MEMORIES

The memories of life at U. N. B. which are so vivid at the end of the course when farewells are being said, may become blurred as time passes and other interests and activities take the centre of the stage. But occasionally the old scenes will come back - the old scenes with the old companions and their quips and whims will spring to life once again.

dent days were the most thrilling experiences - for many of you remember Anzio, Libya, Cologne and the different theatres of war. However, you will live over again those glorious student many will tell you how much you me advised of your address. days and student activities which will seem to you, as you look will be missed.
