IRELAND IN A GLASS HOUSE.
Many of Her Cattle Failed Tuberculin Test.

LONDON, July 22.—The Dundee Advertiser quotes the statement of R. T. Houston, Secretary of the Armagh Agricultural Technical Instruction Committee, to the effect that for eight years he has subjected over 200 Irish cattle to the tuberculin test and 14 failed to pass the test. The advertiser says those who live in glass houses should not throw stones. The Irish should be the last to cast imputations on the purity of Canadian cattle, yet with the Canadian and other supplies stopped, upon Ireland we would have to depend for our stores.

THE HARVARD GIRL AT THE OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT.

The rivalry among the various managers of musical comedies has been settled in the opinion of all by awarding the Spitz and Nathanson Amusement Company, the credit of being the best attractions of its kind. Never before has a musical comedy met with the success which "The Harvard Girl" has gained since the first performance. While the inaugural event of the season is set for one week in Chicago's most prominent theatre, the tremendous success was achieved by this clever company, was the cause of extending the engagement to a four weeks' continuous run. During the antics of the play, many funny scenes, novelties, the latest music and dances will be introduced. "The Harvard Girl" is an organization of twenty beautiful women, ten clever comedians, the entire scenery is the realization of an artist's dream, while the costumes are elaborate and magnificent in every detail. Continuous advertising is necessary, because in continuity is strength, and because if it pays to advertise a part of the time it ought to pay better to advertise all of the time.—Nath. C. Fowler, Jr., Boston.

RUSSIA.
Russia's parliament has been dissolved and the revolution brought one step nearer. Emperor Nicholas was unable to choose any other course than the one he has taken, though a year ago he was in a position to have made his name the greatest of all in the long line of Russian rulers. Through personal weakness and the influence of unwise counselors he failed to take advantage of the opportunity which opened before him. The end of the Russian monarchy as it exists at present is in sight, for although a new parliament will be summoned it will not be any improvement on the last from the emperor's point of view, but will undoubtedly follow in the course adopted by that one which has just come to an end.

When the emperor a year ago decided to create an assembly of representatives of the people there seemed to be some hope for Russia, as the very act of such creation held out the prospect of future constitutional government. But as time passed and the representatives saw they were quite devoid of power and likely to remain in that condition, their usefulness vanished and they became merely a gathering of men whose one aim was to overthrow the government. They were never a united body, and frequently their differences were the cause of serious trouble, but on one point they were solid and that was their opposition to the government. All of their efforts ended in revolution, the only difference being that the various parties followed different courses in order to reach the same end. The parliament was not a constructive assembly and would not have been even if full power had been given. It was intended to be nothing more than an advisory board and its advice would be accepted if the emperor and his council thought fit. It was composed of men who had suffered and who were determined to relieve the millions of fellow sufferers of the burdens which they were bearing. Thus the different matters of importance introduced in the assembly were not aimed at the building up of a constitution but rather at the destruction of existing institutions and without suggesting very much to take their places. It was of course impossible for the emperor to accept all the suggestions offered. He acted against the advice of those nearest the throne, and certain minor concessions, but these only served to encourage the members of the assembly in their demands. It was seen for some time that the dissolution of parliament was inevitable. Those who bore the brunt of the revolution were the very fact that they had been chosen as representatives. Thus the parliament became more than anything a hotbed of treason, the centre of the revolutionary movement. There was nothing left for the emperor but to dissolve the house. Its continued existence would mean only the spread of that dissatisfaction which is noticeable in every part of the empire.

But the time has passed for a peaceful settlement of the question of the now vex the country. The revolution is not far distant and even the great show of troops in St. Petersburg will not prevent the outbreak. A new parliament may be summoned but it will be found to be even more determined than the one which has just now been dissolved, and perhaps the members will not differ among themselves to such an extent.

In Russia it is not now a question of whether there will be a revolution. The only uncertain point is when the final outbreak will occur, and it may not now be too early to even guess at the date of the murder of Emperor Nicholas at the hands of the people. The French revolution was accomplished by a nation which was then as highly civilized as any in Europe, says those who live in glass houses should not throw stones. The Irish should be the last to cast imputations on the purity of Canadian cattle, yet with the Canadian and other supplies stopped, upon Ireland we would have to depend for our stores.

THE CATTLE QUESTION.

The attention of Canadian cattle raisers and shippers is directed to the fact that in an inspection of Irish cattle only 35 out of 280 passed the tuberculin test. Ireland it might be observed has been very strongly opposed to the removal of the embargo on Canadian cattle, which, by the way, are healthy. Perhaps the secret is in the fact that the English public under present conditions must draw the principal part of its beef from Ireland. There is something consoling in the fact that England while shutting out healthy Canadian cattle is importing diseased ones from the Emerald Isle.

TEACHERS COMING TO CANADA.

There is hope that the British public will in the next few generations learn something about Canada. Not less than two thousand teachers have applied for passages to this country under Mr. Mosely's scheme and perhaps they will be able to teach the rising generation that children may go out of the houses here occasionally without being eaten by bears, in spite of the recent declaration of one of those men who now direct the policy of the empire.

