Giants Get Promising Player. promising youngster in Taylor Farrell from Portland, of the New England League. Farrell fell down as a litter when in the International League with Jersey City, but he was a bear with the stick in the New England circuit, batting consistently above .300 all season. Several clubs put in drafts for him and the Giants got him in the draw.

St. Peter's League.

St. Peter's League.

St. Peter's Y. M. A. bowling league has been formed and the first game will take place this evening between the Shamrocks and the Patricia's. Eight teams will constitute the league and games will be played four nights a week. The alleys have been overhauled and are in first class condition. The league will be divided into three series and the winners of each will play off for the championship.

RING Coffey Favorite Over Moran.

The first action of Billy Gibson as the new manager of the New York Madison Square Garden boxing shows was to open negotiations with the manager of Jess Williard regarding a bout between the winner of tomorrow's bout between Jim Coffey and Frank Moran and the champion. Both Moran and Coffey are anxious for a chance to box Willard. Opinion as to the winner of the Coffey-Moran affair is divided, but on account of the large following of the Dublin Giant the latter will likely enter the ring a slight favorite.

News of the Boxers Jack Dillon and Jim Flynn are booked for a bout in Brooklyn on Oct. 26.

Jim Savage and Tom McMahon will meet in New York on Nov. 1.

The strikers, with their bats or clubs, have small chance against these mighty pitches of swerve and spin. "Is there anytying on it?" "Is he swinging much?" These were common questions put by the men waiting on those who had lived their little life and ceased to be. And every phase of taunt possible of invention was fired at pitcher and striker by combatants and spectators right through the game. It looks a disagreeable gauntlet to run; but the principals get used to it—that is the thing. Even the umpire, as he decides whether a ball is good or foul as it comes whizzing along the precincts of the "plate," is subject to many uncomplimentary epithets, according to which way he decided.

Umpire in Quandary

Umpire in Quandary

The umpire is between his satanic majesty and the deep sea; he must displease one side. Amid all the hustle and the hurly-burly, however, the spirit of sport is there. And just as at "No-side" in Rugby, when the game is lost and won, the sides gather together and give three full-measured rounds of cheers for each other. This national American game is full of cunning and dodge, but for all that it is a great sport and the fight to get the men round the bases sets up intense excitement. In this match the Canadian soldiers in their perfect fitness had the turn of the luck; their catching was uncanny and their strikers seemed to have the clearer eye for the hit—though the hitting seems a matter of chance rather than of judgment. The Canadians got one up on the first innings and were never down; but it was in their seventh innings (a score of five) that they put the result beyond doubt.

Remarkable Uproar. From first to last the match swung along amidst remarkable uproar. The invalided soldiers in the enclosures and on the pavilion forgot their wounds and joined in the babel of criticism. And no better afternoon could have been chosen for the game. The bases had been laid close up to Knatchbull's corner—the worst sealuded section of ald Lord's the most secluded section of old Lord's, the favorite tryst of old cricketers whose day is over and who are usually well screened from the "madding crowd."

And now in this corner there arose all
