Do You Realize What an Important Work the Kidneys Do?

Do you know that every drop of your blood goes to the kidneys hundreds of times every day? Do you know why?
To be filtered and purified from its impurities. That is the great work the kidneys have to do. They filter the blood. Then these impurities go to the bladder and are passed out of the body along with the urine.
Do you think it possible for you to be well, unless the kidneys do this work thoroughly?
It is these impurities—this unfiltered blood—that causes backaches, headaches, rheumatism, diabetes, Bright's disease, etc. They poison and interfere with the whole system.
If you have any kidney trouble let Doan's Kidney Pills do for you what they have done for thousands of others. They cure all forms of kidney trouble, and they cure them to stay cured.
Mrs. Maurice Doiron, Charlottetown, P.E.I., writes:—"I was troubled with my kidneys for five years. They were so bad at times that I could not cross the floor for the pain. I went to a doctor, but he did me no good at all. I sent to the druggist and got five boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, and I am glad to say that after taking them I was cured. I have had no trouble for nearly three years now."
Price 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
In ordering specify "Doan's."

AT THE THEATRES

Madame Nazimova.
Madame Nazimova's second appearance in Toronto will be inaugurated at the Royal Alexandra theatre Monday night in "The Passion Flower," a play by Brandon Tynan. Interest in the appearance of this prominent actress will undoubtedly be keen, for she has accomplished in a few years more than many elder players have taken years to reach. She is conceded by the most critical, and she is not only a foreigner but a woman of great beauty and fascination.
Madame Nazimova's role of Vivien will astonish her many admirers. Her radical departure from the parts with which her name has commonly been associated. The play itself is a big success for it tells a story of things within the gates of the metropolis. The story of the play is that of the young wife of a bank president who is seeking social pre-eminence, and who is being lavishly, she is frivolous, thoughtless and extravagant. Her husband is honest and estimable, and one day finds himself financially ruined. In the fourth act the play is finally brought to a logical termination. It is a play that is said to not only make you "sit up to see," but will make you "sit up to think." The four acts are full of pathos, humor and quotable philosophy. The most effective scene is in the third act during a masquerade at the Fifth-avenue mansion is lavishly and picturesquely decorated with a gypsy encampment, and it is both novel and dazzling in its grandeur.

"The Barrier."
Alaska, with its wild and primitive conditions of social life in the days when the gold fever was at its height, furnishes the environment of "The Barrier," the play which has been dramatized by Eugene W. Presbrey, and will be presented by Klav & Erlanger, at the Princess theatre, next week.
The story of the play deals with passionate love, and sets forth in strong colors the great wrong and the great hate which threw a young girl into many desperate situations. She is supposed to be a half-breed, from her surroundings, the love which she arouses in a young United States army captain, and the disapproval of her real parentage, unite to make the heroine one of no mean quality.
The struggles in the mind and heart of the young captain between his love for the girl, and the barrier which her supposed race presented to his aristocratic blood, the wandering life of old John Quid, the trader who had rescued the girl from her cruel father and was for love of her mother had given up civilized life and even allowed himself to be taken under the wing of the subsequent meeting with the ruffian and the benign influence of his mission—these are some of the incidents that are crowded into this interesting play.
A company of picked artists have been engaged for the presentation.

"The Prince of To-night"
One of the strongest musical attractions that will be seen this year will be the offering at the Grand next week of "The Prince of To-night," the title, and it is headed by Henry Woodruff, the well-known leading man, like his predecessors, "The Prince of To-night," "The Prince of To-night," "The Prince of To-night," and "The Prince of To-night," it is under the management of Mort H. Singer and enjoyed a run of over 200 nights at the Princess theatre, Chicago. Adams and Hough have provided a "bright, pleasing book, and Joe Howard has written some of his catchiest and most popular songs.
Mr. Woodruff was last seen as the star of "Brown of Harvard," but all the ornaments of the musical comedy are seen in this evening's offering. Mort H. Singer, his manager, has caused him to desert the legitimate. Mr. Singer has lavished money with a free hand on the production of the play, and the background of a bright, jingly play, superb cast, handsome chorus, gorgeous costumes and beautiful scenery, are the first things that will be offered in this city and the first time it has been presented anywhere for less than dollar fifty prices.
The show is a comedy laid along matinee will be given.

Bohemian Burlesques.
"The Big Scream," Tom Miner's "Bohemian Burlesques" will open at the Grand next Monday. Tom Miner has always made good and never failed to provide a tip-top show. Every part of the "Bohemian" program is new this season. The show is a laugh creator from start to finish and is a tonic for the tired toiler after a day's work done. Among the principals are Andy Gardner and Ida Nicolai, in their well known characters "Patsy" and "Rozzi"; Hugh Bernhard, the boy from Memphis; Esters Valmore, Les. Dan, Sewer Excentrics; Joe Milton, the new burlesque artist; Flo Bates, in songs and imitations; Williams and Segal, novelty eccentric dancers; Johnson and Buckley, and company of twenty-five people in a "A Night on the Bowery" and others, consisting of one of the best aggregations on the road. There is also a chorus of twenty-five jolly and rollicking young ladies.

