On my return from Cape Sheridan, and at the very first settlement I touched (Nerke, near Cape Chalon) in August 1909, and nine days before reaching Etah, the Eskimos told me in a general Tugs From Ketchikan Standing way where Dr. Cook had been; that he had wintered in Jones Sound and that he had told the white men at Etah that he had been a long way north, but that the boys who were with him said that this was not so. The Eskimo laughed at Dr. Cook's story. that had occurred to him.' During the taking of the testimony it developed that Dr. Cook had told these boys, as he told Mr. Whitney and Billy Pritchard, the cabin boy, that they must not tell Commander Peary or any of us about anything of their ourney, and the boys stated that Dr. Cook had threatened them if they should tell anything. The narrative of these Eskimos is as follows:

They, with Dr. Cook, Franche and other Eskimos left Anatok, crossed Smith's Sound to Cape Sabine Slept in Commander Peary's old house in Payer Harbor, then went through Rice Strait to Buchanan Bay. After a few marches Franche and three Eskimos returned to Anatok. Dr. Cook with the others then proceeded by Flager Bay, a branch of Buchanar and crossed Elesmere Land through the valley pass indicated by Commander Peary in 1898 and utilized by Sverdrup in 1899 to the head of Sverdrup's 'Bay Fiord,' on the west side of Ellesmere Land. Their route lay out through this flord, thence north through Sverdrup's 'Houerka Sound' and Hansen Strait. On their way they killed muskoxen and bear and made caches, arriving eventually at a point south of Cape Hubbard.

"A cache was found here, and the four Eskimos did not go beyond this point. The others, Koolootingwah and o, went on one more march with Dr. Cook, and the two boys helped to Part of His Life Plan to Keep ouild the snow igloo and then returned without sleeping. These two Eskimos brought back a letter from Dr. Cook to Franche, dated the 17th of March. The two men returned to the four men who had been left behind, and the six returned to Anatok, arriving on May 7th. This information was obtained not from the Eskimo when the Roosevelt first arrived at Etah. This information is inserted
