woman's magazine on the market—a publication that shall outrank all other magazines for women in the way of entertainment, and that shall have the substantial qualities that go to help people to live better and be wiser.

Woman is a very big magazine—192 pages, which gives it well-nigh double the reading space of the various woman's publications. By reading space is meant the space given to reading and not occupied by advertising. Whatever advertising this magazine may carry will appear on additional pages—pages inserted especially for advertising, and not taken from the reading section. All this—its bigness and its freedom from advertising on reading pages—will further differentiate this magazine from the conventional brand of woman's magazine.

The morning cup of coffee often shapes the day. It should be Chase & Sanborn's.

STAG ATTACKS MAN

After a Fierce Fight the Animal Is Beaten Off.

London, Oct. 26.—John West, of Henley, a member of the King's bodyguard, was attacked yesterday by a large Siberian stag while he was crossing W. D. Mackenzie's deer park by the public footpath.

The attack was so sudden and violent that West fell after stumbling several yards. The stag followed and knelt on the man, who grasped the animal by the antlers and held on for some minutes, while the stag tried to trample the man to death.
