The article says that the opinions printed are those of some men who think in Mexico and for Mexico, and that it is the concensus of opinion of these men that Mexico cannot maintain neutrality, but must sever relations with Germany in order to remain true to the ideals for which the country has struggled during the last six years.

Ramsay MacDonald, the Socialist representative, strongly supported giving women the vote, as did Lord Hugh Cecil. Sir Joseph Compton-Rickett, president of the National Council of Evangelical Churches, said that giving women the vote meant their strange. women the vote meant their entrance into parliament, the government and diplomatic service, but he urged the House to grant the concession ungrudgingly to the women who had bravely helped the nation in a time of difficulty.

For that reason it was indefensible to perpetrate a system under which half the population was not represented in parliament. He said that it would be criminal to disregard the voice of women in post war problems, and he expressed the hope that the House would reject the amendment with no uncertain voice.

Petrograd, June 20.—Via London.—
Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the British suffragist leader, made an unexpected arrival in Petrograd yesterday. She appeared in the best of health, and at once called upon the Root Commission. Never before has a newspaper campaign attracted such widespread interest as the present liberal enterprise of the forces of the new democracy toward the struggle with the common formation. This number will be increased in November by 450,000 of the lass of 1919. These troops will not owever, be available before that forms, service, any more than those in the service.

Germany's Reserves.

On this basis Gen. de la Croix 13.130,000, and that this total was depleted by losses of 3,630,000; 2,200,000 rendered unfit through wounds, and 1,130,000 resident in foreign countries. Gen. de la Croix estimates that of the Germany's Reserves.

On this basis Gen. de la Croix figures that Germany has 575,000 reserves with which to cover her losses until November, or 115,000 a month, plus 85,000 monthly of those who recover from their wounds, a grand total of 200,000 a month. The general points out that German losses in April and May have been at least 300,000 monthly, making a debit balance which he says has been met by a shortening of the German front and fewar extracts. ## CHIEF DECLARES IT IS A FIRETRAP

Condemns Asylum Building as an Unsafe Place For Patients.

Be Torn Down or Made Fireproof.

The fire at the asylum this morning is the latest of a series of big fires burned up. The loss on buildings alone has reached a considerable sum. No lives have been lost in any of the con flagrations, but the situation on two as for flagrations, but the situation on two locasions might have been serious, had not the staff shown remarkable ability in handling the patients.

The present structure is 47 years old. It is antiquated, and as such is far from being of modern construction, as the safety of 700 patients would deby a mand. Nor could it be made fireproof. One big fire would surely call the attent of officials to the necessity of making alterations such as would make the place much safer than at present.

Schools Made Fireproof.

The building inspector and building bylaws prevails in other parts of the city, but the building inspector has no authority over the asylum buildings.

Had such authority been vested in the building inspector it is quite probable that improvements would have been made when the previous fire occured. Better construction would have resulted, or at least the responsibility for present conditions would have been brought home to the Government.

brought home to the Government.

A Veritable Fire Trap.

"The place is a veritable fire trap," said a man in close touch with he institution to The Advertiser. "It is a wonder that mere accidents have not occurred in recent years. It is time that something was done to improve it." Fire Chief Altken is outspoken in condemnation of the building, and stat-ed emphatically that there should be in the buildings. in the buildings.

"There should be first of all fire doors and fire walls," he declared.

"The long corridors give the fire a clean sweep through the whole place. It is impossible almost to stop it once it has got started, and there is constant danger of loss of life. The doors would be of great assistance in continuing the danger of loss of life. The doors would be of great assistance in confining the fire to certain limited areas. Certain walls should be erected throughout the building from bottom to top, to prevent a spread of the flames.

Make Building Fireproof.

"There are several exits, but there should be more fire escapes, and bigger escapes. Those at present in use are not adequate. The building is a fire trap, and I want to tell you that we have been very lucky that there fires have not been much worse. The boys certainly did fine work this morning, and had we not been so successful, conditions would have been much worse. The Government has a chance now to improve matters, and if the wise course is followed, the asylum will be made fireproof."
