FAMOUS DWARF DEAD.

Joseph Cole. Who Was at One Time Star in the Late P. T. Barnum Collection Has Passed Away.

LONDON. Sept. 9 .- In the Hemel Hempstead workhouse has just passed away Joseph Cole, a dwarf, who had been exhibited all over the world in the great collection of freaks and oddities established by the late P. T. Barnum. The little man was of weak mind when admitted to the institution. and could not say what had become of his money. Only two feet seven inches high, he was, of course, above the record of some of the dwarfs of

The best specimen of dwarfdom Mr. Barnum possessed was one named "The Lilliputian King," exhibited at the museums in New York at 14 years of age, when he was 22 inches high and weighed only 17 pounds. But the great human curiosity was the late Charles Stratton, better known as ling, Fredericton. General Tom Thumb. Brought England by Barnum 61 years ago, this Fredericton midget created a furore such as was never known before and such as is not likely to be experienced again. Parliament has had its dwarf in the person of George Trout, a messenger, a than a yard high, with extremely short arms and legs, and an enormous and unnatural head. Peers and commoners sent him with messages, and the Usher of the Black Rod gave him three firsts, which gave him the race, several suits of clothes so that he Little Ben winning second money, might appear respectable in the lobby of the house of lords. Finding that he could obtain more money from the charitable by dressing shabbily, the Patchen, Will Be Sure, Daisy and Caplwarf pawned the presents and was finally barred from the precinct. In connection with the pigmies which have been brought here from Africa in the 50's, two bushmen were minutive of known races, the average height seldom exceeding four feet. The was 32 inches high, and the parents of the pair were said to have been murdered by Kaffirs who pursued and exterminated the bushmen people with unrelenting ferocity.

Truth and a woman's age are not on speaking terms. Just as the average man reaches for fame his pipe goes out. Women have no little troubles; they are all big, overgrown ones. No, Cordelia, the mint julep, isn't oined at the government mint. An old bachelor says that all perfect women are deaf, dumb and blind. It is easier to tell others how to make money than it is to make it yourself. But few men who attend to their own business die from overwork. Many a man looks heavenward only
