CRITIC OF CANADA EXPLAINS MOTIVE

Called Dominion 'Narrow and Parsimonious' with Friendly Intentions.

Toronto, April 28 — "Narrow and parsiminous," according to Prof. Alfred E. Zimmern, of Oxford University, in a recent article, was Canada's attitude toward the League of Nations.

In further elucidation Prof. Zemmern on these two points said:

"When I said that the attitude of Canada at the League of Nations was 'narrow and parsimonious,' I felt that it was right to do so, and that I was in the independent position to say so. But remember, I said it with all courtesy and kindness and I do not want anyone to misunderstand it."

"Why did you refer to us as narrow and parsimonious?" the professor was asked.

"Canada's attitude, and I may say Australia's as well, at the League of Nations was that of preaching economy, scrutinizing the salaries that were to be paid and every expenditure. My opinion was that such an attitude might have been understood from some of the countries which had to make their subscriptions to the league in gold, and who were badly off; but coming from Canada and Australia, it was hardly the thing. I have since apologized for calling Canada parsimonious, as I learned she had made a magnificent contribution to the funds to fight typhus. The smaller countries which could least afford to pay did not take the economy attitude that Canada and Australia did."

"That refers to the parsimonious, but why call us narrow?"

"My feeling was that the attitude of Canada at the league will be too much as if the only object of the league was the arbitration and conciliation of international disputes. We all ought to pay more attention to the causes of war, and try to remove them. The secretaries of the league can do a great deal in removing the causes with the co-operation of the various nations. The criticism I made was all most friendly criticism meant to"

THE ECLECTIC CLUB.

The programme at the meeting of the Eclectic Club last night was arranged by Rev. R. Moorhead Legate and was on the fascinating theme, "Adventure." The meeting was held at the Sign o' the Lantern in Princess street and the hostesses of the evening were Mrs. Rupert Turnbull, Mrs. F. J. Harding, Miss Edith Skinner, Miss Agnes Warner and Miss Homer. The papers were exceptionally interesting and the evening was heartily enjoyed. Mr. Legate read the introductory paper showing that even Peter Pan was essentially an adventurer. He then gave a reading descriptive of adventures climbing the Alps. A. C. Skelton, in his paper, gave extracts from the diary of Shackleton and Miss Alice Fairweather gave a paper on Tibetan scenes. Rev. R. Taylor McKim read extracts from Sir Richard Burton's pilgrimage to the holy places of the Mohammedans and Mrs. Legate gave the concluding reading, "Adventures in Topsy Turvey Land." The chairman for the evening was Hon. J. C. Forbes.

Many Women Need More and Better Blood

ALL SEEKING HEALTH SHOULD READ MRS. EPLETT'S LETTER.

It is a fact proven by thousands of grateful letters that Hood's Sarsaparilla is remarkably beneficial to young or older women.

The most common ailments of women drain and weaken the system and sometimes result in anemia, nervous weakness, general break-down.

At This Season a Good Tonic and Blood Purifier is Needed

Women overworked by family duties or overtasked socially find

They Can't Stand Anything

Their nerves are all unstrung, faces pale, appetite impaired, sleep not sound nor refreshing.

Hood's Sarsaparilla gives the blood more vitality and better color, makes stronger nerves, and contributes to the length and enjoyment of life.

It is agreeable, pleasant and convenient to take, and it embodies a long-tried and proved-true formula for the relief of pale, weak, nervous and dyspeptic women.

Westboro, Carleton Co., Ont., March 14, 1922.

"My remarkable change from a declining and discouraging condition to that of health and strength, was brought about entirely, I believe, by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My Weight Ran Down

from 160 to 103 lbs. in two years.

"I consulted physicians, who treated me without benefit. I was told I had liver troubles, and enlarged spleen.

"Something I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla, the straightforward way in which its story was told, induced me to try this medicine.

"It was evident something must be done to stop the loss of flesh and strength. I could not walk a quarter of a mile nor sweep the floor. After eating I would have

Palpitation of the Heart

upon the slightest exertion.

"The effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla was soon noticeable, in better appetite, return of strength and increase in weight, and so I continued to take the medicine about a year.

"At this writing I can do a great deal of work without palpitation or exhaustion, and have recovered my weight so that now I tip the scales at 150 lbs.

"The anemic condition,

Thin, Poor Blood

seems to be entirely gone. I know from experience what Hood's Sarsaparilla will do for a weak, rundown woman. I am naturally very grateful for this medicine." Mrs. Susan H. Eplett.

ADVENTURE IS LURE FOR GIRL OF TODAY

Her Horizon is Wider Than That of Savant of 1800, Says Mrs. Speer.