Miss Fannie Ward Comng.
The engagement of Fannie Ward at the Princess Theatre for a week beginning Monday, Nov. 15, promises to be a most interesting event. Miss Ward last season in "The New Lady Bantock," gave promise of doing something great in "The New Lady Bantock," she has according to those who have seen her work, fulfilled that promise to no small degree. She appears to be fitted artistically, naturally and temperamentally to this role of "Van Allen's Wife," a real treat is promised his patrons by Mr. Sheppard, manager of the Princess Theatre.

Going Some.
"Going Some" which is the joint work of Fred Armstrong and Rex Beach, will be seen here for the first time at the Royal Alexandra for a week beginning Monday, Nov. 15, next, under the management of Mrs. Wiggins. "Going Some" is a comedy laid along original lines, varying widely from the door-slammings farces with which the stage has been almost surfeited.

Homer Lind at Shea's.
At Shea's next week the bill will be headed by Homer Lind the operatic baritone who for many years has been identified and won many triumphs with Henry W. Savage's English Grand Opera Company of New York. He has entered vaudeville for a limited tour in a one act musical playlet, "The Opera Singer," which was written by Gustav Weibner, and which has been described by many critics as a one act classic. In it is depicted an old broken down opera singer who is searching for a long lost daughter; reverses and loss of vogue in Grand Opera circles; refusal to concert hall engagements, and the little sketch opens amid the trials of his rehearsal with the orchestra with confusion on every side and the howling of "Train-Ed Seals," who appear on the same bill with the nervous excitable old musician. The act is full of comedy, melody and strong character acting.
The special attraction for the week is "The Six Musical Cutties." These young people are favorites and all are musicians of a higher order than usually found in a musical act. They offering is magnificently mounted in a drawing room set, and piano, violin, cello harp, and other numbers are naturally introduced by the well costumed young people as they would be in an evening home. Their music is always of the best and they will be warmly welcomed as they always are.
Harry Linton and Anita Lawrence have not been seen at Shea's in several seasons, and return with an entirely new act, called "The Piano Player." The three Ernesto Sisters were seen at Shea's last season, and they are well remembered for their marvelous work on the light wire. Mignonette Kookin, the dainty little chanteuse and dancing comedienne, will be warmly welcomed after her long absence. Helen and Dan Dancing Comedians. They are comedians and they can dance some as few comedians know how. Their work is eccentric as well as acrobatic and they never fail to find themselves one of the big features of any bill. Gillett's Baboons are the best trained animals in vaudeville.

Majestic Music Hall.
The big bill at the Majestic next week, shows the effect of the vaudeville war. Just closed at the New York theatre, Arthur Prince, Hetty Urna, Foster and Foster, and Mathews and Harris, all on one program and six other acts besides. Ed Estus and Company will start the fun, in his novelty act; then comes the laughsmiths, "Black and Jones," just about the limit in fun; Daisy and Olive direct from the Folies Bergere, Paris, with her famous Comedy Company. This act is considered the daintiest act in vaudeville. Now comes the comedy murder in chief in the army of fun, Mathews and Harris, by the way the public have taken this team in vaudeville to replace McIntyre and Heath, who went to the legitimate stage a few years ago, and were considered the top notchers at that time. Mathews and Harris have from that time on been spoken of as the funniest team on the stage; Foster and Foster, who were billed a while back at the Majestic, but they had made such a hit in New York that Mr. Norris kept them four weeks longer, will positively be seen in their new musical creation. Everyone who has attended the New York Hippodrome in the last year will remember the great Aerial Laport. They will be at the Majestic also. Hetty Urna, a big London favorite, will make her American debut next week. Miss Urna is said to be a second Vesta Tilley. Lastly, we find the one act that can challenge the world in its line, the man to whom all others bow when they hear his name, rightly known as England's Idol, the world's greatest entertainer, Mr. Arthur Prince.

Are you a Mason, Elk, Oddfellow, or do you belong to any fraternal organization? If you do you will remember the thought of your pre-entry into its mysteries. The initiation—that wonderful, doubtful ceremony wherein you were to be tortured, jeered and fretted into submission. Can't you recall that terrible strain of worry, previous to the night of all nights? In the Green Rod Club, the two-act comedy presented by the Fads and Follies at the Gaiety Theatre, commencing Monday, all the little details are shown, with a touch of the candidates' doings before and during the "trying ordeal." Roger Imhof, who plays the prominent role of the candidate, has constructed a really amusing comedy out of just such an incident. Mr. Imhof is a member of all the prominent orders. The entertainment is a glibly intellidue, without being an expose of any particular organization's ritual.