Yes! We had noticed that your hair was looking pretty thin, and that it lacked luster and life. But we didn't like to speak of it. Of course you know the kind of hair that falls out! And, too, it keeps the scalp so clean and healthy.

THE BEST SUBSTITUTE.
(No young man or woman should be allowed to marry who has no hobby.—P. C. Gould.)

Amanda, through the living night I scrutinize the stars above,
For sleep has vanished from me quite
Since I have been possessed of love.
But one sad thought oppresses me,
And partially my ardor damps—
How much more charming you would be
If you collected postage stamps!

A goddess well might grudge your grace,
A fairy envy you your form;
The sweet expression on your face
Speaks of a heart that's fond and warm.
There's poetry within your eyes,
And music in your limpid laughs—
You'd be, indeed, a peerless prize
If you went in for autographs!

Forgive me if I thus allude
To what is your one only flaw,
Nor, little lady, think me rude
If I on your indulgence draw.
This sound advice I trust you'll take,
When it is whispered in your ear—
Make up your mind at once to make
A hobby of a hobby, dear!

—London Tribune.

SOAPY.

The Barber (lathering customer and gazing out of window)—"I tell you, sir, the man who shaves himself keeps the bread and butter out of some barber's mouth."
The Customer (sternly)—"And incidentally the latter out of his own!"

POOR PAY.

The Lecturer—"Labor, hard labor, is the only pathway to success."
Tramp (from the back seat)—"Ain't true, guv'nor. I done six months of it once, and came out no richer than I went in."

COULD NOT REMEMBER.

Traveler—"Can you tell me, my man, where the Roman camp is about here?"
Rustic—"Naw, sir; I've heard tell as there used to be a Roman camp about here, but 'twas afore my time."

CAUSE FOR THANKFULNESS.

Guest—"Look here, this mirror is so fearfully dirty that I can't see my face in it."
Hotel Servant—"It strikes me you ought to be thankful for that instead of making trouble about it."

WATCH HER.

"Pa, what's a cynical smile?"
"Your mother will show you, my son, the next time I tell her I can't spare the money she wants!"

WORKING BY TIME.

Barber—"How long do you want your hair cut?"
Customer—"How long? Well, I want to catch a train in fifteen minutes, so you'd better not cut it any longer than eight minutes"—Chips.

HIS AGE.

Scene: A London omnibus. Two ladies of somewhat mature age discussing their respective golf handicaps.
First Lady—"What are you? Second Lady—"Thirty years ago I was 15, now 18. First Lady—"Oh, I've been 17 all along! Elderly party (rather merry, who has been leaning over her) "Ho, yuss, sir! I've stuck at 19"—Punch.

GOT ONE BACK.

"I've written several plays."
"Did I hear you say that?"
"Yes. I once got a manuscript of mine back from a manager."

ON THE BLEACHERS.

Philomena—"Hasn't Mr. Shouter a beautiful voice?"
Virginia—"It must be lovely to sit next to him at a banquet game."

PAYING GUESTS.

Mrs. Smith—"Don't you hate gossiping boarders?"
Landlady—"Well, I'm happy when my house is full of roomers."—Butterfly.

FILLS THE BILL.

Mrs. Jenkins—"You must miss your husband dreadfully."
Mrs. Weeds—"I do, but my youngest daughter is just like him. She tries to regulate the grammar and manners of the whole family."

WELL RATHER.

Grayce, I heard Maud is going to marry a man worth $5,000,000. Gladly—Yes, and she says he is her affinity. Grayce—I don't doubt it. Any man with that much money might well be any girl's affinity.—Sidney Town and Country Journal.

IN COSTUME?

The vicar of Thames Ditton announces that during the boating season special seats will be reserved in his church for persons who wish to attend in boating costume. It remains to be seen now whether a similar concession will be given to bathers.—Punch.

SENSITIVE.

Kind Lady—"How long is it since you have done any work?"
Sloppy Sam—"Pardon me, mum, I'm rather sensitive about my age."

CONSOLING.

The Grocer—"I thought I'd ask: er, you see I'm a little worried about that bill."
Mrs. Movesome—"The idea! Don't you worry any more. Why, I'd owe it to you forever before I'd cheat you out of it!"

A GENTLE HINT.

"Now," said the fussy old gentleman, putting one of the biggest plums in his mouth and picking up another, "what is the sense of this notice read, 'French plums for sale?' Don't you see that 'French plums' would be enough? I don't suppose that everybody knows they are for sale?"
"I dunno," answered the grocer; "some folks seem to think I'm giving them away."
And the old gentleman put back in the box the second plum he was taking.

PEACE NOW REIGNS
IN CENTRAL AMERICA.