The horizon of an intelligent girl of eighteen today is wider than that of the savant of 1,800, Mrs. Robert C. Speer of New York City, president of the national board of the Young Women's Christian Association, said in presenting the report of the board to the national convention of the association in Hot Springs, Ark., last week.

"Notions of girls derived from Lousia M. Allcott are out of date," she said. "Girls are beset with complex interests; a Pandora's box of new emotions and experiences fills the air with thrills and stings for them. The sense of adventure, of 'something lost beyond the ranges, something calling for us,' summons them out of the old high road of custom. Unless they are led aright there may be weary years of wanderings in the wilderness.

"There could be no greater challenge. We are interpreters of life for young women. The negative of Sinai no longer has power with a world where curiosity has displaced fear. Our place is not with the tables of stone, but with the followers of the Master who sat on the hillock of Galilee and told the listening crowd where the satisfactions of life are to be found. It was voted to adopt the social ideals of the churches to use our resources in preparing women for responsible citizenship, and after studying social and economic conditions affecting women to see how these conditions could be helped by legislation, pledging ourselves to work for such legislation as might promote the welfare of young women.

"Science now reinforces what common sense has always said, that where the girls lead the boys will follow, and the race in turn will grow. It was this commonplace of present-day thinking that made the Governmental authorities turn in 1917 to the Young Women's Christian Association as a woman's organization that could be intrusted with special responsibilities. The nation put millions into our hands, not primarily to help the girls, but that the girls might not hinder the boys in their task. With 1919, the welfare of young women died out of the heart of the average American, but abated zeal did not mean decreased need. Girls did not go back to the accustomed life at home.

"In addition to the fact that it has grown up since 1914, in years when older men and women were preoccupied with attempts to salvage civilization, this generation is the first to feel the impact of many new forces in the world's life. The camera and the illustrated paper have brought the world to the girl's door. The morning paper brings her the world's politics and scandle. The movie, with its crude lights and lines, tends to destroy the fine edge of imagination, or would, if God had not made resilience one of the attributes of youth. Modern science pours into the lap of young people great stories of treasure, along with the alley; why should they want to try everything, explore all the avenues of life?"

SOLVING MYSTERY OF SIGHT.

Most Wonderful Part of Eye is "Sensitive Plate" at Back of the Eyeball.

One of the problems of the human body which have long puzzled scientists is the exact means whereby "sights" are carried through the eyeball and the nerve to the sight-centre in the brain. In other words, how do we see?

The eye is the most remarkable camera. It is a roundish ball made of dense and strong fibrous tissue, opaque for five-sixths or its surface, but transparent in the one-sixth which bulges out in front, says Tit-Bits.

Like a Camera.

There is a delicate curtain which hangs over the transparent "window" or pupil, in front, and forms the variously colored iris — the circle which surrounds the pupil. This curtain is a wonderful arrangement for adapting the eye to the intensity of light which falls on it, and it can almost close the opening in a strong light, or open it wide when the light is fainter. The "iris diaphragm" with which the protographer regulates the entrance of light into his camera is merely a poor imitation of it.

Moreover, it contains pigment cells, which may be crowded when the light is strong or fewer in number when the eye wants as much light as possible. So we get the black eyes (rich in pigment to mitigate the light) of the southerner, the dweller in the darker northern lands and the intermediate shades.

Behind the circular window — the pupil—is the crystalline lens, which can be altered by fine muscles so as to focus itself for any distance. Other muscles and tendons are attached to the outside of the eyeball, and they automatically turn it in the direction we want.

How We See.

But the most wonderful part of the eye is the "sentive plate" at the back of the eyeball. A semi-transparent membrane, which we call the retina, lines three-fourths of the interior of the eyeball (which is filled with fluid), and it is particularly developed at one spot, the real seat of distinct vision. On this "yellow spot" in each eye the rays of light form an inverted image of the object at which we are looking.

It is generally suspected that color-vision is connected with one or more fine chemicals which may be lacking in "color-blind" people. However, that may be, the nerve-layer closes up at the back of the eye and, as the optic nerve conveys the images of things in some way to the conscious centre.

What precisely travels along the nerve we cannot say, but to imagine that an image or picture is conveyed it to imitate children who think that words travel along a telegraph wire.

SPECTACULAR SUICIDE.

Farmer Hangs Himself Over Blazing Wood Pile.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 28 — Charles Edmonds, 55, a Denmark farmer, killed himself in a sensational manner at the home of his sister, Mrs. Cornelia Otis. Edmonds went to a barn in the rear of the house, saturated two new automobiles with gasoline, covered a wood pile with gasoline also, climbed atop of it after setting fire to the pile and hanged himself. The barn burned to the ground, the cars were destroyed and only ashes were left in place of the wood pile. The sister discovered the fire, but it was too late to save anything.