Agreement Reached as a Result of Roosevelt's Efforts—Everyone is Happy.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The closing chapter of the peace negotiations was marked by the exchange of congratulations between the participants in the efforts to terminate the dangerous state of affairs in Central America. The plenipotentiaries, themselves, sent cable messages to President Roosevelt and to President Diaz, of Mexico, as well as to their home governments, and President Roosevelt and President Diaz returned the acknowledgments of these tributes. The underlying expression was that the Maribhead Peace Pact would be historical in Central America, as it certainly would go far to prevent any hostile collision between the small republics for many years to come. The complete agreement was very gratifying to the officials here, in view of the happy effect it is likely to have on the Rio conference just beginning.

Article 2.—Exchange of prisoners; the release of political prisoners; general amnesty recommended.
Article 3.—Vigilance of emigrants in order to prevent abuse of asylum.
Article 4.—To negotiate treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation with two months.
Article 5.—Any difficulties over treaty and all future complaints between the three countries shall be submitted to arbitration by the president of the United States and the president of Mexico.
Article 6.—This treaty made with the moral sanction of the mediating nations and others assisting at the conference, namely, Costa Rica and Nicaragua.

PASSENGERS SMUGGLED.

Secret Agency Discovered Among Employees of Steamship Line.

LISBON, July 21.—Twenty-two people, smuggled aboard the Nile, who were arrested from Rio Janeiro, have been arrested. The authorities have discovered a secret agency carried on by a number of the staff employed by the Royal Mail steamers to convey passengers between Europe and South America for the payment of greatly reduced fees, which went into the employees' pockets. It has been found that illicit traffic has been carried on for a long time.

WALTZED FOURTEEN HOURS.

Italian Dancing Master Makes Record at Vienna.

PARIS, July 21.—Corsini Guattiero, an Italian dancing master, won a $200 prize at the waltzing contest, which lasted fourteen hours at the Tivoli Vaux Hall yesterday. The best of his five opponents could dance for only eight hours. At the conclusion of his performance Guattiero was examined by the doctor and found to have lost only one pound in weight.

The pianist played 268 different waltzes.

NOT ALWAYS WORKING.

RING STARTS A STRIKE.

Curiosity to See if on Girl's Hand Makes 100 Hands Idle.

MILAN, July 21.—An engagement ring worn by a girl employed at the Venice cotton mills has led to a strike of all the hands.

The mill girls left their work to examine the ring, and an overseer, in trying to get them back to their places, asked to discuss the question with the manager, but were told it was no business of theirs. They, too, left work, and there are now 1000 hands on strike.

AMBUSHED BY REBELS.

German Staff Surgeon and Thirty-five Native Followers Massacred.

BERLIN, July 21.—News has been received from German East Africa that the distinguished German staff surgeon, Dr. Viehe, and thirty-five native followers have been massacred by native rebels, under the warlike chief, N'Gosi, in the vicinity of Songea.

About three weeks ago Dr. Viehe and his followers had encamped in the forest, when the rebels sprang out of ambush and attacked them simultaneously on all sides. Before they had time to organize resistance all of them had been butchered.

FEDERATION OF LABOR

ENTERS POLITICS.

Campaign Matter Sent to All Unions in the States Calling Upon Workmen to Organize.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor today made good its decision of several months ago to enter the field of politics in the interest of trade union movement and to exert all members and friends of organized labor to work for the election of political office of men known to be favor- quarters of the Federation the council today issued its "campaign program" addressed "to all organized labor and friends in the United States." It sets out that the trade union movement has kept and proposes to keep pace with the rapid changes in industrial affairs and that the working people cannot hope to maintain their rights or a progressive position in the varying phases of modern society unless they organize, "and exercise all their functions, which, as workmen and citizens, it is their privilege and their duty to exercise."

FORTY PAUPERS

GO ON STRIKE.

But Threat of Fines Frightens Them Back to Work—Lack of Patatoes the Grievance.

WATERBURY, Conn., July 21.—Forty paupers in Brookside Home, the town poor house, went on strike early this morning and refused to go to work on the farm in the vegetable gardens. The reason they gave was that they were not properly fed.

James P. Morris, superintendent of the department of charities, tonight said the superintendent of Brookside, Patrick Brennan, had run short of potatoes and on account of delay in delivery it was necessary to leave potatoes off the breakfast menu.

This annoyed the inmates and they refused to go to work. After a delay of half a day the authorities threatened to fine the offenders, and this frightened them into submission. Mr. Brennan was ordered to keep a more generous supply of potatoes on hand to avoid such friction in the future.

LAWYERS HUNT BURGLAR.

Man Stole His Gun With Weapon Given Him by Woman.

PARIS, July 21.—A burglar named Negro was sentenced today in the courts here to five years' imprisonment and was being taken back to the cells when a woman rushed up, threw his arms around his neck, and kissed him repeatedly.

During her affectionate demonstration she managed to slip a knife into his hand. With this she stabbed his guard and fled.

Immediately there was an uproar, and all the court made after him. The lawyers, in case and gown, led the way, and recaptured the prisoner before he got out of the building. The woman was captured in the street.
